MAN KILLED, BYSTANDER WOUNDED IN PISTOL FIGHT

W. A. Johnson, Twice Accused of Murder, Shot to Death in Lunchroom and Bar at 3610 Hebert Street by G. P. Varn.

SLAYER SAYS VICTIM FIRED AT HIM FIRST

Bartender Asserts He Feared Former Employer Would Kill Him—Henry Finkenkeller, Leaving Place, Hit by Two Bullets.

One man was killed, and a bystander was shot and seriously injured in a pistol fight last night in a lunch room and bar at 3610 Hebert street. The second combatant, who escaped injury, is being held by police.

The dead man was William A. Johnson, known to police as "One-Eye," twice accused of murder in the past 17 years and more recently proprietor of a home-brew establishment.

Henry Finkenkeller, 25-year-old hatmaker, 3858A Ashland avenue, who was leaving the Hebert street place when the altercation occurred, was shot in the right arm and right breast.

Gilder P. Varn, former bartender, at the place where the shooting occurred, admitted shooting Johnson, asserting he fired in self-defense. Police charge that one of his bullets also wounded Finkenkeller.

Slayer Says Victim Fired First.

Varn told policemen and reporters that Johnson had threatened his life and asserted Johnson fired at him twice last night before he drew his own weapon.

"I was home at 3731 (rear) Hebert street, with my wife and two children three days ago," he said, "when a man called me out and said: 'I got a message for you. Mr. W. A. Johnson sends the message that you got to get out of town or he'll kill you on sight.' I don't know who the man was. I never saw him before and he didn't tell me his name.

"Well, right then I started carrying a revolver. I bought a '.38 special' over in East St. Louis about three weeks ago.

Once Worked for Man He Shot.

"I only knew Johnson for a couple of months through hanging around the corner of Grand and Hebert. He had been around several times to get me to run a beer joint for him. I was bartender at 3610 until three weeks ago when the place was sold. Then I went over to work in Johnson's place, near Lincoln and Spring avenues, in a basement.

"He thought I could bring my friends in and build up a trade. But the boys figured there was no use in going so far when there were plenty of other good places nearer home. So business wasn't so good. We only took in $8 in a week, so after a week, I quit. And besides, he and his wife argued all the time. It got on my nerves. That was about a week ago."

Story of Killing.

Varn continued that he had been ill since receiving the telephoned threat and had been out of the house only twice. Last night he felt better, he said, and went to the lunchroom and bar to visit his cronies. Six or seven men were there, he said, when Johnson came in about 7:20 o'clock.

"He walked up to me and says: 'I'm goin' to get you,' and pulled out a gun and fired twice, but missed. I pushed him back with my left arm and he staggered back. I think he was drunk. Then I started shooting. I don't know how many times I fired.

"I never had any trouble with him before or over at his place and I don't know why he wanted to kill me."

Police reported Varn's revolver contained three discharged shells. Johnson's revolver, also a .38, was lying beside his body. It contained two discharged shells. Johnson was shot through the heart and the left hand. At Christian Hospital, where Finkenkeller was taken, physicians expressed the opinion that the same bullet had fractured his right arm and lodged in his chest.

Victim Accused of Murder.

Johnson was 44 years old, Varn, 39. Johnson was first accused of murder in 1914. Witnesses at his trial testified Johnson, who lived

German Manifesto Declaring Limits Of Privations Have Been Reached

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, June 6.

THE German manifesto calling upon the German people for new sacrifices and declaring that liberation from the "unbearable reparations burden is imperative," follows:

The expectation that the world economic crisis would ebb in 1931 and thereby relieve distress and unemployment in all industrial states and still more in the raw material and agricultural countries has proved deceptive. Germany is involved in the goods exchange of the world to the extent of 23,000,000,000 marks annually (approximately $5,750,000,000). It cannot save itself from the common distress under which even nations victorious in the war are suffering severely.

Our cares and difficulties are aggravated because, in addition to the general crisis in which we live, we have to carry the special burden of having to make payments as the vanquished in the World War.

These payments were undertaken on presuppositions which have not been realized and deprive our economic system, impoverished by the war and by inflation, of the capital it needs for its preservation and development. Deprivation of capital means the stoppage and restriction of plants, unemployment, diminution of private income and last, but not least, of the revenues of the state.

Weakened by Tribute Payments.

In addition, our purchasing power on the world's markets is diminished by the amounts we have to pay in reparations for which we do not receive any returns. Tribute payments weaken us as purchasers and compel us to restrict our imports. They compel us to increase exports against which other countries are raising stronger and stronger barriers. The consequence is embittered intensification of the struggle for the world's markets.

The Reich's Government is compelled to ask the German nation to shoulder most heavy burdens and sacrifices in order to maintain the Reich's solvency. This is a prerequisite for the continuity of Germany's economic system; from it depend the existences of millions of war veterans, the recipients of public relief, civil servants and employes.

Both here and abroad, the reproach has often been raised that we have not managed our affairs economically enough. This reproach, as far as Germany at the present juncture is concerned, is wrong. All along the line the strongest efforts have been made to throttle expenditure to the lowest bearable point. After the new emergency decrees have gone into effect, the Reich's expenditure, including the cuts of last year, will be less by the gigantic sum of 1,500,000,000 marks. So far as can be foreseen under present conditions, the Reich's budget for the current year will thereby be balanced. The firm will of the Reich's Government is that these emergency decrees shall be the last step towards that goal.

All Must Endure Hardships.

In view of the possibility that the crisis may continue, our strength must not be consumed by despair and discontent. It is the statesmanlike duty of the Government to make preparations now to master the coming difficulties. That this cannot be done without hardships affecting all classes of the population can readily be conceived by men of discernment.

It is better, even though it hurts, in orderly fashion to reduce outlays and demand contributions from those who still possess incomes than to run the the risk that payments upon which the subsistence of the broad masses rests can no longer be effected.

The German states and communes find themselves in a position similar to the Reich's. They, too, have economized drastically and will have to restrict themselves even more. The Government is under no illusions about the heaviness of the sacrifice the nation will make, but the maintenance of budget equilibrium and considerations for our economic system in view of its difficult position and the serious competition in the world market, justify the measures taken.

We have harnessed all our forces in order to meet our obligations incurred through losing the war. And we have had to call on foreign assistance in the widest measure to do this. This is no longer possible.

The putting forth of the last power and reserves of the nation entitles the German Government and makes it its duty towards the German people to tell the world: The limits of the privations we have imposed on our people have been reached.

Alleviations Are Unrealized.

The presumptions upon which the new plan came into being have been shown by the course of world development to have been wrong. The alleviations the new plan was to bring to the German people, as was the intent of the participants and which at first it gave promise of bringing, have failed to realize.

The Government is conscious of the fact that the direly menaced business and financial position of the Reich calls imperatively for alleviation from the unbearable reparations obligations. The economic recovery of the world depends upon it, too.

The German nation is engaged in a decisive struggle for its future. A government with a sense of responsibility must warn against the superstition that fruitful success can be obtained without sacrifice. If the German people has faith in its future, it must resolve to stake everything for it. Often Germans in their past history failed to perceive that in a critical situation, not a battle between the parties, but the will of the entire nation is decisive in holding out.

Such an hour has come. The Government cannot believe that the new generation has become so small-minded and the older so feeble that they are incapable of uniting in peaceable contest for our renascence to assert the greatness and idealism of the German nation as in previous fateful hours.

The Government will carry on with full confidence in the strength and will of the German people to live.

ALL OF ENGLAND SHAKEN BY EARTHQUAKE AT 1:30 A. M.

London Buildings Sway, Rumblings Reported at Hertfordshire; No Damage Reported.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 7 (Sunday). — England was shaken from one end to the other at 1:30 this morning by an earthquake which sent thousands of persons rushing into the streets.

No damage was reported but throughout the early hours of the morning messages poured into London from South Wales and from the Northern counties telling of the quake. Persons on night duty in buildings in the City of London felt them sway from the shock.

The West Bromwich Observatory recorded the tremor as of fairly long duration.

A report from Hertfordshire said the tremor woke the inhabitants there and it was accompanied by loud rumbling noises.

A heavy thunderstorm accompanied the quake. The sky was a peculiar color.

NAUTILUS 300 MILES OUT; CAPT. WILKINS REPORTS ALL WELL

Submarine Rolling Along Like Any Other Ship—Starboard Engine OK.

By SIR HUBERT WILKINS.

(Copyright, 1931.)

ABOARD SUBMARINE NAUTILUS, at sea, June 6.—(By Radio)—With about 300 miles behind us, the Nautilus is rolling along in a moderate sea. She rolls very much like any other ship—slow and easy—far different from the snappy, nasty roll of the Quest, the late Sir Ernest Shackleton's boat, on which I spent 12 months at sea.

The starboard engine has now settled down to work. It was used today to charge batteries while the port engine propelled the boat. Our steady run, making between eight and ten knots, was interrupted for a few minutes about noon while the engineers arranged the strainers for the special lubricating oil that keeps our engines turning smoothly.

With Crilley, our master diver, I have arranged the apparatus in the diving compartment, a section which will be used for the most important scientific work. In it there is the trap door that can be opened into the sea. In the door is a glass spy-hole through which we can look toward the bottom of the sea, even when the door is closed. Beneath us today, at less than a hundred fathoms, the water was lighted by the slanting rays of the sun. It was a beautiful shade of green.

The position of the Nautilus at 4 p. m. (E. S. T.), was latitude 41.45 north, longitude 63.42 west.

NAVAL OFFICER AND AID KILLED AS STILL BLOWS UP

Lieut. W. T. Smith, Said to Be From Belleville, Loses Life in Norfolk Apartment.

By the Associated Press.

NORFOLK, Va., June 6.—Explosion of distilling apparatus in the apartment of Lieut. W. T. Smith, 44 years old, assistant to the outside superintendent at the Norfolk Navy Yard this afternoon resulted in his death and that of O. E. Whilden, civilian employe at the Navy Yard.

A visitor in a neighboring apartment who heard the explosion met the two men staggering out with their clothing ablaze. He smothered the flames with wet blankets but both men died later at a hospital.

Police said there was evidence that a copper tank placed on the gas stove had blown up. They reported finding a quantity of what appeared to be mash and beer and jugs and bottles.

Lieut. Smith's home was said to be in Belleville, Ill. He resided in Chicago before joining the Navy and came here some time ago from Boston. Whilden was a resident of Portsmouth, Va., and during the war served as a Lieutenant in the Navy. Both men were married.

HOTEL GUEST CALLS 'HELP,' THEN LEAPS OUT WINDOW

Man Who Thought Someone Was Shooting at Him Suffering From Alcoholism.

"Help," shouted a man in a second story window of the Maryland Hotel, Ninth and Pine streets, late yesterday afternoon. "Somebody's shooting at me. Help! Help! Help!"

A traffic policeman on the corner dashed up to the room, No. 217 and forced the locked door. The room was empty. The occupant had jumped out the window.

At City Hospital, where he identified himself as John Hughes, a builder of Berkley, Mich., physicians asserted the room's former occupant was suffering from alcoholism, but was unhurt by the 18-foot fall from the window.

In the room police found a letter to "Dear Laura," which started: "Everything in St. Louis is fine. Am having a good time." The next line, hurriedly scribbled was "will write you later as I am rather rushed."

OIL MAGNATE'S $65,000 PLANE SEIZED; LIQUOR FOUND ABOARD

E. P. Halliburton, Los Angeles, and Pilot Arrested on Arrival From Texas.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, June 6.—E. P. Halliburton, Los Angeles and Oklahoma millionaire oil man, and Frank Glennan, his pilot, were arrested today and released under $2500 bond each, after Federal customs agents said they discovered 10 cases of liquor in Halliburton's luxurious $65,000 monoplane.

Halliburton and Glennan were ordered to appear before a United States Commissioner Tuesday to answer charges of violating the tariff act.

Charles Saltar, acting customs collector, said the plane would be held pending a decision on whether charges would be filed against Halliburton. Agents searched the luxuriously furnished aircraft upon its arrival at Municipal Airport from El Paso, Tex.

How Income Secret Service Men Ran Down Capone Gang And Finally Got the Leader

ORDER FOR ACTION FROM HIGH SOURCE

Gangster Chief Himself Trapped, After Seeing His Pals One by One Nabbed for Income Tax Evasion.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Two years of ceaseless and painstaking secret service work upon the part of field agents of the United States Intelligence Unit of the Bureau of Internal Revenue brought about the indictment in Chicago this week of "Scarface Al" Capone, the country's most notorious gangster.

Facing a stiff penitentiary sentence for income-tax frauds, the man who defied law and order in Chicago for 10 years owes his plight to little bits of incriminating evidence, documentary and otherwise, left here and there at various times in his career. A coded entry in a night-club book, harmless enough at the time; a real estate transaction; the purchase of bonds or other like business became, under the hands of the Government agents, damning bits of evidence when laid before the grand jury which returned the indictments.

The order to make an income tax evasion case against "Scarface" Al came from a source so high in Government circles that extraordinary efforts were applied to the investigation.

Record Shows Profits.

Early last year a book record showing distribution of profits from the Hawthorne Smoke Shop, a gambling house in Cicero, suburb of Chicago, was seized in the raid of another house in Cicero. The smoke shop raid provided the needed evidence to show Capone's connection with it.

Study of the record disclosed carefully kept accounts of profits and losses and division of profits from time to time. Recapitulation for one season showed net profits of $153,000, and distribution of this sum was made, according to the record, to "J. and A.," "Ralph," "Pete," "Frank" and "Dion." The Federal agents concluded that "J. and A." meant Jake Guzik and Al Capone, and the other names, Ralph Capone, Pete Penovich, Frank Pope and Dion O'Banion the florist who was assassinated by rival gangsters in his flower shop five years ago. All were known to have been partners of Capone in his gambling enterprises.

Penovich had kept these books and he was called by the grand jury to decode some of the entries kept in cipher or by initial.

Gunmen Before Grand Jury.

Louis LaCava, now of Cleveland, O., who fled from Chicago when he believed himself about to be "put on the spot" by Capone, had been a gambling house guard and gunman for Capone. He also was brought back before the grand jury, as was Louis Alterie, better known as "Two-gun Louie," who had fled to Colorado when things got too warm for him in Chicago.

Other witnesses were citizens of Cicero and Berwyn. They saw the raid on the smoke shop and saw Capone appear and take command of the situation, directing the cashier to take charge of the money.

Alterie's testimony evidently was not satisfactory, for he was indicted for perjury. Another potential witness is Louis Greenberg, pawnbroker and banker for Capone. He is to be used by the Government at a trial, rather than before a grand jury.

The upshot of the testimony together with the book record of profits and how they were shared, established Capone's financial interest in the Hawthorne Smoke Shop, and as he had made no income tax return showing income from that source, the case became plain for the grand jury.

Greenberg comes into the picture through the purchase by Capone of a magnificent winter home on Palm Island at Miami, Fla. The ownership of this property is in the name of Capone's wife.

BORAH SUPPORTS GERMAN PLEA ON REPARATIONS

No Advantage in Forcing Nation's Economic Breakdown — Denounces European Armaments as Promoting Depression.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Germany's declaration of inability to meet reparations payments today drew a demand from Chairman Borah of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for a cut in the Germany war burden.

Borah assailed heavy armaments of the other European nations and blamed them in part for the European depression and Germany's financial plight. He declared the armaments violated the Versailles treaty.

Significance was added to Borah's pronouncement in view of his recent conference on the European situation with President Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson.

While the administration maintained silence on the new European developments it was recalled that President Hoover in a speech before the International Chamber of Commerce called upon foreign powers to reduce their armaments.

Secretary Stimson went into consultation with economic experts but as he did so he made it plain again that the United States did not consider the reparations problem linked in any way with the war debts due to this country by European nations.

War Loans Not Affected.

Consequently, the door was regarded as closed to any international parley on finances which might involve America's war loans. Nevertheless American interest in the European situation was seen in Secretary Stimson's recent decision to visit the continent this summer.

"Revision of the reparations settlement," Senator Borah said, "seems to me to be expedient economically and also fundamentally just. Nothing is to be gained by the nations to whom reparations are due and nothing is to be gained by anyone in forcing Germany into a complete economic breakdown.

"Assuming Germany could have met her reparations obligations according to the Young plan had conditions continued favorable, yet in the light of the late depression it would seem impossible for her to do so now.

"No nation ought to want to grind down into unspeakable misery the working people of Germany and there is where the great weight of this burden is falling. The great middle class families are being sacrificed. That is a calamity the evil of which, to say nothing of its inhumanity, no tongue can properly express.

Blames Armaments.

"In considering this question of reparations revision and the ability of the German people to pay, it ought not to be overlooked that one of the great contributing causes of the depression in Europe and which has made it more difficult for Germany to meet her obligations is the constantly increasing burden of armaments superinduced by the nations other than Germany and in violation of the clear intent of the Versailles treaty.

"It was agreed and understood that the disarming of Germany should be the beginning of the disarming of Europe. Had that followed or if they had not greatly increased their armaments, economic conditions in Europe would have been much better and Germany would have been in a much better way to meet her reparations."

MODIFICATION OF WAR DEBTS IS CALLED FOR BY GERMANY

Government in Announcing $400,000,000 New Tax Levy Calls It "Last Effort" to Meet Reparations Payments.

COLLAPSE OF YOUNG PLAN IS ALLEGED

Added Assessments Hit Virtually Everyone — Manifesto Explains Situation to People and to Nation's Creditors.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, June 6.—The German Government, decreeing today new taxes totaling approximately $400,000,000 upon its people, described the measure as "one last effort" and declared that the financial position of the country "calls imperatively for alleviation of the unbearable reparations obligations."

The decrees promulgating the new taxes, left behind by Chancellor Heinrich Bruening as he departed for the Anglo-German conference at London, were published today by President Paul Von Hindenburg. With their publication, the Government issued a manifesto which sought both to explain to the people the necessity for the additional taxes and also to apprise Germany's creditors of the financial situation which the country has reached.

The manifesto referred specifically to the "imperative" need for a modification of the reparations.

"The economic recovery of the world depends upon it, too," the manifesto declared. "The German nation is engaged in a decisive struggle for its future."

No Relief in Young Plan.

Assumptions on which the Young plan was based have proved erroneous, the plan itself has given no relief and the time has come to tell the world that the reparations burden must be eased, the manifesto said.

There is no other way out, Hermann Dietrich, the Finance Minister, said in discussing the decrees.

"We can and shall pay our debts," he said, "but we shall have a mighty hard time."

Any discussion of a moratorium is a matter to be considered at Chequers, where Chancellor Bruening is conferring with Prime Minister MacDonald, he said, and discussion of possible assistance from the World Bank is "too dangerous a subject" to approach now.

Dietrich professed to see no improvement of Germany's situation and he emphasized the lack of liquid capital to inject new life into trade and industry. He denied that the poor man is harder hit than the rich by the new taxation decrees, and he said that restricted imports have placed home-grown rye on the market to the almost complete exclusion of foreign grain. The same thing will happen, he predicted, to minerals and oils.

Fourth Step in 12 Months.

It was the fourth time in 12 months that the economy ax has fallen in Germany. Today's decrees affect incomes and earnings and impose additional taxes on sugar, tobacco and petroleum, while even the drawers of the dole are also made to feel its pinch.

The salaries of civil servants were cut drastically. Half of the additional $400,000,000 income is expected to come from salary reductions, reductions of amounts allotted for public relief and other financial readjustments, while the other half is to come from supplementary taxes, including taxes on earned and unearned income.

Only those totally disabled in the World War are exempt from the effects of the decrees. For those unemployed persons who participate in the dole, the preliminary period, necessary to elapse before they become entitled to assistance, is extended and the period during which relief is granted is shortened.

Income Taxes Hit Everyone.

The supplementary income taxes will hit practically everybody living in Germany.

On earned incomes the tax ranges from 1 per cent on salaries of 3600 marks (about $864) a year to 5 per cent on salaries of 36,000 marks (about $8640).

The Government declared it would seek authority from the Reichstag to introduce a 40-hour working week and to make ever-

BRUNK DEFENSE LIKELY TO CLOSE ITS CASE TUESDAY

SENATE'S VERDICT FRIDAY OR SATURDAY

Witnesses for Accused Official Thus Far Have Failed to Materially Weaken Evidence of Prosecutors.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 6.—With State Treasurer Larry Brunk's own explanation of his relations with the defunct Bank of Aurora and with the sale of Pierre Chouteau apartment house bonds to State depositories to be used as security for State deposits, the defense in the Brunk impeachment trial before the Senate probably will be concluded Tuesday evening. The prosecution then probably will take a daye for rebuttal testimony, the case will be argued for a day, and a decision of the Senate may be expected by Friday or Saturday.

It is upon his own testimony, in addition to the advantage he will have from the political influences, which are inevitable in impeachment trials, that Brunk must rely, the other defense witnesses having failed to materially weaken the circumstantial case built up by the prosecutors from the House of Representatives.

The House managers proved that the State was defrauded of $4900 of interest by the Bank of Aurora; that $650 of this amount was applied on indebtedness of Brunk to the bank; that incorrect interest remittances were accepted without protest from the State Treasurer's office; that Brunk frequently visited the Bank of Aurora and had confidential talks with the officers; that he on one occasion examined the notes on which credits were entered for the amounts taken from the diverted State interest, and that he told E. R. Adams, president of the bank, that if Adams told Gov. Caulfield that Brunk knew of the special account created by the diversion of interest money, "it will ruin me."

Evidence on Conspiracy Charge.

On the charge of conspiracy in connection with the sale of Pierre Chouteau bonds, the prosecution has shown that William H. Norwine, described by nearly every witness as a "high-powered bond salesman," had in his possession a list of the securities State depositories had on deposit with the Treasurer; that he represented to depositories that, if they would sell their Government bonds and purchase Pierre Chouteau bonds, Brunk would permit them to increase their deposits and would not draw on them; that Norwine had a letter from Brunk approving the bonds; that Brunk accepted them as security for deposits; that Brunk has frequent conferences with Norwine and with J. Kenneth Edlin, Chicago bond dealer by whom Norwine was employed, and that some time after the sale of the Pierre Chouteau bonds had stopped, Brunk accepted $10,000 from Edlin, whom he had known less than two years, in the form of a loan, which was unsecured.

On the charge that Brunk accepted money for official favors, the prosecutors showed that during the first two years he was in office Brunk deposited approximately $29,000 in the First National Bank in Jefferson City, and approximately $13,000 in the Commerce Trust Co., in Kansas City, and that in that period the total amount of his salary, fees and expenses, for which he was reimbursed by the State, was less than $14,000.

Testimony About "Rent Account".

The prosecution failed by direct evidence to establish a personal knowledge by Brunk of the existence of the "Brunk rent account," the special account in the Bank of Aurora, in which the cashier of the bank, M. T. Easley, placed a part of the State interest money diverted from the State Treasury, relying upon circumstantial evidence to trace knowledge to Brunk. This evidence was that, after the failure of the bank, Brunk, when in conference with bank examiners, had a list of his notes due the bank, the balances agreeing with those of the notes the examiners had, which contained credits for the $650 paid from diverted interest; the testimony of one bank official that he went over the notes with Brunk and that Brunk examined the notes containing the credits, and the testimony of Adams that he thought Brunk knew of the account. There also was testimony of an officer of the bank to the effect that Easley told him he 'had an arrangement with Brunk by which Brunk's indebtedness would be taken care of.

While Edlin in his testimony unequivocally denied any arrangement with Brunk and that Brunk assisted in the sale of the bonds, he proved an unsatisfactory defense witness because of the frequency of his lapses of memory, and contradictions in his testimony as to the dates of his meeting with Brunk. His testimony showed that he met Brunk very often, and at the time the prosecution charges he was in a conspiracy with Brunk, he lent Brunk $1000 followed a year later by the $10,000 loan.

Many Character Witnesses.

Much of the defense testimony so far has been by character witnesses, the defense having brought many business men from Aurora to testify that Brunk bore a good reputation for honesty and fair dealing.

Chief of these was M. T. Davis, a retired banker and merchant, who was chairman of the Missouri World's Fair Commission in 1904. Davis testified that Brunk had the confidence of the people of Aurora and be believed that if Brunk were acquitted "at least 95 per cent of the citizens of Aurora would join in a mass meeting for rejoicing."

Not all of the character witnesses were of assistance to the defense, however. After E. B. Samuels, a real estate dealer in Aurora, had testified to Brunk's good reputation, the prosecution developed by cross-examining him that he was a director in the Bank of Aurora at the time it was closed by the State Finance Commissioner, and that within two days before the closing he withdrew $5600 his wife had on deposit in the bank by signing her name to checks. The transaction was somewhat involved, the witness testifying that five days before the bank closed Easley deposited about $5000, which he owed Mrs. Samuels, to her credit, and then reborrowed it, Samuels giving him a check for $5500, and taking an assignment of a policy of insurance on Easley's life. Another $1000 was withdrawn and deposited in another bank, leaving only $9 on deposit to Mrs. Samuels' credit in the Bank of Aurora when it was closed. The witness insisted that he had no knowledge the bank was in a failing condition when this transaction took place.

The Pierre Chouteau Bonds.

The defense frequently during the trial has attempted to show that Brunk's troubles were due to an unfriendly attitude on the part of Attorney-General Shartel and Finance Commissioner Cantley. In defense of Brunk's approval of the Pierre Chouteau bonds the attempt was made to show that Shartel had approved the bonds in an official opinion, and that the State Insurance Department had approved them for deposit in the reserves of life insurance companies. It developed, however, that Shartel's approval was for bonds of the general character of the Pierre Chouteaus, and limited to bonds representing not to exceed 50 per cent of the value of the property It is contended by the prosecution that the Pierre Chouteau issue was in excess of 50 per cent. The defense has thrown some doubt on this by offering evidence of appraisals placing a higher valuation on the property than that placed by the prosecution.

Also, an attempt was made to show that Cantley had refused to permit a reorganization of the Bank of Aurora because Brunk would have a part in it. This attempt was wrecked by the cross-examination of Davis, who testified the reorganization failed because of the discovery of additional discrepancies in the bank, necessitating the procuring of a much larger amount of money than the reorganizers could get. Davis said he has no complaint as to Cantley's actions.

Thompson Refused His OK.

The effort to show approval by the Insurance Department also met disaster. State Insurance Superintendent Thompson said he had refused to approve the bonds, but that afterward, when he was out of the city, J. A. Rathbun, deputy superintendent, had written a letter of approval. He testified that this letter was written after Rathbun had been notified he was to be replaced in his position, and was only four days before Rathbun retired from the department. Thompson testified that he did not even know of the existence of the Rathbun letter until he was summoned to produce a copy of it, when by a search he found it in the files.

The fact that the defense knew of the letter was turned to the advantage of the State by Senator Donnelly, who by a series of questions developed the theory that Brunk's knowledge of the letter, when apparently nobody else knew of it, was evidence that he had obtained his information from Norwine, to whom the letter was given.

When the Senate impeachment court adjourned Friday until Monday afternoon, John G. Madden, Brunk's attorney, said he expected to complete the introduction of defense testimony by Tuesday evening.

Karl White, Designer, Leaps to Safety When Flying North of Lambert Field.

Karl H. White, a designer for the Curtiss-Wright Airplane Co., Lambert-St. Louis Field, jumped safely with a parachute from a light airplane he was testing after it fell about 2300 feet out of control four miles north of the flying field yesterday afternoon.

The plane came to earth upside down in a ploughed field about 300 feet from White, who abandoned the plane at an altitude of 700 feet. Its rudder and left wing were damaged slightly.

MADISON MAN SLUGGED IN REPORTED KIDNAPING ATTEMPT

Herman Schermer Reports He Was Attacked By Two Men on Getting Into Auto.

Herman Schermer, proprietor of a department store at Twelfth and Madison streets, in Madison, was slugged at 9:30 o'clock last night by two men in what he told police he believed to bea kidnaping attempt. The men, waiting in the back seat of Schermer's sedan in front of his store, covered him with pistols when he got into the car to go home.

He showed fight and shouted for help. The men fled after trying ineffectually to subdue him. A physician later treated him for severe lacerations of the scalp. Schermer also is president of the Madison Building and Loan Association.

POET OGDEN NASH WEDS GIRL HE COMPLAINED OF IN VERSE

Miss Frances Leonard of Baltimore Says "Yes" at Last.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 6.—Ogden Nash, young New York versifier, wrote in the introductory couplet of his latest book:

What shall I do with so and so,
She won't say yes and she won't say no.

"So and so"—otherwise Miss Frances Leonard—said yes today. She became the bride of Nash at the Church of the Redeemer.

Miss Leonard, who is a graduate of the Barrington School, also studied in Paris. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wirt Leonard, a grand-daughter of the late Gov. and Mrs. E. E. Jackson of Maryland, and a member of the Junior League. She made her debut here in 1927.

Nash, former student at Harvard, is 28 years old. His book is called the emancipation proclamation of would-be poets, who have hitherto harbored the delusion that poetry must follow some law of rhyme or meter. He has succeeded in getting what he considers a rhyme for "John D. Jr." It is: "Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania."

ADAMS TELLS HOOVER OF $10,000,000 SAVING

Navy's Expenses Cut by Decommissioning Destroyers; Conference at Camp.

By the Associated Press.

ORANGE, Va., June 6.—Secretary Adams today informed President Hoover at a Rapidan Camp conference that savings during the current fiscal year in the Navy Department had amounted to $10,000,000 and that preliminary estimates for next year indicate they will run from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000.

It was determined that the island of Guam is no longer of any military value and that all activities there will be reduced to the minimum required by the Civil Government.

The navy appropriation for last year was $380,000,000 and for the coming fiscal year $360,101,000.

Most of the savings this year resulted from decommissioning a number of destroyers and reassigning a number of battleships. Through this operation 4800 men whose enlistments expired were not replaced. The navy last August had 84,500 enlisted men and at the present time has approximately 79,700.

A statement from official sources said every division of the navy was covered for economies that could be effected without sacrificing efficiency. Exhaustive studies, it was said, are being conducted with a view of increasing savings without danger to employment or inefficiency in training.

Secretary Adams came to the camp in an autogiro plane with Assistant Secretary Ingalls at the controls.

President Hoover arrived at camp yesterday afternoon making an unannounced and hurried departure from the White House. He spent the morning working on a speech which he will deliver about the middle of this month.

Mrs. Hoover was accompanied to camp this morning by her son, Allan Hoover, who is home from Harvard where he is taking a post-graduate course in the business school.

Representative Simmons of Nebraska and Mrs. Simmons and Hugh Gibson, Ambassador to Belgium, were guests.

Chief among the topics discussed was the possibility of abandoning a number of shore stations considered useless by the navy. A concentration of activities in certain strategic centers also was discussed.

Neither President Hoover nor Secretary Adams felt there was any need for reduction of navy personnel or for any delay in building the navy's strength up to the limits set by the London arms conference.

Ambassador Gibson and Admiral Pratt, chief of Naval Operations. Other navy officials, in addition to Adams and Ingalls, at the conference included Assistant Secretary Jahncke and Rear Admiral McLean.

at 2000 Olive street, chased his wife from the place with a pistol. George Walters of Millstadt, Ill., attempted to intervene, and in the struggle, was killed. Johnson was acquitted.

The second charge of murder was made in April, 1921, when William Regan, bartender in a saloon at 2900 Olive street, was killed by one of five men who had been drinking there. A Coroner's jury named Johnson and another man as the slayers in a homicide verdict. Johnson disappeared. The other man established his innocence and was not indicted. In 1924, Johnson was arrested in Detroit, Mich., for the murder, but the Circuit Attorney's office reported the witnesses could not be found and he was released.

DR. E. J. LEE FIRED AT CITY HOSPITAL; 'POLITICS,' HE SAYS

Action for "Good of Service," Says Public Welfare Director Salisbury — Dr. Lohr Brought Charges.

Declaring that "experience, education and merit do not enter into the qualifications" of the Superintendent of City Hospital, Dr. Elbert J. Lee Jr. announced last night his dismissal from that position by Director of Public Welfare Salisbury.

Dr. Lee, who succeeded Dr. Eugene Scharff as Superintendent June 15, 1929, was discharged yesterday "for the good of the service," Director Salisbury said. Charges filed by Dr. C. H. Lohr, Hospital Commissioner, alleging unsatisfactory administration of personnel and certain hospital departments are known to have preceded the order of dismissal.

"It is indeed a pleasure," Dr. Lee said, last night in a written statement, "to be forced to relinquish a position where experience, education and merit do not enter into the qualifications, but where personal enmity and political aspirations of one's immediate supervisors are the essential controlling factors."

While Dr. Lee withheld comment on that phase of the matter, it is known that an unfriendly feeling existed between Hospital Commissioner Lohr and the City Hospital Superintendent. At the time of Dr. Lohr's appointment as Hospital Commissioner in 1929, Dr. Lee, then superintendent at the City Sanitarium, was considered for the office. His appointment to City Hospital, in effect a promotion from the Sanitarium post, did not meet entirely with Dr. Lohr's approval, friends of Dr. Lee understand.

Dr. Lee's Statement.

In his apartment at the Coronado Hotel Dr. Lee made the following statement to a Post-Dispatch reporter:

"Hospital Commissioner Lohr filed charges with Director Salisbury regarding my administration at City Hospital and also the City Sanitarium. These charges were a conglomeration of misstatements.

"There was no real reason for a complaint concerning my work at City Hospital, so the Hospital Commissioner apparently believed he could make his charges more effective by bringing into the picture the history of my four years' service at the Sanitarium, at which time he was superintendent at Isolation Hospital. The charges show he had no adequate knowledge of the workings of the sanitarium on which to base a just criticism.

"Mayor Miller, informing me of the charges at the time, requested that I answer them when he returned from Europe. He assured me no action would be taken about the matter until then. I agreed if I did not answer every charge to his entire satisfaction, I would resign.

Four Days After Mayor Sailed.

"Four days after Mayor Miller sailed, Director Salisbury requested my resignation, effective June 1. I refused it. In reply, on May 21, he discharged me, without further discussion or investigation.

"It is a fact that my appointment to City Hospital was unsolicited, and, I was informed, was directly the result of my success at City Sanitarium.

"The Director of Public Welfare and the Hospital Commissioner, for the last year and a half, have made strenuous efforts to get me out of the City Hospital. This was plainly manifested in April, 1930, by the introduction of a bill, passed by the Board of Aldermen, reducing my salary from $4000 a year to $3000 a year, and changing my title to Assistant Superintendent. Later a new bill was passed restoring my title and salary.

"Every effort has been made by those two men to render my stay impossible. I realized, however, that I was being judged by standards erected by the Director of Public Welfare and the Hospital Commissioner, and due to my loyalty to the present administration and in response to my friends' requests, I remained."

Prior to his appointment to the City Sanitarium in 1925, Dr. Lee was connected with the United States Public Health Service.

Neither Dr. Lohr nor Director Salisbury could be reached last night for a statement.

Modification of War Debts Called for by Germany time dependent on a special permit from local authorities. A variety of measures are proposed for relieving agricultural distress and the Government also announced it would sponsor legislation aimed at "freeing trade and industry from too rigid fetters," imposed by trusts and corporations in matters of production for price agreements.

The manifesto issued with the tax decrees declared the Government was under no illusions regarding the severity of the sacrifices to be demanded from the nation. Individual hardships, it said, are unavoidable, but "it is better to take from those who have than to risk discovering some day that we cannot meet our liabilities. We have done everything possible to meet them, and have taken up much foreign capital, but this is no longer possible."

Domestic Budgets Revised.

In countless German homes tonight domestic budgets were being revamped and the question of making both ends meet was being reviewed, often with anxiety. Every householder has been hard hit in the pocket and it seems doubtful whether the explanation offered actually made the ordinary citizen any more reconciled to his fate.

Practically all Berlin newspapers find fault, in one way or another, with the decrees. In the Vossische Zeitung, Secretary of State Hermann Puender calls them "Bruening's visiting card for Chequers."

The industrialist Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung declares the limit of the nation's capacity, instead of being reached, as the Government's manifesto put it, is already overstepped.

Biggest Protest on Income Tax.

The sugar tax was doubled, the petroleum tax nearly doubled, but it is the additions to the income tax that have raised the chief source of protest.

Demands for revision of the Young plan immediately became more forceful and insistent. The press and public comment agree that the Young plan is the root of the trouble and that relief in some shape must be found from the reparations burdens if the country is to be saved.

The clamor for a reconvocation of Parliament also grew loud today. The Reichstag Council of Elders called a meeting for June 10 to consider various demands for the reassembling of the House before the appointed time next October.

The only unperturbed spot in Berlin today was the Boerse, which was reported "quietly steady."

By the Young plan the German reparations debt was placed at approximately $9,000,000,000 extending over a period of 59 years with varying annuities, bringing the total amount in goods and money, to nearly $24,000,000,000, including interest.

Under this report the German annuities were reduced from approximately $600,000,000 to an average of about $492,000,000 for 37 years, while the annuities for the last 22 years were placed at approximately $408,000,000 subject to the profits of the Bank for International Settlements subsequently set up at Basel, Switzerland. Payments for the first 37 years represented interest and amortization on the total debt while the payments for the last 22 years were to meet the allied debts to the United States.

It was provided that should the United States ever cancel any part of these allied debts, two-thirds would go toward reduction of the German payments with the other third benefiting the allies.

In addition provision was made for certain payments which might be postponed should Germany suffer another economic crisis such as once caused her to default in her payments.

Bruening and MacDonald Talk Over Germany's Difficulties.

By the Associated Press.

CHEQUERS, England, June 6.—The heads of the British and German Governments met here today to talk over Germany's economic plight.

Chancellor Heinrich Bruening sought Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's assistance in sounding out Germany's creditors, including the United States, regarding postponement of some of the heavy reparations payments.

Foreign Minister Julius Curtius and Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson talked together of the matters most intimately connected with their offices, while Bruening and MacDonald strolled arm in arm through the garden of the Prime Minister's estate.

Those who have followed the interchanges preceding the visit of the German statesmen were inclined to think that MacDonald had given Bruening words of encouragement coupled with a promise to see which way the wind blows among the creditor nations.

The Young plan provides that Germany may give 90 days' notice of inability to meet certain payments, sometimes described as the "postponeable" payments, which were written into the plan to tide Germany over such economic crises as she now faces.

There was reason to believe that MacDonald might be exceedingly careful in committing himself, because yesterday's report by the Unemployment Commission, recommending reductions in the dole payments has precipitated what may amount to a crisis within the ranks of the Government Labor party.

Before he arrived at chequers the German Chancellor said he intended to speak frankly of the economic difficulties which every nation faces, and particularly of the difficulties in Germany.

His country had reduced expenses in every possible way, he said, and the measures necessary to evolve a sound financial policy had laid heavy burdens on every stratum of the German population.

Two Youths Take Money From Open Safe in Presence of Officer, Bookkeeper and Customers.

A payroll of $1400 was stolen in a holdup at the Metropolitan Cleaning Co., 1710 North Garrison avenue, yesterday.

Two poorly dressed young men entered the offices of the concern at 12:30 p. m., pointed revolvers at Herbert Schemme, vice president, two customers and a woman bookkeeper, ordering them to hold up their hands.

"Show us where the money is, and no one will get hurt," one robber directed.

The bookkeeper indicated an open safe, from which the robbers took the payroll currency. They then ran out, and drove away in an automobile, which they had parked at the curb.

Employes in the cleaning plant, to the rear of the offices, were not aware of the holdup until after the robbers fled. The loss was insured.

GORGE OF COLUMBIA RIVER LIGHTED TO GUIDE AIRMEN

Salt Lake-Seattle Flyers, Instead of Fighting Fog, May Go Through Virtual Tunnel.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Flyers on the Salt Lake City-Seattle Airway may no longer fear fog hanging over the Columbia River gorge. Instead of fighting heavy clouds high in the air, they now can descend to the gorge, flying through what is virtually a tunnel for a distance of 50 miles.

The airways division of the Commerce Department announced today the placing of 21 lights on each side of the gorge low enough to guide airmen under an altitude of 250 feet, which often is the ceiling in this section. One side of the gorge is marked with gheen lights, the other with red. The announcement said fog frequently blankets the surrounding area, but that wind current in the lower part of the gorge keep it free from fog, enabling airmen to cover the distance when flights over the top would be impossible.

COURT DISCUSSION OVER HANDLING OF HAMILTON-BROWN

SAYS OPERATING LOSS CONTINUES

Receiver Declares Best Interests Are Served by Keeping Company Going and Employes at Work.

More than a year after the instituting of the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co. receivership, interested lawyers are at odds over the policy followed by Receiver William R. Gentry, and approved by Federal Judge Davis of maintaining the company as a going concern.

In a discussion before Judge Davis last Friday afternoon, Frank H. Sullivan of the law firm of Jones, Hocker, Sullivan & Angert, representing the creditor bank which filed the receivership suit, and representing also several Hamilton-Brown stockholders, declared the company had sustained operating losses of about $1,200,000 since the receivership began. He said that each of the 12 months of receivership operation had shown a loss.

Sullivan said that the receiver had paid off the company's general creditors, whose claims at the beginning of the receivership totaled $2,688,308, not from any profits made in operation, but from the liquidation of its assets. He said that the receiver, through collection of open accounts, had reduced this item of the assets by more than $1,000,000, and had applied the proceeds to paying the creditors, also that merchandise, raw materials and products on hand were sold and their proceeds applied in the same manner. Sullivan estimates that about $500,000 worth of such good is now on hand.

Says Stockholders Lose.

The result of the policy pursued, Sullivan said, is that the creditors have been paid, but that the heavy operating loss must be borne by the stockholders. The capitalization of the company, once the largest of St. Louis, shoe manufacturing houses, is $5,000,000. Assets listed at the beginning of the receivership totaled $7,891,256.

Sullivan said that at the beginning of the receivership he urged the Court and the receiver to liquidate the companys' holdings. His advice was not accepted at the time, but, he said, what he suggested was being done, nevertheless, the difference being that by continuing the business, instead of closing it out, operating losses had been piled up against the stockholders. If the company had been liquidated outright, he said, something could have been realized for the stockholders.

Receiver Gentry and the company's attorney, Luke E. Hart, replying to Sullivan, said it was true that the company had lost money in its monthly operations, as shown by a succession of reports to the Court.

"But it is a fact," Gentry added, "that this company has not lost more than other corporations no in receivership have lost in th same period. The company now has $460,000 cash on hand."

The receiver argued also that service of value had been per formed in keeping the Hamilton-Brown Co. going, and keeping it employes at work, in the period o depression when some of them, i discharged could not find othe employment.

It is the view of the receiver an of the Court, that the sale of as sets, while the company has bee maintained as a going concern, ha been much more productive than forced sale, for immediate liquida tion, would have been.

Opposed $50,000 Fee Claim.

The discussion of the company finances was occasioned by an ap plication, filed by Attorney Sulli van, for an allowance of $50,00 for his firm, as fees in the recei ership case. Gentry and Hart op posed this allowance, declaring th Sullivan and his clients had n co-operated with the receiver an had harassed him in his efforts t bring the company out of its dif ficulties.

Detailed figures on the monthl operations, mentioned in the argu ments, are not at present in th public records of the Court. It expected that the essential figure will appear in the receiver's fin report, to be filed upon the termi nation of the receivership, which looked for this summer.

A survey of the company's bus ness and finance was made la September and October by th New York firm of Miller, Frankl & Co., business experts, as a co of $16,000. The recommendatio made by the experts were ma known to the receiver, to Judg Davis, and to interested lawye who were enjoined to secrecy, a it was held that, for business re sons, the document could not b made public.

Receiver Gentry stated, after r ceiving the report, that it recom mended continuance of the bus ness as a going concern, and re ommended also the sales of tw

COURT DISCUSSION OVER HANDLING OF HAMILTON-BROWN

Receiver Declares Best Interests Are Served by Keeping Company Going and Employes at Work.

More than a year after the instituting of the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co. receivership, interested lawyers are at odds over the policy followed by Receiver William R. Gentry, and approved by Federal Judge Davis of maintaining the company as a going concern.

In a discussion before Judge Davis last Friday afternoon, Frank H. Sullivan of the law firm of Jones, Hocker, Sullivan & Angert, representing the creditor bank which filed the receivership suit, and representing also several Hamilton-Brown stockholders, declared the company had sustained operating losses of about $1,200,000 since the receivership began. He said that each of the 12 months of receivership operation had shown a loss.

Sullivan said that the receiver had paid off the company's general creditors, whose claims at the beginning of the receivership totaled $2,688,308, not from any profits made in operation, but from the liquidation of its assets. He said that the receiver, through collection of open accounts, had reduced this item of the assets by more than $1,000,000, and had applied the proceeds to paying the creditors, also that merchandise, raw materials and products on hand were sold and their proceeds applied in the same manner. Sullivan estimates that about $500,000 worth of such good is now on hand.

Says Stockholders Lose.

The result of the policy pursued, Sullivan said, is that the creditors have been paid, but that the heavy operating loss must be borne by the stockholders. The capitalization of the company, once the largest of St. Louis shoe manufacturing houses, is $5,000,000. Assets listed at the beginning of the receivership totaled $7,891,256.

Sullivan said that at the beginning of the receivership he urged the Court and the receiver to liquidate the companys' holdings. His advice was not accepted at the time, but, he said, what he suggested was being done, nevertheless, the difference being that by continuing the business, instead of closing it out, operating losses had been piled up against the stockholders. If the company had been liquidated outright, he said, something could have been realized for the stockholders.

Receiver Gentry and the company's attorney, Luke E. Hart, replying to Sullivan, said it was true that the comfpany had lost money in its monthly operations, as shown by a succession of reports to the Court.

"But it is a fact," Gentry added, "that this company has not lost more than other corporations not in receivership have lost in the same period. The company now has $460,000 cash on hand."

The receiver argued also that a service of value had been performed in keeping the Hamilton-Brown Co. going, and keeping its employes at work, in the period of depression when some of them, if discharged could not find other employment.

It is the view of the receiver and of the Court, that the sale of assets, while the company has been maintained as a going concern, has been much more productive than a forced sale, for immediate liquidation, would have been.

Opposed $50,000 Fee Claim.

The discussion of the company's finances was occasioned by an application, filed by Attorney Sullivan, for an allowance of $50,000 for his firm, as fees in the receivership case. Gentry and Hart opposed this allowance, declaring that Sullivan and his clients had not co-operated with the receiver and had harassed him in his efforts to bring the company out of its difficulties.

Detailed figures on the monthly operations, mentioned in the arguments, are not at present in the public records of the Court. It is expected that the essential figures will appear in the receiver's final report, to be filed upon the termination of the receivership, which is looked for this summer.

A survey of the company's business and finance was made last September and October by the New York firm of Miller, Franklin & Co., business experts, as a cost of $16,000. The recommendations made by the experts were made known to the receiver, to Judge Davis, and to interested lawyers who were enjoined to secrecy, as it was held that, for business reasons, the document could not be made public.

Two Versions of Survey.

Receiver Gentry stated, after receiving the report, that it recommended continuance of the business as a going concern, and recommended also the sales of two pieces of factory property in St. Louis and one in East St. Louis, besides abandonment of the company's less profitable sales territory.

Another version of the experts' recommendations appeared in a confidential letter from a source not made public, which was received by several bankers interested in the company. This letter stated that the experts recommended, as one alternative, immediate liquidation to stop operating losses, or, as the other alternative, a thorough reorganization of the company, with an entire change of the management which existed before the receivership. The company was operated, for more than a year before the receivership, by M. E. Singleton, as president, representing creditor banks.

A reorganization plan will be announced, it is expected, with the terminating of the receivership. The plan will probably provide for management of the company by Harry L. Tomes, who has been in charge since November as general manager, and for a new stock issue. The stockholders in December voted to issue 100,000 shares of no-par-value stock, at the discretion of the directors. This issue has not thus far been made.

Gentry's Letter to Salesmen.

Receiver Gentry, in April, sent a letter to the company's salesmen, in which he reviewed the period of the receivership, and told of the plans which, he said, were made by banks before the filing of the receivership suit.

"Some of the banks," he said, had made their plans to have the president of the company (Singleton) appointed as receiver, and he was to sell quickly all the assets of the company, pay the creditors and wind up the business in a hurry, without regard to, or consideration for, either stockholders or employes." The Federal Court, he added, "threw a monkey wrench" into this plan, and he, Gentry, was the "monkey wrench."

"Having made up my mind as to what ought to be done and could be done for the company," Gentry wrote, "I pressed forward with dauntless determination. This is not written in a spirit of bragging, but to encourage you to press forward even in the face of great difficulties."

Gentry related, in the letter, that some of the banks, early in the receivership, became frightened, and that one of their lawyers filed a motion asking the Court to stop operation of the business.

"The victory is now practically accomplished," Gentry wrote. "We have paid 95 per cent of all claims allowed in St. Louis. You would be pleased if you could see the changed attitude of the banks toward us. They are now outspoken in praise of my work, and some of them are actually offering to let the receivership end without payment of the balance due them, and offering to take Hamilton-Brown's unsecured notes with plenty of time to pay them.

"Had I ever showed the white feather, had I ever faltered in my attitude toward employes, stockholders and public, the business would have been lost. I do not claim all the credit for saving the company. I was the leader."

Honeymooners

—By Telephoto to Post-Dispatch.

FOUR STILLMAN CHILDREN WILL GET $3,000,000

They Are Provided For in Settlement in Connection With Divorce of Their Parents.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 6.—The former Mrs. Anne Urquhart Stillman has received no settlement as a result of her divorce from James A. Stillman, multimillionaire banker, but the World-Telegram said today their four children would divide $3,000,000.

Reports of a $1,000,000 settlement on the former Mrs. Stillman, now Mrs. Fowler McCormick, were denied by her attorney.

The $3,000,000 given by Stillman to the children is in addition to the $10,000,000 trust fund left for them by the late James A. Stillman Sr., their grandfather.

The World-Telegram said the $3,000,000 gift marks the definite end of Stillman's former charge that the youngest child, Guy, now 12, was the son of Fred Beauvais, an Indian guide. Guy is recognized in the settlement along with Mrs. Anne Davison, James A. Jr. and Alexander, and his right to share in the $10,000,000 trust fund of his grandfather apepared established.

Details of the divorce and Mrs. Stillman's subsequent marriage to Fowler McCormick, grandson of the late Cyrus McCormick, reaper magnate, came to light today while the pair continued their honeymoon in the seclusion of a small cottage at East Hampton, L. I.

There was only one witness at the divorce trial in New City, N. Y. Stillman filed blanket denials to the charge of infidelity, the conventional New York grounds for divorce, but he offered no contest.

Ten minutes was all that was required for the marriage of Mrs. Stillman and McCormick at the Stillman estate near Pleasantville, N. Y., Thursday. James Mack, the bride's attorney, was best man, and Mrs. James A. Stillman Jr. was maid of honor. It was in sharp contrast to Mrs. Stillman's previous marriage and the open air wedding in Canada some years ago of James A. Stillman Jr., and his mother's former maid.

McCormick declined to say how long he and his bride planned to remain in the little cottage atop a Long Island sand dune. They were said to plan a visit to Mrs. McCormick's camp in Canada later.

Stillman, who resigned from the presidency of the National City Bank after widespread publicity attended his marital difficulties several years ago, is on his way to Europe aboard the liner Homeric, with his yacht captain and valet.

ADMITS KILLING MAN AT REQUEST OF VICTIM'S WIFE

Charles Obietes, Brooklyn Butcher, Says He Was Paid $300 to Murder Andrew Zubenski.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Charles Obietes, 26 years old, confessed today to police that he had murdered Andrew Zubenski parts of whose dismembered body have been found in various places in Brooklyn since March 27. He said Mrs. Lena Zubenski, 43, widow of the victim, urged him to kill her husband and that he received $300 for committing the murder. Obietes and Mrs. Zubenski are in jail charged with homicide. Similar charges have been placed against Frank Ravins, a cousin of the Zubenskis, and Frank Markunas, a friend, to insure their detention as material witnesses, police say.

The motive for the murder, Obietes said, was Mrs. Zubenski's fear that her husband, owner of a speakeasy, intended to return to Cleveland, O., where they lived until eight years ago, and tell about the death of her first husband, Adam Vilentis.

Mrs. Zubenski denies any knowledge of her husband's whereabouts. She said he left home March 25. She went to the morgue, viewed the assembled parts of the body and said it was not that of her husband.

Widow Denies Body is Husband's.

"Obietes is a liar and he's crazy," she said. "The body isn't my husband's. He's probably out West, around Cleveland."

Obietes, a boarder at the Zubenski home, was questioned more than eight hours before he confessed to Capt. Carey of the Brooklyn police. He said he murdered Zubenski March 25. Two days later a human thigh, wrapped in newspaper, was found on the Williamsburg bridge. Subsequently other parts of the body were found; some in the East River, others wrapped in newspaper and tossed behind a pile of lumber. Obietes said he spent two days in disposing of the body.

Police took Obietes to the lot where he told them the body was dismembered. "This is the place," he said, and then collapsed.

Changes Details of Confession.

Obietes tonight made a second confession which differed materially from the version he had given earlier.

Whereas he first insisted he had slain Zubenski on a vacant lot, he said he killed him in the kitchen of Zubenski's speakeasy. He said he then dragged the body into a washroom off the kitchen and, while Mrs. Zubenski waited in an adjoining room, cut up the body.

Then Obietes said he called Mrs. Zubenski and she helped him wrap up various pieces of the body. She accompanied him in a taxicab, he asserted, when he scattered the packages on two succeeding nights.

Womans' First Husband Slain.

Zubenski in 1922 was bartender for Mrs. Zubenski's first husband, Vilentis, in Cleveland. On May 23, 1922, Vilentis' body was found in the back yard of his home. He had been killed with an ax. Zubenski and Vilentis' widow were questioned but permitted to go. They married, came to Brooklyn and established a speakeasy, police said.

Obietes said that on the night of March 25, he and a friend went for a walk with Zubenski, hit him on the head with a brick, dragged the body to a vacant lot and dismembered it, using a knife and a cleaver. Obietes formerly was employed as a butcher, police were told.

CADDY DROWNED, NEARLY DRAGS HIS RESCUERS DOWN

Elmer Waldrum, 16, of Wellston, Sinks in Pond West of Pasadena Hills in County.

Elmer Waldrum, 16 years old, was drowned while swimming in a pond near Bermuda avenue, west of Pasadena Hills, St. Louis County, at 1 p. m. yesterday.

The youth, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Orval G. Waldrum, 6422 Mount avenue, Wellston, had gone swimming with seven other boys, all caddies at the Glen Echo Country Club, a few minutes after he had eaten luncheon. Two of his companions who responded to his cries for help, were forced to abandon him in order to save themselves when he seized one by the head and the other by the feet.

Young Waldrum, according to the other boys, had swum to a stump protruding from the water, in the middle of the pond, about 100 feet from shore. After resting a minute, he began to swim back, but became distressed when about 25 feet from shallow water.

He cried for help. Randolph Kandlbinder, 17 years old, 5821 Page boulevard, and Marion Owens, 16, 2105 Oak street, swam to his assistance. The drowning boy seized Kandlbinder by the head and Owens by the feet, and the pair attempting his rescue were froced to break his hold or be dragged down themselves.

Waldrum until two years ago attended Wellston High School. His parents, two brothers and three sisters, survive.

The body was recovered at 7 o'clock last night.

BLIND SINCE BIRTH, MAN SEES LIGHT FOR FIRST TIME

Evangelist, After Operation, Wants to See Wife, Parents and Friends.

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—Blind since birth, the Rev. Robert Fraser, 25 years old, an evangelist, saw light today for the first time. He was operated on about two weeks ago by Dr. G. H. Moore.

The bandages were momentarily removed from Mr. Fraser's eyes today and he exclaimed he could see light. The operation was performed on one eye. The other will have to be performed later, it was said.

"Dr. Moore held what he said was his finger in front of my left eye, the one that was operated on," said Fraser, "and I was able to distinguish its shape. What I really saw was a shadow. Previously, I could not have distinguished anything.

"The bandages may only be taken off a few moments at a time, but I can already distinguish the difference. I can hardy wait until I see my wife, parents and friends."

Dr. Moore expressed satisfaction with the result of the operation and gave the young minister more than a faint ray of hope that he may yet actually see the world he has lived in.

FEAR OF DIVORCE THEORY IN SUICIDE OF MRS. A. C. LOUD

Husband Left Home in April and, Through Lawyer, Suggested She Seek Legal Separation.

Mrs. Archibald C. Loud, who shot herself Friday when despondent over her husband's suggestion that she obtain a divorce, died at Barnes Hospital yesterday.

With a bullet in the right temple, she was found by her parents in a bedroom of her home, Ladue and Oakleigh roads, St. Louis County, at 5 p. m. Fourteen hours later she succumbed without regaining consciousness.

Mrs. Loud, who was 33 years old, was the former Mildred Smith, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Alfred Franklin Smith, Nashville, Tenn. Dr. Smith, widely known Methodist minister, is now editor of the Christian Advocate, official organ of the Southern Methodist Church, published at Nashville. Formerly he held pastorates in Kirkwood and St. Louis and Mildred Smith grew up in St. Louis. She was active in church organizations and in the affairs of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Her wedding at St. John's Methodist Church was an outstanding social event of 1922.

Husband Left in April.

Mrs. Loud had been despondent since the latter part of April, when her husband left St. Louis with no explanation other than that he was going to Biloxi, Miss., for his health. Later he communicated with her through a lawyer and asked that she obtain a divorce. Friends expressed the opinion that thought of divorce preyed on her mind, as she was religious and strongly opposed to divorce.

Her parents, who were visiting her, said Mrs. Loud appeared in good spirits Friday and accompanied them on a shopping trip downtown. They returned home about 2 p. m. and she went to her bedroom. Some three hours later a shot was heard and the parents, investigating, found her in an armchair unconscious. A revolver lay beside her chair.

Two-Year-Old Daughter.

She is survived by her husband, a two-year-old daughter, Lucy Hortense, and her parents. A sister, Mrs. Mansfield Kidder, the former Hortense Smith, died in 1922, a few days after Mrs. Loud's wedding. Funeral services for Mrs. Loud will be held at St. John's Methodist Church at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow. Burial will be in Memorial Park Cemetery.

Loud, son of Mrs. Ida Mary Loud, is one of the heirs to the $1,700,000 estate of his grandmother, Mrs. Mary Jane Blanke, widow of August Blanke, candy manufacturer. The Blanke estate was the center of prolonged litigation between 1920 and 1926. As a result of the legal fight, which included a hearing in the State Supreme Court, Mrs. Ida Mary Loud broke a trusteeship held by the St. Louis Union Trust Co. and gained complete control of the estate.

RAIN STOPS MUNICIPAL OPERA SHOW AFTER TWO STARTS

After two starts last night the performance at the Municipal Theater in Forest Park was called off on account of rain.

Tickets for tonight, the last performance of "Three Little Girls," or for next week's performances of "The Street Singer" may be obtained for rain checks. The box office in the Arcade Building will open at 10 o'clock this morning, two hours earlier than usual.

The overture, beginning at 8:15, was interrupted by a shower which drenched many before they could reach shelter. The first act, started at 9 o'clock, was interrupted by another downpour 15 minutes later and at 9:30 the show was called off.

ENDS HER LIFE

MRS. ARCHIBALD C. LOUD.

THREE PERSONS HIT BY AUTO DURING HEAVY DOWNPOUR

Three persons struck by automobiles during the heavy downpour of rain early last night were treated at city hospital.

John Stadtmiller, 60-year-old bricklayer, of 3200 Lafayette avenue, suffered a fractured left arm when struck by the machine of Otto A. Weyel, 4905 Virginia avenue, at Grand boulevard and Arsenal street.

Crossing Grand boulevard at Laclede avenue, Warren Berkstrom, 36, a salesman, of 3520 Lindell boulevard, was knocked down by an automobile driven by Mike Schimmer, 7561 Manchester avenue, Maplewood. Berkstrom was treated for a skull injury.

Joseph McFarland, 21, 4058 Kennerly avenue, suffered concussion of the brain when knocked to the pavement by the automobile of Joseph Hemp, 533 Sherwood drive, Webster Groves. McFarland was crossing Lindell just west of Grand.

RARE ART WORKS LOST IN FIRE IN MUNICH

Rodin Sculptures and Representative Works of Romanticist School Destroyed.

By the Associated Press.

MUNICH, Germany, June 6.—Munich's Crystal Palace and a collection of 3000 works of art, including 11 sculptures by Rodin, being shown at the annual art exhibition, were destroyed early today by fire, suspected by authorities to be of incendiary origin.

Only about 100 paintings were salvaged, most of them works rejected by the art jury.

The damage is estimated at several million dollars.

Among the works which were lost are collections consttiuting not only the life work of dozens of contemporary artists, but 110 of the finest works of the more eminent nineteenth century German Romanticist painters, which means that the more representative works of that entire period of art have been destroyed. Munich fostered the Romanticist movement.

Hamburg had lent 17 paintings for display and many other pieces were exhibited from 40 other German towns and cities including works from the National Gallery at Berlin and museums and galleries at Leipsic, Innsbruck and Breslau.

The whole section devoted to the sculpture of Rodin was destroyed as well as an adjacent section in which was exhibited the work of the Frenchmen Renauld, Maillot, Despian, Derain, Blanche and an entire hall of modern Milanese artists.

The whole life's work of the Swiss painter Cuno Amiet was consumed as well as 67 of the best paintings of Otto Struetzel.

A collection comprising 45 of the best works of Erich Kubierschky was lost and many paintings of other well known German contemporaries such as Liebermann, Lederer and Kokoschka.

Among the works of the Romanticists which were destroyed were Moritz Von Schwindt's "Wunderhorn," Ritter Kurt's "Bridal Ride," "The Youth Wunderhorn" and "Night Journey," both paintings known the world over in reproduction.

Also lost was Philipp Otto Runge's "We Three," and the best eight works of Caspar David Friedrich and four works of Peter Von Cornelius.

The Berlin National Gallery lost one of its most famous pictures in Karl Blechen's "Striking Lightning." Nine pitcures by Anton Koch were lost, as well as a dozen by the Brothers Olivier, who were "discovered" at the beginning of this century.

The old building, of glass and steel, with a woodwork interior, was built in 1853 for the Industrial Exposition.

How Government Ran Down "Scarface" Al Capone

to purchase this property, Federal agents discovered that Greenberg had made the first payment of $10,000, taking Mrs. Capone's diamonds as security for the loan. He subsequently made other payments on the property, but has denied this, explaining that he had only paid gambling debts for Capone in Florida.

But real estate dealers, bankers and other witnesses from Florida have said that Greenberg bought the property for Capone, and Federal agents have proof that Greenberg was reimbursed by money from gambling houses in Chicago, Cicero and Florida, operated by "Scarface Al" and his colleagues in crime.

Incidentally, the Federal agents learned while in Florida that Capone and Jake Guzik own a substantial interest in the gambling privileges at the Hollywood Country Club, at Hollywood, Fla., 17 miles north of Miami, and also in a gambling house on Palm Island. The two are said to have received about $30,000 apiece for their interests in the two places last winter.

Offer of Compromise Rejected.

Capone is known to have kept well informed upon the progress of the investigation, for when things began to look dark for him a few months ago he had a Washington attorney make an offer in compromise, which was rejected. He then invoked the aid of certain politicians whose interests he had served in Cook County elections, but they failed in their efforts to aid him. He also tried to reach official Washington through employment of high-priced attorneys, but only wound up by spending a lot of money.

Federal agents have authentic information that the big spender is almost "broke," and if not so at this time, will have little left when the Government exacts the heavy tax and penalties.

Hoover an Involuntary Neighbor.

The Federal drive against big violators of the income tax laws in Chicago was launched in 1926 against operators of breweries, but was concentrated on Capone and his gang following a vacation trip of President Hoover to Miami, Fla., in January, 1929.

The President occupied the beautiful estate of J. C. Penney on Miami Beach, not far from Capone's imposing residence on Palm Island, in Biscayne Bay, and while winter guests and citizens of Florida were paying their respects to the President of the United States at the Penney place, denizens of the underworld were doing homage to "Scarface Al" and his beer and wine on Palm Island.

A professional hoodlum sporting his stuff in these circumstances was looked upon by Floridans as a bit of unpardonable effrontery by the "Big Shot" from Chicago, and they set about to rid the winter playground of big Al and his mob.

It is history that he defeated their efforts in the courts to dislodge him, for he was a taxpayer to Florida, and, therefore, a citizen legally in good standing. He and his gang had not "bumped off" any winter tourists, and why pick on him as a vagrant, when no one goes to Florida in winter to work?

But he did not reckon that upon the return of the President to Washington drastic action would be taken, with the result that crack Government agents, specially assigned from the East to Chicago, soon had Capone and his gang either on the run or hard at work covering up the sources of their income.

Capone Foils Agents for a Time.

Capone is resourceful if anything and succeeded for a time in thwarting the revenue agents, but they broke through his defenses at last and he found himself facing the penitentiary for income tax evasion, a comparatively minor offense in his glamorous life of crime.

Some excellent detective work was accomplished by these agents in the course of their investigation, which at times took them as undercover men into the haunts of the gang and demanded a courageous loyalty to duty. On one occasion an automobile license plate, issued under a fictitious name in another state, enabled them to catch up with and arrest a gangster who had been sought for six months, with a reward of $1000 to spur the chase.

Now the Government, through the instrumentality of the income tax, is likely to accomplish a great service for Chicago that the local law enforcement system, shot through with graft as it was, failed to perform. That law enforcement in Cook County had broken down, so far as it related to Capone and his gang, is proved by his rise to power in the last 10 years through lavish expenditure of money in the right places. But with Capone and his chiefs in the penitentiary as Federal prisoners, Cook county will have an opportunity to set its house in order and prevent a reorganization of the gangsters when, if ever, they return.

Government Openly Defied.

The first flagrant defiance of the Government by Chicago gangsters was noted in 1924. Up to that time Federal Court injunctions were generally considered the last word in Government. The power of gangs and their defiance of local government had increased alarmingly in Chicago. That power was secured by alliance with political bosses, money-hungry public officials and grafting police officers. So influential and daring had this lawless element become that it was not surprising to discover La Cava, one of the first of Capone's collectors, snapping his fingers in contempt at a Federal Court injunction by operating a saloon under the eyes of friendly police.

About the same time Terence Druggan and Frank Lake were operating six of Chicago's largest breweries that had been closed by prohibition, without the slightest interference from city or county officers.

It was evident from the wide-open lawless operations of Druggan, Lake and La Cava that there was something overripe with all kinds of law enforcement in Chicago, and so another agency of the Government, the Intelligence Unit of the Internal Revenue Bureau, took a hand under the direction of Elmer L. Irey, chief of the unit in Washington.

This was early in 1926, under the administration of David H. Blair, then Commissioner of Internal Revenue. Commissioner Blair had taken notice of conditions from reports of Arthur P. Madden, special agent in charge of the Intelligence Unit in Chicago, and directed Irey to have a full investigation of what then was being broadcast in the press of the country as a public scandal.

First Results of the Round-Up.

The man assigned to take over the Capone gang job was Frank J. Wilson, an agent of the Intelligence Unit in Washington. He was to give full attention to notorious gangsters and grafting public officials known to have big incomes upon which no tax had been paid.

Wilson worked out of the office of Madden and had the daily cooperation of Madden's forces. Attention was directed first to Ralph Capone and certain politicians. Since that time the activities of the Federal Government in Chicago have resulted in the conviction for tax frauds of two public officials, three of Capone's wealthiest chiefs, pleas of guilty from Druggan and Lake and indictments against several of Capone's minor henchmen.

A beginning of this roundup was made with a probe of the source of wealth sported by Druggan and Lake. Prior to prohibition Druggan was a taxicab driver and Lake a city fire fighter. The two were friends long before the country was voted dry and remain buddies in adversity of today.

The agents encountered no serious obstacles to their work on the case against Druggan and Lake, for those two worthies were operating their breweries at full blast without any effort at concealment, brewing beer at a cost of $5 a barrel and selling it to saloonkeepers at $40 a barrel. They operated on this lucrative basis for three years, and then trouble began for the erstwhile cabman and his pal.

Lake and Druggan Used Straw Men

While these two had carefully concealed their bank accounts, they were not so cautious about deals in real estate and farms and the purchase of bonds and places of amusement they were operating through straw men.

These transactions were readily traced through the records of real estate dealers and bond brokers, with the result that Druggan's magnificent winter home on Miami Beach, acquired at a cost of $90,000, was seized by the Government under a tax lien and sold for $44,000. Brewery properties that cost the two more than $500,000 were likewise seized and have become the property of the Government. A cabaret they had purchased was closed by injunction, their Chicago homes were seized under tax liens and the agents now are on the trail of bonds purchased in the names of relatives in order to satisfy taxes and penalties against the two amounting to $554,873.

Bad luck has attended this pair, particularly Druggan, since the income tax agents got after them. Druggan purchased the Miami Beach residence from A. C. Newby, Indianapolis millionaire, in 1923. In May, 1925, on the eve of the real estate boom collapse in Florida, he sold it for $350,000 to N. B. T. Roney, wealthy Florida hotel owner, but failed to cash an earnest-money check until after the boom collapsed, which enabled Roney to repudiate the deal. Had Druggan closed the deal, as Roney for weeks had implored him to do when real estate values were at their height, he would have been just $350,000 ahead, for, as told above the Government subsequently took the property away from him for income tax delinquencies. Lake had set himself up in a magnificent residence in the exclusive Oak Park district of Chicago, but a Government tax lien divested him of that luxury.

Losing Ventures.

Druggan's venture in farming was discovered by Wilson at Lake Zurich, Ill., a short distance from Chicago. The farm was stocked with a $20,000 herd of Guernsey cattle, fine poultry and race horses. A new barn had been erected at a Thorough exploration of the acities of Druggan and Lake in arketing of their beer uncovered ils leading to other gangsters th huge incomes, which aroused orge E. Q. Johnson, United tes District Attorney, serving his first term in public office, to the menace of gang power. He lost no time swinging into line with the revenue agents to attack the gangsters through the medium of the revenue laws. His unfaltering interest and efficient co-operation encouraged Washington authorities to extend the investigation to the Capones and their lieutenants. Incidentally the results subsequently achieved won for Johnson a reappointment as District Attorney for another four years.

Ralph Capone Gets Three Years.

The agents thereupon turned the spotlight of investigation upon Ralph Capone, brother of "Scarface Al" as one who had enriched himself from the rackets and ignored the income tax. When he was indicted Oct. 8, 1929, and subsequently convicted and sentenced to three years in the penitentiary, the Government proved he had an income in excess of $1,000,000 from unlawful business in 1924-25-26.

The indictment of his brother incensed "Scarface Al," who set about to abort the case by applying the "fix," but failed to find a taker for his money. Before the indictment Ralph moved swiftly to counteract it by making an offer in compromise. This offer was found upon examination to be false, and as a result he not only was indicted for evasion of taxes, but for making a false offer in compromise as well.

Ralph Capone was more closely associated with "Scarface Al" than any of the other "big shots" of that organization. The agents established his income from gambling houses, trade in alcohol, rackets against lowly and defenseless merchants and, worst of all, from disorderly houses where the gangsters preyed upon the wretched inmates. It is a notorious fact that "Scarface All" and his brother, as well as Jake Guzik have always looked to disorderly houses under their control for a substantial part of their incomes.

Books Kept to Show Profits.

This was a part of their system for which books were kept for the gang leaders. The Government has in its possession the records kept for two such places in Stickney, a small town on the outskirts of Chicago. The inmates of those places, as shown by the records, were given half their earnings, while the Capones and Guzik shared the remainder.

The agents found a bank account kept by Ralph Capone and this, together with records of gambling house proceeds seized in raids, enabled them to establish an income for Ralph. The rest was easy. He mace no return of his earnings and had paid no tax. His conviction was a foregone conclusion.

One source of revenue for Ralph Capone was the Cotton Club in Cicero, which featured Negro chorus girls and kept open house to all except Government agents. It was closed under Federal injunction for whisky sales and Ralph Capone is a defendant in a conspiracy case against the place.

The Cotton Club was under surveillance a long time before Ralph Capone was definitely connected with it as an owner. He had the Federal agents spotted, for when they would drive too near the place they were questioned by glowering gangsters concerning their business before they could alight from their cars. On occasion when they would refuse to submit to this examination, a policeman was called who would give the order to move on. In Cicero policemen worked hand-in-glove with Capone's hoodlums.

The Chase of Frank Nitti.

The Government again strengthened its forces following the conviction of Ralph Capone with additional agents from Washington and New York, and Frank Nitti, called "the enforcer" by Chicago police because of reports that he directed "Scarface Al's" homicide squad, became the target for their fire. He was indicted for tax evasion in March, 1930. But Nitti could not be found. All the haunts of the gangsters were kept under surveillance, but no Nitti.

As weeks passed with no clew to Nitti's whereabouts the Chicago Association of Commerce offered a reward of $1000 for information that would lead to his apprehension. After eight months it was learned he had taken out an automobile license in Wisconsin of a certain number under a fictitious name and was living in Berwyn, suburb of Chicago, under still another fictitious name.

Berwyn, thickly inhabited by apartment dwellers, was watched for days by Federal agents who patrolled the place in automobiles and afoot for a sight of the Wisconsin license plate. This vigilance finally was rewarded one afternoon by an agent on foot who saw the license plate on a small sedan driven by a woman.

He commandeered another automobile, fortunately one that a mechanic had taken out for a test run.

Woman's Name Got by Ruse.

The woman was trailed all afternoon. She was on a shopping tour and stopped at nearly a dozen places in different parts of the town to make purchases, before pulling up before an apartment in Berwyn, which she entered.

The agent now felt certain he was on a hot trail, for he previously had shadowed Greenberg to this apartment. He had learned Greenberg was calling on some tenant of the apartment but could not learn the tenant's name.

When the woman was safely indoors the agent dismissed the commandeered car and pushed the little sedan forward in front of a water plug. He then entered the building.

"Who owns that little sedan outside?" he inquired of the elevator operator.

"Mrs. Ralph Belmont," was the answer.

"Does she live here?"

"Yes, in apartment 402."

"I am an officer. Tell her to move it away from that water plug."

He had done this to allay suspicion, fearing that unless he gave a plausible excuse for inquiring for "Mrs. Belmont" the inquiry might cause the woman, believed to be Mrs. Nitti, to suspect that her husband had been located and give him opportunity to escape the trap to be set for his arrest.

The agent watched from a safe distance, and a few minutes later the woman appeared, backed her car away from the water plug and re-entered the building.

Now to make sure that "Mrs. Belmont" was Mrs. Nitti and that Nitti would come to the apartment. He was known by sight to several of the agents, and they accordingly rented an upstairs apartment across the street from which they could see into 402, occupied by "Mrs. Belmont."

Nitti's Capture.

This vigil was rewarded a few nights later, about midnight, when Nitti himself was seen in the apartment. He had entered the building unobserved, probably from the rear.

A telephone message to headquarters down town brought a squad of crack shots under Pat Roche, chief investigator for State's Attorney Swanson. Nitti, "the enforcer," was to be captured, and no chances were to be taken.

About 3 a. m. the officers entered the building one at a time, so as not to cause a disturbance, and met on the fourth floor. Roche himself approached the entrance to apartment 402 and knocked. His aids, lined down the hall on both sides of the door, waited with pistols in hand. There was no response and he knocked again.

"Who's there?" inquired a woman's voice.

"Police officers, open this door," Roche replied.

"What do you wish?" the woman nervously asked.

"We want Frank Nitti, so please open this door before we knock it down," said Roche.

"No one of that name is here," the woman protested.

"Then who lives here?" demanded Roche.

"The Belmonts," said the woman in her sweetest tone.

"Which Belmonts?" Roche inquired.

There was a pause, and then was heard a man's voice.

"The well-known Belmonts, you lousy bum. Get away from that door or I'll bump you off."

This did not sound cultural to Roche, who has a way of his own with hoodlums, and as he gave the word there was a crash and in went the door.

The pistols were out and up went the hands of a little man in pajamas. It was Nitti.

"Hello, Frank," said Roche. "Come on now, be yourself."

In a trice the handcuffs were on the gangster.

Nitti was put under $50,000 bond to insure his appearance for trial. Mrs. Nitti, the erstwhile "Mrs. Belmont," was released. She had never had any part in her husband's activities and no other connection with the underworld other than her marriage to Nitti.

With the worry of Nitti being at large off their minds the agents marked Guzik for the next Capone lieutenant to fall. Known as "Little Jack the bomber," Guzik was acknowledged the strong arm of "Scarface Al" in arranging suitable political set-ups and also for planning reprisals where force was the means to an end.

He, too, had kept a bank account, a safety deposit box and occasional records of the proceeds of gambling and disorderly houses. Guzik was indicted, tried and convicted and sentenced to five years in the penitentiary within 30 days, an all-time record for the handling of such a case.

The swift justice meted to Guzik threw the gang into a panic. There was something radically wrong here, they reasoned. They had boasted again and again that their politician friends would show District Attorney Johnson where to get off by opposing his reappointment. And a new District Attorney, they told themselves, would go for them and kick over all those indictments.

But Nitti took another view. Five years for Guzik! Not for him. He asked permission to plead guilty and threw himself on the mercy of the court. He was sentenced to 18 months in the penitentiary, with a proviso that he never return to Chicago. He agreed to this, and immediately went to prison. "Scarface Al" called him a quitter for taking the best way out. And worse luck for Capone, District Attorney Johnson was promptly reappointed.

Figures on Gangsters' Incomes.

The income of Guzik as shown at his trial, on which he made no return and consequently paid no tax, was $647,654.43 in 1927, $33,365.92 in 1928 and $63,044.11 in 1929.. At least this was all the agents could trace. The tax and penalties on this income assessed against Guzik amounts to $344,966.64, with which he must struggle while serving his five years.

In his plea of guilty Nitti confessed a total income of $671,160.27 for 1925-26-27. The tax and penalties assessed against him amount to $277,784.86.

The next to receive a jolt was Sam Guzik, brother of Jake. He was indicted for evading taxes on an income in 1927-28 of $303,716, against which there are taxes and penalties amounting to $93,000. He also pleaded guilty and was sentenced to a year in prison.

A few weeks ago Louis Lipschutz, brother-in-law of Jake Guzik, fell under the investigation. He was indicted for evading taxes on an income of $235,000 for 1927-28, on which the tax and penalties amount to $67,000.

How did they get it? It has been the boast of Capone for years that he could do things in Chicago without interference by police. He and his lieutenants operated or had substantial interests in gambling houses that operated openly until the murder a year ago of Alfred J. Lingle, a Tribune reporter. For years they operated hundreds of gambling slot machines in the loop, and their revenue from this source was disclosed to have averaged $5000 a week. They also had a monopoly of the whisky business for the greater part of Chicago.

In order to secure these privileges it became necessary from their point of view to resort to murder at times. Nearly all the gang murders resulted from attempts of rival gangsters to "muscle in" on Capone's exclusive gambling and bootlegging privileges, which came to him through a friendly set-up in the Police Department.

The West Suburban Ministers' and Citizens' Association was an organization of citizens of Cicero, Berwyn and Stickney. Disgusted with failure of their officers to enforce the law, they hired private investigators to gather information against the criminals. In 1925 they forced a raid on the Hawthorne Smoke Shop. During the raid "Scarface Al" appeared on the scene, and took command.

While deputy sheriffs stood quietly by Capone ordered his gangsters to "clean up," whereupon they jumped into the raid and slugged the citizens. They were not arrested. A month later David Morgan, who was active in the association, was shot while entering his home at midnight in Berwyn.

And while the Government was driving ahead against Capone and his gang, the agents were not overlooking a grafting politician here and there, for the record of indictments for evasion of taxes now includes Gene Oliver, a county assessor; Lawrence O'Brien of Chicago, member of the State Legislature, and Chris Paschen, Building Commissioner and member of former Mayor Thompson's cabinet.

"Scarface Al" Keeps No Books.

It has been most difficult to trace "Al" Capone's income for the reason that he has never bothered with a bank account, a check, a note or a safety deposit box. Nor has he kept books or a record of any kind. He was not a stockholder of record in anything, although known to have stock interests. His pocket is his bank; his word his bond.

It is the experience of income tax examiners that under most favorable conditions it is often difficult to discover a tax fraud in books setting forth the detail of a business.

There was no such record to aid the Government in its investigation of the tax frauds of Capone and his gang, and the disruption of this criminal organization by imprisonment of its leaders is an outstanding achievement of the Intelligence Unit since its establishment as the investigating body of the Department of Internal Revenue.

With Capone once in the pententiary, where he cannot intimidate witnesses, police of Chicago would not be seriously hampered should they elect to solve some of the murders laid to the Capone gang. The once powerful influence of "Scarface Al" hitherto has blocked serious effort in this direction.

Capone's Florida Residence Attached on Lawyer's $50,000 Claim.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., June 6.—Deputy Sheriffs tonight attached Al Capone's Palm Beach Island residence and removed part of its furnishings following the filing of a suit against him by Vincent C. Giblin, Miami attorney. The suit, filed in circuit court, is for $50,000 which it alleged is the balance due Giblin as fees for services as attorney.

After part of the furnishings had been taken to a warehouse, further operations were ordered stopped at 10:30 p. m. when Giblin said he had been informed Capone would communicate with him during the night. The officers said they had been ordered to halt the removal of the furnishings until Monday.

DR. FRANCIS PIEPER BURIED; HUNDREDS OF PUPILS ATTEND

Many Ministers From All Over Country Pay Tribute to President of Concordia Lutheran Seminary

Several hundred ministers—only a small part of the hundreds instructed by the Rev. Francis Pieper in his favorite precept from the First Epistle of Peter—attended funeral services for him yesterday at Holy Cross Evangelical Lutheran Church, Miami street and Ohio avenue, adjoining the old site of Concordia Seminary, of which he was president for 44 years.

Dr. Pieper, a minister 56 years and a teacher of future ministers 53 years, died of cancer last Wednesday at his home on the new seminary grounds. He would have been 79 years old June 27. Form 1899 to 1911 he was president of the nation-wide Missouri Synod, and since 1887, when he succeeded the late Rev. Ferdinand Walther as head of the seminary, he had been regarded the doctrinal leader of the Synod.

Nearly half of the Holy Cross Church was reserved for men he had instructed, some of whom had come from distant states for the services. It is estimated that he taught three-fourths of the 3500 pastors now active under the Missouri Synod in all parts of the United States and in foreign countries.

Faculty Attends Services.

As the bell tolled, fellow-members of the Concordia faculty filed in and took their places in the reserved section. Following them were directors of the seminary, the entire faculty of the associated theological seminary at Springfield, Ill., representatives of pre-theological Lutheran colleges in Milwaukee, Fort Wayne, Concordia, Mo., and elsewhere, the St. Louis clergy, and then a large group of Dr. Pieper's former pupils, now pastors in other cities.

Dr. Pieper's life was held up as admirably exemplifying the specific tenents of his faith in the sermon by the Rev. Frederick Pfotenhauer of Chicago, president of the Synod, and the address for the seminary by the Rev. L. Fuerbringer, president of the Synodical Conference. Both spoke in German.

Speakers dwelt on the substantial effect of Dr. Pieper's 56 years of leadership and his many doctrinal publications. Others of the Concordia faculty were growing old in service, remarked Dr. Fuerbringer, but Dr. Pieper still was regarded as their preceptor. His favorite exhortation for a sound Scriptural basis—which he made essential to the doctrinal reasoning of hundreds of ministers—was quoted from the first epistle of Peter: "If any man speaketh, let him speak as the oracles."

Address to Family.

In the English addresses, the Rev. John Oppliger, pastor of Immanuel Church, where Dr. Pieper habitually worshiped, spoke particularly to the family, and said that Dr. Walther's leadership had passed on to Dr. Pieper as Elijah's mantle had been bestowed upon Elisha. The Rev. Richard Kretzschmar of Emmaus Church recalled the fiftieth anniversary of Dr. Pieper's ordination, celebrated at this season six years ago in Holy Cross Church.

"We had hoped that several more years of such youthful services would be granted to him and to us," said Dr. Kretzschmar. "He was a champion of God's Bible, a faithful exponent of sound Lutheranism. Let us gratefully cherish the heritage that has come to us through his services."

RALPH KUMMER WINNER OF FIRST MODEL AIRPLANE PRIZE

The annual indoor model airplane contest, conducted by the Stix, Baer & Fuller Model Airplane Club, was held at the Arena yesterday, with 65 boys entered as competitors. Four silver cups were awarded.

Under a point system of marking used this year, Ralph Kummer, 16 years old, of 5728 Goener avenue won first prize. Carl Fries Jr., 16, of 2023 Big Bend boulevard, Maplewood, was second; Billy Barrett, 15, of 3163 Pacific avenue, third, and Joseph Ehrhardt, 17, of 7020 Wise avenue, fourth. Ehrhardt was the winner of last year's international outdoor model airplane competition in London. His plane yesterday flew for nine minutes and nine seconds, but other items of the marking placed him below the first three.

William T. Pascoe Jr., 14, of 4167A Connecticut street, who was kept at home until noon yesterday by a scarlet fever quarantine, came last with a plane which he flew nine minutes and 13 seconds, and a duplicate first prize was awarded to him.

For Food . . . we rely chiefly on A&P says SIR HUBERT WILKINS

"For food and other human supplies, we rely chiefly on The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company. Our requirements have been scientifically studied by their expert dietitians," says Captain Sir Hubert Wilkins, in his recent book, "Under the North Pole," which describes the Wilkins-Ellsworth Arctic Expedition.

Under the barren wastes of the North, far from the food sources of civilization, exploring the depths of the Arctic seas in a submarine, exposed to the rigors of polar climate—the food taken on this expedition is of supreme importance. Food may spell success or failure.

That is why Sir Hubert chose A & P to supply all of the daily food on which he and his men will depend during the trying months of their venture. A & P scientists analyzed the needs of these explorers. A & P buyers selected the food. Every pound of butter, of vegetables, of meat, of coffee—every item of food in the regular diet of the Nautilus crew is furnished by A & P.

A & P is proud to render this service for so gallant an exploit. A & P is fitted to do so because of its experience in supplying the equally important food requirements of millions of customers every day.

DRY CHIEF PLANS CAMPAIGN TO SHUT UP SPEAKEASIES

Conviction of Operator Not Nearly So Important as Closing of Bar, Woodcock Says.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Speakeasies and saloons, along with the large commercial violators, today were defined by Prohibition Director Woodcock as the "obvious objective" of the dry forces.

Satisfied that, with the addition on July 1 of 500 new agents authorized by Congress, his corps will be the most efficient ever employed to enforce prohibition, he has warned officers they must not be "deterred by sentimentalists and opponents of the law."

"You will direct your forces against commercial violators," the Commissioner said in a letter of instruction to agents. "Everyone knows that there is being conducted in this country a commerce in intoxicating liquors which we are not reaching. It must be reached and stopped.

"Speakeasies and saloons are an obvious objective for your forces. There is no reason why you should not in your vicinity stamp out this particular violation. The conviction of an operator is not nearly as important as the closing of the place, either by the co-operation of the landlord or by the use of injunction."

Woodcock also warned the agents they must obey the laws.

"The conduct of our forces must commend itself to public sentiment and the methods of securing evidence must have the approval of the courts," he said. "On the other hand, we are not to be deterred by sentimentalists and opponents of the law."

While directing constant pressure against the speakeasy, Woodcock hopes to turn this method of enforcement over to local authorities wherever they give evidence of successfully coping with the situation. In so doing, he pointed out, more agents would be left free to work toward the Bureau's major goal—drying up sources of supply.

Expressing satisfaction with raids in Illinois and Iowa this week which Federal authorities said had broken up, "part of the Capone syndicate which handles alcohol throughout the Middle West," Woodcock said no particular drive had been made upon the Chicago gang leader, except to the extent he was included in a campaign to stop the alcohol flow at its source.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 6.—Thirty-five persons were seriously injured in clashes at Braila and Janka today during municipal and District Council elections.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE REFUSES CARMEN'S REQUEST

Tells Union That It Might Appear Untimely to Intervene, in View of Arbitration.

The Chamber of Commerce yesterday informed the Street Car Men's Union that it could not intervene in the discharge of 134 extra motormen and conductors by the Public Service Co. because of the pending wage arbitration between the company and the union.

Charles H. Morrill, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Chamber, in a letter to Harry Nelson, Union President, states that action by the Chamber at this time might be construed as untimely because of the wage arbitration. The union had appealed to the Chamber of Commerce for support in having the extra platform men, who were let out last Monday, re-employed.

A similar appeal to the Board of Aldermen on Friday resulted in a unanimous resolution calling on the Public Service Co. to adopt the plan of one day off in eight for all regular employes, as proposed by the union, in order that the extra men may be reinstated.

The Arbitration Committee, composed of former Mayor Kiel, former Circuit Judge Harry E. Sprague and Edward J. Miller, manufacturer, will hold an organization meeting at city hall at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Dance Hall Silences Chorus.

OTTAWA, Ill., June 6.—Because of "worldly amusements" nearby, the Viking chorus of 400 voices declined to sing tonight at the closing program of the La Salle County Centennial celebration. Albert R. Biegen, president of the chorus, which is composed of Norwegian Lutheran Church members, said the principal objection was against a public dance hall down the street.

FASCISTS ACCUSE CATHOLIC PRIESTS OF 'INGRATITUDE'

Unofficial Radio Reply to Vatican Says Action Society Takes Orders From "Foreign Power."

By the Associated Press.

ROME, June 6.—The Catholic Action Society was described tonight, in a radio broadcast purporting to give the Italian side of the Government's controversy with Pope Pius XI, as "a strong organization taking orders from a foreign Power."

The declaration was broadcast during the regular evening program of the Roman Radio Station. It did not purport to be official, but it was pointed out that it would undoubtedly not be broadcast unless it represented an official view.

Catholic priests were accused in the broadcast of "black ingratitude" to Fascism, which, it said, "guarantees religious liberty."

This unofficial reply to the Vatican and to the speeches of Pope Pius XI was made on the eve of the second anniversary of the ratification of the Vatican Treaty and the Concordat, that two documents which ended the Pope's 59 years as "prisoners in the Vatican."

Declaration by the Pope.

It came also at the end of a day when the Pope had declared: "We are fighting a battle for liberty of conscience." The Pope's declaration was made during an address to a group of Catholic members of the Fascist organization.

Italian listeners were reminded in the broadcast that Fascism gave a place of honor to the church, which was "badly protected by preceding Governments." It declared the church and not the Fascist State had deprived the people of their religious processions and it said that many of these had occurred, with perfect order, through the co-operation of Fascist authorities, in places where the Pope's prohibition against them was delayed or disregarded.

The condition of the church in Italy was compared with that in "other countries, where it is really persecuted." The Pope, it said, instead of criticising those countries, spoke "sharp words against Italy."

"Externals of Political Party."

Referring to the demand made yesterday by an editorial in the Osservatore Romano that proof be offered that the Catholic Acation Society was political, it said that the society "had all the externals of a political party," and that most of the leaders and many of the members belonged to the old anti-Fascist Popular party which has been dissolved.

The acts of the society, it was declared, also supported the political charge. Premier Mussolini's action in proceeding against the clubs was declared to have been justified by the Government's high duty to defend itself. No government in the world, it said, would have permitted such a state of affairs.

"All the revelations of the Lavoro Fascista (Fascist organ) have been at least 99 per cent confirmed," it said, "by the Osservatore Romano, which confined itself to corrections of form, and not of substance.

"Black Ingratitude Displayed."

"Regarding the persecutions spoken of in Vatican circles ,everyone can see that they are ridiculous attempts to make the church appear as a victim in a country where thousands of foreigners can testify to the respect shown priests, prelates, churches and church functions.

"Moreover, it is observed what black ingratitude is displayed by priests against Fascism, which has guaranteed religious liberty throughout Italy, after it was poorly protected by preceding governments.

"If there were no public processions on Corpus Christi it was only by order of the ecclesiastical authorities. Yet they tried to make the people believe that it was the Government that prohibited these functions. Wherever the order against the processions failed to arrive on time, or where the local ecclesiastical authorities thought they could disregard it, the processions took place in perfect order.

"Declaration Completely False."

"In short, it is a case of exaggeration that inevitably calls up a comparison of Italy with many countries where the church really is persecuted and against which we have not heard the sharp words which were pronounced against the Italian state, where religion has been restored to its true place.

"The declaration that the Catholic Action Society did not have a political character is completely false. It had banners, badges, cards and all the other external forms of a party.

"Moreover—and this is more grave—its leaders were almost entirely members, or even leaders, of that Popular party which was one of the strongest opponents of Fascism. Also, a considerable part of its acts were particularly political and had nothing to do with religious education, or the propagation of the faith.

"The strongest argument that can be advanced to justify the dissolution of the young Catholic clubs is the defense of the state, which is more than a mere duty of any Government.

'Orders From Foreign Power.'

"There had come to be created the absurd situation of a strong organization taking orders from a foreign Power—the Vatican state. No Government in the world would have allowed it to exist, any more than Italy, which fought for centuries for its independence and political liberty."

The broadcast was over the Empe Italian Audiziomi Radiofoniche, a private corporation operating under Government license.

It was given during an interval between musical programs as regular "wireless news." Broadcast news comes under the supervision of the prefect in the same way as newspapers.

The official Catholic newspaper, Osservatore Ramano, tomorrow will urge all Catholics to pray, in order that the results which the church and Italy desired from the Lateran treaty may be attained.

June 7, 1929, Premier Mussolini drove to the Vatican and exchanged with Cardinal Gasparri, then papal secretary of state, the ratifications of the treaty which had been signed by the King and the Pope.

Uncle Sam followed the old trail with a ribbon of concrete, skirting the shores from Lake Erie on the Southern border and north along the Detroit River, Lake St. Clair, St. Clair River up into the Thumb on Lake Huron. • No miniature scenic route this — the most majestic chain of lakes and rivers in the world — breath-taking in its grandeur — unequalled for the beauty and color of its panorama. • Every town and city along this trail contains points of historic interest, and of a newer note which includes hotels and taverns for your comfort — excellent golf courses for your amusement, and conveniently near are inland lakes by the score where you may obtain comfortable cottages for a sojourn of days or months and have a try at the perch, bass, blue gill and pike fishing, or pack your days full of other glorious out-of-door sports. • Words are inadequate to describe this living, happy hunting ground which the Indians called Algonquin Land.

HIGHLIGHTS

Monroe—World famed nurseries. Magnificent beach with cottages on Lake Erie a short distance from town.

Detroit—Both International Bridge and Vehicular Tunnel to Canada—the only international tunnel in the world. Belle Isle, the most beautiful and largest island park in the world, and hundreds of other interesting features.

Mount Clemens—For half a century its mineral waters have been known the world over. Selfridge Field, Uncle Sam's most important Flying Field is near-by.

Algonac—A quaint town built over the water from where bass fishermen start for the big ones.

Marine City—Where people reside for the pure joy of living near water.

St. Clair—The home of a great salt mine and of one of the most delightful waterfront taverns in all Algonquin Land—golf course near-by.

Port Huron—Five minutes ferry ride from Canada. Fine hotels—golf courses—fishing—swimming. Cottages by the hundreds on the wonderful beaches a short distance from the city.

Lexington, Harbor Beach and Point Aux Barques—All on the shore of great Lake Huron with its sandy coves, rocky cliffs and densely wooded areas. Bathing, boating, fishing to your heart's content.

Ann Arbor—The beautiful shaded home of a great university and Pontiac, an intensely industrial city, are each situated in the very heart of the greatest inland lake area on the continent.

LINDELL VIADUCT NOT OPEN TILL THURSDAY

Paving Completed but Engineers Decide to Wait for Traffic Lights.

Although paving of the new Lindell-Union viaduct over the Wabash Railway was completed at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, city engineers have decided not to open it to traffic until next Thursday. They intend to withhold it from use it was stated until automatic traffic signals can be placed in service and sodding of the banks finished. Installation of the heavy, ornamental stone railings may also be completed by that time.

As the $500,000 structure stands, it is inviting to motorists, who would like to utilize the broad, smooth new asphalt and avoid detouring to narrower streets, congested by summer traffic. Last Friday the city opened Park road, the short cutoff between Lindell drive and Union boulevad at the northeastern corner of the intersection. Park road had been closed since April 27, but the main intersection had been blocked since July 12, 1930.

L. R. Bowen, chief engineer of bridges and buildings for the city, said yesterday it was desired to have the viaduct and its surroundings look finished and attractive before opening it to the public. His superior, President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service, announced that Bowen could use his own judgment as to when to open the structure.

On May 29 the new viaduct carrying Grand drive over the Wabash in Forest Park was opened. This was a unit of general undertaking to shift the railroad tracks in the park and eliminate the dangerous double crossing at Lindell and Union. The work began about 14 months ago.

Previously, the Lindell-Union crossing had been blocked about six months in connection with the River des Peres sewer construction.

Courtmartial for Flyer Likely.

By the Associated Press.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, June 6.—Press reports said today that the War Office was forming a courtmartial to try Lisandro Garay, aviator, who is now in New York, and who recently was planning a non-stop flight from New York to Tegulcigalpa. The charges against Garay, it was said, would be that he failed to return to Honduras, after a Government order, to take part in military operations against the rebels. The report said the Government would probably seek to extradite him from the United States.

COUZENS MAY CARRY TAX CASE TO CONGRESS

Senator "Expects" Reply From Mitchell as to James J. Hill Estate.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Senator Couzens of Michigan said today he expected Attorney-General Mitchell to answer his questions about the $1,000,000 estate tax levied on the property of the late James J. Hill of Minnesota, but there was no indication from the Attorney-General that he was ready to reply.

"I certainly want to know why the Department of Justice refused to appeal this case to the Supreme Court," said Couzens. "I have waited two months for a reply from Mr. Mitchell. I expect that reply."

While de declined to discuss the future, there was an intimation from the Senator that he would not hesitate to put the case before Congress when it reconvenes.

As told in the Post-Dispatch Friday, Couzens wrote to the Attorney-General last March about the Hill case. Mitchell was the the attorney for the estate of Mrs. Hill before he entered the Government service. The Circuit Court of Appeals upheld the contention that the property given by Mrs. Hill to her children prior to her death was not given in anticipation of death and therefore was not taxable.

"There may have been a very good reason for it," Couzens said today, "but I don't know what it is. In my mind there is a grave tax evasion and one of the principal reasons why we should have a gift tax."

He said he had shot himself accidentally with a revolver. He was taken to the hospital by attendants who were informed of the shooting by Mrs. Ethel Ryckman Hendricks, 2251 Iowa avenue, Granite City, his estranged wife.

John Ryckman, father of Mrs. Hendricks, said his wife told him that Hendricks had come to their home and threatened her and Mrs. Hendricks with a revolver. Mrs. Ryckman ejected Hendricks and the shooting followed.

The St. Louis directory does not list a Robert Hendricks. No one could be reached at the Kossuth avenue address.

20 CUBANS ARE INJURED IN DEMONSTRATION OF JOBLESS

50 Rioters Seek Refuge of United States Consulate at Santiago.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, June 6.—Twenty persons were injured slightly today in an unemployment demonstration after 50 rioters sought the refuge of the United States consulate here as they fled from rural guards.

Those entering the Consulate were part of a crowd of 1500 which gathered in the streets shortly after noon and began a march through the business district, crying threats against employers and against the Government.

As the crowd neared police headquarters the city police went forth in an attempt to break up the procession, but were unsuccessful. Rural guards hurried to the aid of the police and with drawn machetes attacked the crowd. The rioters quickly dispersed and about 50, pursued by the guards, burst into the Consulate and begged Consul Edwin Shoenerich to give them protection. After he talked to them, they went home.

On Tuesday the Mayors will be received by President Doumergue and on the same day they will receive from the trans-Atlantic flyers, Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, a model of their famous plane, Question Mark, for presentation to President Hoover. On Wednesday they will begin a two-day tour of the Touraine Chateaux.

RUSSIAN TOBACCO ON INCREASE

ISTANBUL, Turkey, June 6.—Russian tobacco is driving the Turkish product out of the German market, the official newspaper Milliett says, because the Soviets are "dumping" their output at a price 30 to 40 per cent under Turkey's.

It is a vital blow at Turkish trade, the newspaper says, for tobacco represents one-third of its entire annual exports and the future is particularly gloomy inasmuch as Russia has announced its intention of doubling tobacco production next year.

NEGRO DROWNED FIGHTING FIRE ON FLOATING DOCK IN RIVER

Boats Pump Water from Mississippi to Quench Blaze; Loss Estimated at $30,000.

An unidentified Negro roustabout was drowned last night when he fell into the Mississippi River while fighting a fire on a floating dock of the Mississippi-Warrior Barge Line at its East Side terminal north of the Free Bridge. The Negro fell into the water when he attempted to leap from the St. Louis harbor boat, Erastus Wells, to the dock.

The fire was extinguished by the crews of the harbor boat and the Iowa, a Mississippi-Warrior steamer who dropped lines into the river and pumped streams of water on the fire, although handicapped by lack of pressure. The nearest fire plug was more than half a mile away and an East St. Louis fire company was able only to play a stream from chemical tanks from the Free Bridge.

A 40-foot section of the dock, which was 150 feet long and 50 feet wide, was burned, and two cranes and three empty boxcars were destroyed. The loss is estimated at $30,000 to $40,000 by Leo Robino, engineer in charge of the cranes.

The fire started when oil, used in operation of the cranes, overflowed and was ignited.

PLANE AIDS IN CAPTURE OF THREE AFTER HOLDUP

Suspects Caught in Woods Near Auburn, N. Y.; Fourth Flees In Stolen Auto.

By the Associated Press.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., June 6.—A force of 150 state troopers, city police and deputy sheriffs, aided by an airplane pilot captured three of four men who had engaged in a running pistol fight from an automobile with a trooper who had tried to stop them. The men had sped away after taking $1.55 worth of gasoline from an Auburn gasoline station. The fourth occupant of the car escaped after the car overturned. He forced a motorist to take him in and after driving a half mile put the car owner out and drove on with the stolen machine.

The three prisoners gave their names as Harvey Sulton of Kansas City, Mo.; John Ryan of Chicago and Steve Mack, no address. One of them told police the sedan in which they were traveling had been stolen in Chicago. A loaded sawed-off shotgun was found in the wrecked car. It was wrapped in a Chicago newspaper.

Emil Roth, flying from the Syracuse airport, circled over the woods, signalling to the searchers and occasionally returning to the airport to telephone more detailed directions to the officers. Eventually the three were cought.

FUNERAL OF BANKER WHO SHOT HIMSELF TO BE HELD TODAY

Services for Nelson B. Baker to Be Held Today at 3:30 P. M. at Maplewood Methodist Church

The funeral of Nelson B. Baker, former president of the Bank of Maplewood and Trust Co., who ended his life in a room at the Marquette Hotel, will be at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Maplewood Methodist Church, Flora and Sutton avenues.

The pastor, the Rev. John W. Meredith, will officiate. Burial will be at Baker's old home, near Cadiz, O. Since he came to Maplewood from Ohio, about 22 years ago, Baker had been a member of the official board of this church and he had been superintendent of its Sunday school for the last 18 years.

Baker, who was 58 years old, had been missing since Wednesday. A revolver, with one discharged cartridge, was found beside him in the hotel room Friday night. He had left a note at the West End Bank, 6605 Delmar boulevard, University City, where for the last year he had had nominal duties as a vice president, saying he feared he was losing his mind and intended to "end it all." Baker had sold out his interest in the Bank of Maplewood about a year ago. He resided with his wife at 7350 Flora avenue, Maplewood. It was Wednesday evening when he registered under an assumed name at the hotel.

FOUR HUNG JURIES, SO DEFENDANT GOES FREE

Eldorado (Kan.) Youth Confessed Killing Parents, Five Brothers and Sisters.

ELDORADO, Kan., June 6. — Owen Oberst, farm youth charged with killing his father, mother and five brothers and sisters in 1928, is to be released. R. M. Woodward. Cutler County attorney, announced he would ask for dismissal of murder charges against Oberst as the result of a State Supreme Court decision today holding that the case could not be transferred to another county for trial.

"It has been shown the case cannot be settled in Butler County courts," Woodward said. Three Butler County juries were unable to reach an agreement after hearing the evidence.

The charred bodies of the Oberst family were found in the smoking embers of their farm home the night of April 20, 1928. In a confession, later repudiated, Owen, then 18 years old, said he shot the seven with a rifle, soaked the floor of the house with kerosene and made a pyre of the bodies because he "just got mad" when his father refused him permission to use the family automobile.

He first pleaded guilty and was sentenced to a life terms in the penitentiary. Nine months later the State Supreme Court set aside the sentence and ordered a trial on the ground that the youth was not represented by counsel when he entered his guilty plea.

Owen has been at liberty on $10,000 bond and is employed on a farm near here.

Civic Bodies to Take Up Taxation.

The regular meeting of the Gravois District Association will be held tomorrow night at Gardenville School, Gravois avenue and Kingshighway. A meeting of the Grand Boulevard Association will be held Friday night at Mission Inn, Grand boulevard and Magnolia avenue. August Walz will discuss taxation at both meetings.

RESERVES HELP THE CARDINALS DEFEAT BROOKLYN, 8 TO 6

LOMBARDI, PINCH HITTER, TIES SCORE WITH HOMER; REDBIRDS LENGTHEN LEAD

By J. Roy Stockton.

Ernesto Lombardi, a big-muscled son of Italy, who learned to hit baseballs in sunny California, knocked a home run into the left field seats at Sportsman's Park in the eighth inning yesterday afternoon to tie the score for the Brooklyn Robins in the first game of their series with the Cardinals, but the blow merely added a few moments of excitement to an otherwise business-like contest.

With the score tied at 6 to 6, Manager Charles E. Street blew his whistle ,the Bedbird reserves surged forward and in less time than it would take you to learn to pronounce Ernesto Rudolpho Bocci Lombardi, the Cardinals had forged to the front again. Allyn Stout, the pitcher who answered Street's whistled signal to the reserve corps, killed three cock Robins in the ninth and the Redbirds trotted to their daily shower, victors 8 to 6 and leading the pennant race by a margin of four and a half games.

Until Mr. Lombardi grasped his bat with his big muscles and socked that screaming homer into the sun seats, it was a quiet, polite and pleasingly docile baseball game.

Hafey Hits Homer.

William Watson Clark, whose high fast ball in olden days was wont to confuse and confound Cardinal hitters, was just a batting practice pitcher and while he tarried only a few moments more than one inning he stayed long eonugh for the Redbirds to lambast him for a five-run lead.

George Watkins started the bombardment with a single to center and Frankie Frisch punched one to right, sending George to third. "Ripper" Collins tore off a single to center, scoring Watkins and sending Frisch to third and Chick Hafey then hit a homer into the left field seats, to make the score 4 to 0.

That was all that frame, but Derringer opened the second with a single to center, Adams planted one in right and when Watkins hit to the same field, filling the bases, Uncle Wilbert Robinson derricked Clark and sent in Heimach. Frisch hit into a double play, but while it was being executed, Derringer scored.

That seemed to be a substantial lead and perhaps because Heimach was effective, or because the Cardinals don't believe in wasted energy, there was no further scoring, except for a homer by Gus Mancuso, until the eighth inning and necessity rolled around.

Robins Begin Cutting Lead.

Meantime the Robins began to climb the hill. Bissonette tripled in the fourth and scored on Lopez' fly and singles by Wright, Heimach and Frederick gave the visitors another tally in the fifth.

Derringer then hung up horse collars for the Robins until the eighth inning. Gilbert opened that frame with a single to right and Herman beat out a grounder that Gelbert knocked down in deep short. Bissonette's grounder to Collins advanced the runners and they scored when Lopez rifled a single to center. O'Doul then grounded to Collins and then it was that Lombardi, batting for Wright, fouled off half a dozen pitches and finally drove a cannon ball into the left field seats.

Cards' Unusual Record Since Returning Home

SINCE returning to Sportsman's Park the Cardinals have had a remarkable record. Here are a few of the highlights:

Won 10 games to opponents' four, percentage .714.

Won six games by a one-run margin to opponents' none.

Won all extra-inning games played, two.

Scored a total of 96 runs to opponents' 88.

Adams' Single Wins Game.

One was out in the eighth when Mancuso, not to be outdone by another Italian, cracked a single to center. Then Street's whistle blew and Kaufmann cantered out to run for Mancuso and "Pepper" Martin grabbed a bat and went to the plate for Derringer. Martin singled to left, moving Kaufmann to second and Sparky Adams dribbled a single between Gilbert and Wright to send Kaufmann home. Jimmy Wilson batted for Watkins and dropped a single just out of Finn's reach, filling the bases, and Frisch sent a long fly to O'Doul, Martin charging home after the catch.

Robinson called on Pinch Hitter Flowers to bat for Heimach in the ninth, but Stout retired him on a foul to Adams. Frederick filed to Orsatti, the right-field reserve, and when Gilbert tapped in front of the plate and stood like a statue, Mike Gonzales took the ball on a high bounce, slapped it on Gilbert and all the Cardinals ran to the club house with their third straight victory and the largest first place margin they have enjoyed this year.

Redbird Notes.

RUMORS of a possible trade between the Cardinals and Robins went into circulation yesterday when it was learned that Frank B. York, president of the Brooklyn club, was here. Brooklyn baseball writers suggested that York would not make the trip merely to see the Robins play. The Robins are said to be after a right-handed hitting outfielder. About the only thing the Cards could be said to need is another left-handed pitcher. The Robins have three southpaws—Clark, Shaute and Heimach. York and Sam Breadon conferred before yesterday's game, but both said

Bryan Winter, golf star of the North Hills Country Club, who has been knocking at the championship door since he came to St. Louis four years ago, crashed through to his first title yesterday when he won the St. Louis district championship, defeating Lester Slattery, Crystal Lake Country Club, 2 up, in their 36-hole final match at Midland Valley Country Club.

It was a battle between a man with a splendid long games against one with a remarkable facility around the greens and a delicate putting touch. When the man with the short game weakened a bit, the long hitter stepped in and asserted his superiority. That man was Winter.

Bryan was the favorite at the outset of the contest and all through the match he was better than Slattery from tee to green but Lester made onlookers gasp with his recovery shots, his splendid approaching and putting.

Slattery 3 Up After 26 Holes.

It was his ability to lay runup and pitch shots dead to the pin which gave Slattery a lead of one up on the morning 18 holes and also it carried him to 3 up after eight holes of the afternoon round had been played. But on the ninth hole he failed for the first time to recover properly, lost the hole and was two up. He did the same thing at the tenth and from then on the outcome appeared inevitable. Slattery saved the eleventh hole with a good putt and the twelfth when Winetr failed to get down a putt after sending one shot out of bounds.

Slattery Loses His Touch.

But Bryan came through to win the thirteenth, Slattery again failing to get his approach shot up, and the match was square. Winter gave Lester chances on the next three holes to win, had Slattery been playing the way he had previously, but the touch seemed to have deserted him and he couldn't Agatha Spanholtz, Concordia Gymnastic Society, is shown finishing first, in the second heat of the women's fifty-yard dash, at the annual meeting held under the auspices of the Western District A. A. U. Miss L. Rump, Riddick A. C., was second and Miss R. Fabick of the Angelicas was third. The time for the heat was 6.4 seconds. In the final Miss Spanholtz won in 6.3 seconds.

Mokatam was perfectly ridden. He got away well, moved up very fast, turning out of back stretch, ran into lead at three-furlong pole, drew out, saved ground and held race safe. Questionnaire broke well, but was a bit sluggish all during the running. Workman had to use the whip freely on the colt. He saved some ground, but hung badly. Her Grace, well up for seven furlongs, then dropped back beaten. Polydorus showed a world of early speed, but was being eased when beaten. Gallant Knight was practically left and had no chance. He just galloped along back of the field.

Betting odds: Mokatam, win 6-1, place 6-5, show 1-4; Questionnaire, place 1-8, show out; Her grace, show 2-5.

BELMONT RACE TRACK, June 6.—The forty-fifth running of the classic Suburban was superbly won here this afternoon by the Rancocas Stable's four-year-old colt Mokatam, carrying 123 pounds, in the brilliant time of 2:02 2-5. It was a thrilling finish with James Butler's Questionnaire, the 3 to 5 favorite, getting home second, a head away. Ten lengths back came Ral Parr's mare, Her Grace, to take the show position.

The 30,000 spectators let out a groan as they saw the small field get off to a bad start, with the Western star Gallant Knight, the second choice, being many lengths back of the field. He made a try for the purse, being beaten only a length by Polydorus, the early leader.

Mokatam today reversed the easy victory registered over him by Questionnaire in the Metropolitan. Jockey Robertson rode a perfect race to beat his stablemate rider, Workman. Mokatam paid 6 to 1.

Questionnaire, the top weight of the field, conceded Mokatam five pounds but he came mighty close to duplicating the feat of his sire, Sting, which won both the Metropolitan and Suburban. Questionnaire did not appear to have the pep and dash which have characterized his great races this year.

Polydorus made the early pace, opening up nearly a two-length lead in the first quarter mile, while Her Grace and then Mokatam forced the running. Questionnaire was in third position and at the far turn the crowd expected him to move up with his usual rush but instead, they saw Robertson bring Mokatam along on the outside and assume command.

Schwake Attracting Notice.

JOHN SCHWAKE, who the more he trains the more he gains, in fat as well as in this world's goods, has just passed up his first offer to enter the "big time."

Eddie Mack of the Boston Garden, which is just an annex of Madison Square Garden, has offered Schwake a fight with Babe Hunt, Oklahoma heavy who has gained some fame in the East.

SCHWAKE.

Although this fight might have turned out to be the gateway to bigger and better matches Schwake's advisers have refused the offer, not because they fear John would be beaten but because they fear that John might not please the crowd, if pitted against a boxer of Hunt's type.

"We might ruin John's reputation for keeps," said Schwake's adviser, Sam Slotsky. "That's because Hunt is a boxer who leads and falls in, or runs away. He ties up arms and sneaks blows from clinches very much like Young Stribling at his worst. If he were pitted against Schwake I think a terrible looking affair would result. I don't care to jeopardize John's reputation for being a 100 per cent fighting man."

So John the Fat will wait until something else turns up—probably a fight with Chuck Wiggins at the Winter Garden, June 19. That prospect is not so incandescent, seeing that Chuck has seen his best chukker, and that John already has stopped him.

Time to Get Together.

PROMOTERS who have to discard fight offers because they fear one of the boxers might make a bad show of it, should enter a gentlemen's agreement not to use boxers who do not give the public a run for their money. Foul fighters, stallers, glove-snatchers, cover-up boxers, sneak-punchers, clinchers and wrestlers ought to be included in the ban.

Boxers themselves, and some of their managers, have not realized

Yanks Lose Despite Ruth's 11th Homer And a Triple Play

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 6.

BABE RUTH'S eleventh home run of the year and the second triple play of the major league season was not enough to win for the Yankees today, Cleveland taking the series opener, 7 to 5.

The Babe's homer came with the bases empty in the third inning. The triple play came in the ninth. Singles put Morgan and Vosmik on first and second. Kamm lined right into Gehrig's hands and Lou stepped on first base to double Vosmik. He then threw to Lary at second and retired Morgan before he could get back to the bag, completing the triple play.

HELLMICH AND OWEN DIVIDE A.A.U. SPRINTS

Jimmy Owen and Hudson Hellmich, two of the best sprinters that St. Louis has turned out in recent years, were pitted against each other yesterday afternoon in the Western A. A. U. track and field meet, with each gaining a victory in one of the dashes. Owen nosed out Hellmich in the 100, while Hellmich came back to win the 220-yard dash by a scant margin. The century dash was run in 10 flat and the 220 in 22.2 seconds.

The team trophies were won by the Kingdom House in the men's division, and by the Angelicas in the women's events. Kingdom House scored nine points, and the Jackets 29. Owen scored eight points for Maplewood High, and was second.

Agatha Spanholtz was the surprise of the day, with her clean-cut victory over Mildred Schworm in the 50-yard dash. Miss Schworm won the event last year, but was unable to defend her title against the flying feet of Miss Spanholtz, who has been prominent among sprinters in St. Louis and away from home during the past two seasons.

Miss Maguire Sets Two Marks.

Catherine Maguire was the star of the women, capturing two firsts and a third for a total of 11 points. She set new marks of 4 feet, 11⅛ inches in the high jump, and [illegible] feet, 7 inches in the shotput. Miss

Wykoff Barely Beats Tolan in 9.6 Seconds In N. C. A. A. Century

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 6.—Bronzed athletes of the University of Southern California swept into the National Collegiate Athletic Association track and field championship today with a record-smashing total of 77 1-7 points.

The Trojans, victorious in all their track and field battles this season, won overwhelmingly. Their nearest rival was Ohio State which scored 31 1-7 points, with Illinois third with 28, Iowa fourth with 26 1-7, and Indiana fifth with 26. Wisconsin was sixth with 23¾. Michigan had 20 for seventh, while Iowa State and Miami University of Oxford, O., finished in a tie for eighth with 16 points each. Forty-four of the 80 universities and colleges from 29 states scored in the table of points.

New Point Record.

The Californians, winners of the championship a year ago, hung up a new high point record today, eclipsing the previous record of 72 points established by Leland Stanford in 1929. The Trojans scored in 11 of the 15 events, winning four championships and tying for another.

The meet resulted in two record-breaking performances despite wretched conditions. The cinder path was heavy due to an all night rain and the field was soggy and slippery. All afternoon a mist and fog hung over Staff Field.

The Southern Californians won championships in the 100-yard dash and the 440-yard dash, on the track; the shotput and discus in the field and tied for the pole vault in the air.

Frank Wykoff, the Trojan sprinter, who twice has unofficially run the 100-yard dash in :09.4, conquered his Negro rival, Eddie Toland of Michigan, world's 100-yard dash champion, in a thrilling finish, beating him to the tape in :09.6. Wykoff's chest hit the tape only a few inches ahead of the flying Tolan.

Vic Williams, intercollegiate quarter mile champion, who last week tied Ted Meredith's world record of :47.4, ran a clever race to win the event for Southern California. He stayed back until the stretch, then slipped upon the inside and with a burst of speed, caught and passed James Gordon of Miami University, to win by four yards in :48.3.

Bob Hall was a double winner for the Trojans, with victories in the shotput and discus. William Graber, who cleared 14 feet, ½

ARIZONA POLO TEAM BEATS ARMY FOUR, 9-8

NEW YORK, June 6.—The University of Arizona polo four defeated the first division team at Fort Hamilton today, 9 to 8, in an extra-chukker match.

Harry Wilson, Arizona back, was high scorer of the game for Arizona with four goals, tying the score twice in the sixth period and scoring the winning goal in the extra period on a sole effort. Lieut. Kiefer scored four times for the first division four.

inch to win the pole vault in the I. C. 4-A. meet last week, gained Southern California's share of a championship in this event. He tied with Tommy Warne of Northwestern, and Verne McDermont of Illinois, in clearing the bar at 13 feet, 10 5-16 inches, to eclipse Warne's old N. C. A. A. record of 13 feet, 9⅝ inches, hung up last year.

After trailing Wykoff in the century, Tolan came back to run away from his field in the 220-yard dash. The Wolverine won the event four yards ahead of Peyton Glass of the Oklahoma Aggies. Tolan's time was 21.5 seconds.

Individual honors were divided between Jack Keller, Ohio State's hurdler, and Bob Hall, Trojan weight man, each of whom won two championships. Keller won the 120-yard high hurdles in 14.6 seconds, and scored a lucky triumph in the 220-yard low hurdles when Ernie Payne, Trojan star, stumbled over the last barrier and sprawled face forward on the cinders. Keller beat Bill Carls, another Trojan, in 23.8 seconds.

Hall captured two titles for Southern California with victories in the shot put and discus throw. He tossed the shot 49 feet 9 inches. In the discus, he won with a heave of 152 feet 7½ inches.

Some "One-Man" Events.

Dale Letts, University of Chicago, Big Ten half-mile champion, smashed the N. C. A. A. record for the event in the most thrilling distance race of the day. His time, 1:53.5, clipped six-tenths of a second off the record set by Orval Martin of Purdue a year ago. Letts ran his first quarter in 54 seconds.

Clark Chamberlain of Michigan State College, who won the 1930 intercollegiate cross-country title, raced to an impressively easy triumph in the two-mile. His time was 9:23.

Kenneth Churchill of the University of California, America's premier javelin thrower, was in a class by himself, flinging the spear 215 feet, nearly 15 feet better than the effort of O. E. Nelson of Iowa, who finished second. Ivan Dyekman of Colorado Aggies, was almost as superior in the hammer throw, hurling the missile 162 feet 1½ inches.

Ed Gordon, Iowa Negro, retained his broad jump title with a leap of 24 feet 11⅜ inches, with L. E. Boyle, lone University of Pennsylvania entrant, second, one and one-quarter inches behind. Darrell Jones of Ball State Teachers (Muncie, Ind.), became the new high-jumping champion when he achieved 6 feet 3¾ inches.

Amateur Soccer Elevens Play in U. S. Title Game

AKRON, O., June 6.—The Goodyears of Akron and the Black Cats of New Bedford, Mass., meet for the second time to determine the amateur soccer championship of the United States here tomorrow. The kick-off has been set for 2 o'clock.

Three weeks ago these teams battled 1-1 draw at New Bedford. Even after playing through two extra sessions they failed to break the deadlock.

The Tiremen and the New Englanders were among the 73 simon-pure aggregations which started out in quest of national honors last November and after a severe test the Goodyears came out on top in the West to meet the Black Cats, who survived all Eastern opponents.

Rockne Memorial To Be $1,000,000 Field House

By the Associated Press.

NOTRE DAME, Ind., June 6.

THE memory of the late Knute Rockne will be perpetuated in a $1,000,000 field house, the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, president of the University of Notre Dame, announced tonight.

The building will be erected at a cost of $650,000, Father O'Donnell said, and $350,000 will be placed in an endowment fund for its upkeep.

The campaign for funds, although directed by Notre Dame men, will not be limited to them alone. It will be a national movement "for the whole country to pay tribute in some outstanding and lasting way to this ideal of the American public," Father O'Donnell told guests at the annual alumni dinner.

Maurice B. Carroll of the Class of 1919, an architect in Kansas City, has donated the services of his firm in planning the building.

The announcement came after several weeks of planning by the Rockne Memorial Committee, Inc.

KIRKWOOD BOY WINS IN SCHOOL GOLF TOURNEY

Frank Bredall of Kirkwood, unheralded as a budding golfer of parts, pulled a surprise by turning in a score of 74 to become medalist in the third annual high school golf tournament at the Woodlawn Country Club yesterday under the auspices of the St. Louis District Golf Association. His low score for the 18 holes also helped the Kirkwood High team, which took possession of the team trophy by turning in a total score of 317 for four of its players. Roosevelt High was second in team play with a score of 332.

The team award, presented by the St. Louis P. G. A., is a three-time cup, which was taken by St. Louis U. High and University City in the preceding tournaments.

Two boys, Robert Curran of St. Louis U. High and Charles Taylor of Ritenour, tied for second place in the medal play with scores of 77. Three others, John Wilson, Soldan; C. White, Central, and Isadore Handler, Beaumont, tied for third with 79 each. Four players had 80, while the rest were widely distributed.

Early in the day it seemed as though there would be a tie for medalist, as both Bob Curran and Charley Taylor had turned in 77s, but when Bredall came in later with a 74 it was all over but the shouting. His score was just one stroke higher than George Kippenberger's in last year's tourney, held on the same course. Par was 70.

Bredall's card:

Out—
Par ...3 4 4 5 3 4 3 4 4—34
Bredall 5 4 4 5 3 4 5 4 3—37
In—
Par ...3 5 4 4 4 4 5 3 4—36—70
Bredall 4 4 4 5 4 4 4 4 4—37—74

An unusual number of players managed to shoot below 85. Bob Cochrane of McBride, who was second in last year's tourney and was expected by many to come through with a victory, went around the course in 80, as did Eugene Andrews, Kirkwood; Richard Coleman of Maplewood, and R. Reister of Kirkwood. There were many others finishing close to 80, such as: Dave Garroway, University City, 85; Tom Draper, Roosevelt, 81; William Bohn, Webster, 81; Carl Tietjen, Central, 82; Phil Hauser, Kirkwood, 83; Charles Gragg, Wellston, 85; Lyle Santz, Roosevelt, 84; Howard Hess, University City, 83; Joe Frein, Ritenour, 85; Frank Kane, McBride, 84; Clifford Ruhland, Webster, 85; Carl Fink, Beaumont, 85; Jim Benson, Maplewood, 83; J. Babe Ruth Will Be Honored Today

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 6.—The baseball world tomorrow will try to tell George Herman Ruth how much it appreciates his contribution to the game. It will be Babe Ruth day at Yankee Stadium, and he will receive the silver plaque voted to him by the New York baseball writers as the most valuable man to his team.

In awarding the plaque to Ruth, New York writers of baseball specified his record in 1930 for a basis for their findings. But the baseball world attaches a far broader significance to the occasion, for he is the greatest ball player that ever lived.

He made the Yankees the outstanding attraction of baseball since he joined the team in 1920, and has elevated baseball to the status of big business. He made millions of dollars, not only for the Yankees but for every club in the game. He revived interest in the game and made millions of fans.

Edwardsville Star Graduates With Brilliant Sports Record

The outstanding athlete of the Southwestern Illinois High School Conference, which is composed of Edwardsville, Granite City, Wood River, Alton, East St. Louis, Belleville, Collinsville and the Madison High Schools, is Reno Tenor of the Edwardsville High. In the six track meets in which Edwardsville participated Tenor has scored 102 1-4 points for a new high mark of individual point scoring in the conference.

RENO TENOR.

Tenor is not only a track star but he is a three-letter man in three different sports, namely, football, basketball and track. On the football team Tenor played half back on offense and safety man on the defense. He was put back in the safety position because he could run fast, sidestep well, and he had a very good stiff arm. During his last two years on theteam he did all the passing and punting and with his teammate, Fahrig, was able to complete passes of 45 to 50 yards more than 90 per cent of the time. Because of his ability to carry the ball over half of the plays during the season were called for him.

In his three years on the basketball team Tenor played every position on the court and starred in each position. He was captain of the quintet last season. He did not go out for any sports in his freshman year.

Had Hard Competition.

All Edwardsvilles' track meets this season were considered difficult, especially the Conference Relay meet and the Conference track and field meet in which all of the schools in the conference competed. In the two meets combined Tenor took four individual firsts in the javelin two times, in the 440-yard dash, in which he set a new record of 53.2 seconds which had stood for three years, and broke his own record in the 220-yard low hurdles, which he set in 1929, his new record being 27.4 seconds. He was also the anchor man on the relay team which ran first in the mile relay at the conference relay meet and was also anchor man on the 880-yard relay team which ran second to the Collinsville team at the Conference track and field meet in which the Collinsville team tied the old record of 1 minute 36.5 seconds.

In a dual meet with the Wood River high team Tenor took four firsts, tied for second in the high jump, and was anchor man on the relay team to score 23¼ points. In a quadrangular meet at the Edwardsville field Tenor took five firsts and tied for a first, along with a second in the broad jump and tying for a third in the high jump. Tenor in this meet alone scored 28¾ points.

Tenor will be in the June graduating class of the Edwardsville High School. He has made no definite arrangements to attend college He is five feet nine inches tall and weighs only 155 younds, but despite his modest weight he is known in the Southwestern Conference as "The Big Shot from Edwardsville."

WRAY'S COLUMN

that they cannot continue to attract patrons if they do not give what they are paid to produce—a fight.

Many pugilists today have got away from the science of defense as practiced by real fighters of the Jimmy Wilde, Gene Tunney stripe. They think that if they can sneak in a lead and then grab an armful of gloves they are fighting. But the public has long ago decided that such boxers are merely four-flushing. They will not pay to see such affairs.

Unfortunately, the fighters have not found that out. It is up to the promoters therefore to weed out the undesirables—to have a little list, so to speak, of boxers who never would be missed.

And, boy, you have no idea how long it would be!

A Real Dog-Fight.

NOTWITHSTANDING the Cardinals, except for the lowering of their standards during that Eastern trip, have shown unmistakable signs of championship quality, if they again enter the world series of 1931, it will be only after a "dog fight" among no fewer than four clubs.

The Cubs are coming fast. When Hack Wilson gets his eye on the ball as inevitably he must, the attack of the Cubs will be back to normal. Already the team is leading all league rivals in hitting—and the worst is yet to come.

The Robins, who suffered plenty of misfortune at the start of the race, are beginning to get a toe-hold on themselves and to perk up.

The Giants, with that great infield and sterling hitting are right on the heels of the Cards. Pittsburg and Boston cannot be utterly despised.

Nevertheless, in spite of all this competition, the Cardinals still impress the majority of observers as being the best grounded for the pennant marathon.

Not Yet at Full Power.

ONLY a few times this year have the Redbirds been able to take the field with their best lineup. No fewer than four regulars (Frisch, Watkins, Douthit and Hafey) are many points below their normal batting figures. The team's batting average still is 20 points below what it should be; and the hospital list has continued throughout the campaign.

If and when the sick ward is emptied and the team's artillery is recruited to its full strength, the Cardinals ought to forge right along, just as they did early in August, last year, when the club finally shook itself together, and become an outfit comparable in power to the team of 1926.

This year's Cardinal club is really a better team than that—provided Frankie Frisch gets going at top speed. It is a singular fact the Cardinals have seemed to rise or fall when Frankie Frisch is going well or badly. If Frisch should have another year such as he put on in 1927, the Cardinals might be counted "in," even now.

That Delayed Batting.

IT may be the new ball; it may be the better pitching; it may be the new "sacrifice" rule; it may be the weather. It may be all of them. But something has dimmed the batting eyes of our major league sluggers, this year.

Team averages show that. Until last week only one club was able to pass the .300 swat mark. That was Cleveland. Lately the Cubs have sneaked across the line. But still there are only two clubs in the "charmed circle."

Contrast that with the final averages of last year. Where we find TWO clubs hitting .300 today, last year there were SIX in the National League alone! The American League had three teams above the mark. In all there were nine major league .300 hitting teams last year as contrasted with two today.

There are now only 36 hitters in the .300 class in the National League where the close of the 1930 season found 55 regulars above that figure and 17 more who had played in between 10 and 75 games! The American League also shows a falling off from a total of 71 hitters above .300 down to 49.

National League Harder Hit.

THESE totals seem to indicate that the new ball and the new sacrifice fly rule have had their effect. The high seam may also have helped pitching. The National League, too, has been considerably more affected than the American, probably due to the fact that it has thickened the cover of the ball as well as raised its seams.

What effect the general reduction of hitting will have on the relative efficiency of the various clubs can only be guessed. It is reasonable to assume that as they will all be cut down in proportion the relative standing of the clubs will not be affected.

The general effect has been to promote closer contests, lower scores and more interesting struggles. For the first time in several years we note that team strategy frequently calls for playing for a single run instead of a big inning.

Redbirds Now Eagles.

JUDGING by the way the Cardinals outgame and outlast their rivals, there will be another story told if and when the Redbirds face the Athletics next fall, in a return engagement for the Big Plum.

Last year the local boys were just "Redbirds;" but this year they are eagles. When the battle is hot and close and it is necessary to get over just one run to do their stuff, the Cardinals have been "there," in a majority of instances. Especially notable has been their pinch-playing in extra-inning games, which this year have totaled six. All of these were won by Street's high-flyers. They played no favorites and picked on only one weakling in turning the trick. Twice the Cubs were trimmed, once the New Yorks and once it was Pittsburg. The weak Reds were nosed out twice.

When it comes to battling 100 per cent successfully in pinches, fans have found the Cardinals a strong club. Against the Athletics the Cardinals of 1931 are likely to prove birds of another color than last year.

Still, in the matter of naming a team that can take the measure of three pitchers like Grove, Earnshaw and Walberg, backed by three hitters like Cochrane, Simmons and Foxx, it takes courage.

Three pitchers who can win 26 victories out of the 32 won by the team this year will have to be regarded as invincible.

And that was the record of the Athletics' great trio yesterday morning.

MISS ORCUTT, 82, IS THIRD IN BRITISH GOLF QUALIFYING PLAY

By the Associated Press.

PORTMARNOCK, Ireland, June 6.—Enid Wilson, English woman's champion, today led the field at the end of the first qualifying round of the British ladies golf championship with a 75. Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N. J., finished third with 82.

A thunderstorm, breaking over the course soon after Miss Wilson had finished, wrecked many hopes and sent scores mounting into the nineties.

Vanda Morgan, was second with an 80 and Molly Gourlay had an 83 for fourth place.

Sixty-four players will qualify in the 36 holes played today and Monday for the match play which will continue through next Friday.

Diana Fishwick, the defending champion, was one of those who went around in the wind and rain. She required 87 strokes placing her in a tie with four others for eighth place.

Chicago U. Loses and Gives Illinois Big Ten Title

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., June 6.—Wisconsin's baseball team, behind the three-hit pitching of Jake Sommerfield, turned back Chicago, 5 to 0, here today to give Illinois the 1931 Western Coference title. The result left the Illini a season record of eight victories against two defeats to eight wins and three losses for the Maroons.

Coach "Pat" Page's nine, making its first bid for the baseball title since 1913, could not cope with the Wisconsin attack. No Maroon advanced past second base.

HELLMICH AND OWEN DIVIDE HONORS IN A. A. U. SPRINT RACES

Maguire has been prominent among women athletes during the last few years, and will probably try for a place on the 1932 Olympic team.

Gorman Broe, former Roosevelt High School star, proved that he has lost none of his speed in the middle distance runs, when he won the 880 in 2 min., 2.2 seconds.

Dave Cook, freshman star at Illinois University, and former Soldan High star, set a new record in the 16-pound shot, hurling the sphere 46 feet. This broke the old record of Buddy Sample of Webster High School, made several years ago.

Club Gets Bad Break.

Mildred Schworm made up for her defeat in the 50-yard dash by breaking the broad jump record by more than a foot, leaping 16 feet, 4 inches, to displace the old mark of 15 feet.

Due to a mixup in the entry of Jimmy Owen, the Maplewood and Webster Club, composed of the high school pupils from those districts, lost the team championship. Owen scored 8 points, and got second place in the team totals, while the M. and W. Club only scored six points. Owen's entry was not signed by the coach and his points were not credited to the club.

BOSTON, June 6.—There was a "big parade" of pitchers here today in the opening game of the series between the Browns and the Red Sox and when the procession, which required two hours and 14 minutes to pass a given point, was complete, it was found the Red Sox had won a game by the score of 9 to 8.

Coffman and Kimsey imitated pitching for the Browns, and Kline, Durham, Lisenbee and Wilcy Moore enacted the role for Boston. As the Sox gathered 14 hits and the Browns made a dozen, you can get an idea of what the pitching was like.

Coffman held a 5-1 lead until the sixth when he exploded and the Sox made three runs. Kimsey started his relief work well but allowed a pair of runs in the seventh and another pair in the eighth and thereby lost the decision.

Melillo made two hits in five times up while Goslin, in the same number of trips, collected three safeties, one for three bags.

The defeat prevented the Browns from ascending to sixth place in the league ladder.

Browns Lead Most of Way.

The scoring started early. Levey drew a pass to open the game. After Burns had flied out, Goslin singled to right, sending Levey to third. Kress then bounced one off the fence in left. Levey scored and when Marquardt, taking Rothrock's throw at second to retire Kress, delayed getting up after a diving play, Goslin also tallied. Kress was credited with driving in the two tallies.

In the Sox half, with one out Marquardt doubled to right. Rothrock sent a short fly to center which McNeely muffed, Marquardt reaching third. McNeely then raced to right center to pull down Webb's potential extra-baser, Marquardt completing the road home after the capture.

Kline was knocked out by the Browns in the third. Levey walked and Burns singled. As Goslin forced Burns, Levey scored, after which Kress tripled to right to send Goslin home.

Durham went in at this point and, on Jenkins' tap, Kress was run down, Jenkins reaching second, where he remained while Melillo rolled out.

Coffman Is Kayoed.

Coffman had his troubles in the second half but escaped. Durham's single was followed by Oliver's double, after which Durham was out at the plate on Marquardt's tap. Rothrock grounded out and Burns made a wonderful stop to retire Webb. Rothrock's double following a pass to Marquardt in the fifth gave Boston a second run.

The Browns broke out again in the sixth. Melillo singled and Ferrell doubled. McNeely shot a single to left for the two runs and Coffman sacrificed, but Levey and Burns couldn't keep things going.

With one out in the Sox section Coffman blew up and was forced to give way to Kimsey. Chad got the side out after Boston had counted three runs off Coffman.

With Lisenbee pitching in the seventh, hits by Goslin, Jenkins and Melillo gave the Browns another run and, in the last half Boston tied it up. It was that kind of a game, a dropped throw by M

MISS ORCUTT, 82, IS THIRD IN BRITISH GOLF QUALIFYING PLAY

By the Associated Press.

PORTMARNOCK, Ireland, June 6.—Enid Wilson, English woman's champion, today led the field at the end of the first qualifying round of the British ladies golf championship with a 75. Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N. J., finished third with 82.

A thunderstorm, breaking over the course soon after Miss Wilson had finished, wrecked many hopes and sent scores mounting into the nineties.

Vanda Morgan, was second with an 80 and Molly Gourlay had an 83 for fourth place.

Sixty-four players will qualify in the 36 holes played today and Monday for the match play which will continue through next Friday.

Diana Fishwick, the defending champion, was one of those who went around in the wind and rain. She required 87 strokes placing her in a tie with four others for eighth place.

Chicago U. Loses and Gives Illinois Big Ten Title

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., June 6.—Wisconsin's baseball team, behind the three-hit pitching of Jake Sommerfield, turned back Chicago, 5 to 0, here today to give Illinois the 1931 Western Coference title. The result left the Illini a season record of eight victories against two defeats to eight wins and three losses for the Maroons.

Coach "Pat" Page's nine, making its first bid for the baseball title since 1913, could not cope with the Wisconsin attack. No Maroon advanced past second base.

Maguire has been prominent among women athletes during the last few years, and will probably try for a place on the 1932 Olympic team.

Gorman Broe, former Roosevelt High School star, proved that he has lost none of his speed in the middle distance runs, when he won the 880 in 2 min., 2.2 seconds.

Dave Cook, freshman star at Illinois University, and former Soldan High star, set a new record in the 16-pound shot, hurling the sphere 46 feet. This broke the old record of Buddy Sample of Webster High School, made several years ago.

Club Gets Bad Break.

Mildred Schworm made up for her defeat in the 50-yard dash by breaking the broad jump record by more than a foot, leaping 16 feet, 4 inches, to displace the old mark of 15 feet.

Due to a mixup in the entry of immy Owen, the Maplewood and Webster Club, composed of the igh school pupils from those districts, lost the team championship. Owen scored 8 points, and got second place in the team totals, while the M. and W. Club only scored ix points. Owen's entry was not igned by the coach and his points vere not credited to the club.

It was that kind of a game, a dropped throw by Melillo at second giving the Red Sox their chance. A single by Lisenbee, a sacrifice, an infield out and Rothrock's infield hit put Boston a run to the good in the eighth and Webb, with a double that scored Rothrock, made them 2 up.

With one out in the ninth, Goslin tripled and Kress walked, and Wilcy Moore relieved Lisenbee. Jenkins forced Kress to score Goslin, but it was all over when Melillo forced Jenkins.

Brownie Notes.

BOSTON, June 6.

WALTER STEWART, probably will go after his sixth victory of the campaign in tomorrow's game with the Sox. His work this year has been really remarkable. Though beaten at times, he has not pitched a single bad effort. The game is to be played at Braves Field.

Young "Lefty" Hebert was bunged up by a line drive in batting practice today but took only a short count and went back to work.

Umpires sometimes make mistakes. At least, that's what the Boston newspaper men say. They are telling of a decision which took a game away from the Sox, who need victories rather badly. The Sox were playing Cleveland and, in the ninth inning, Reeves of the Sox was hit on the hand. His being permitted to take first would have won for Boston, for there was a man on who would have moved to second and scored on a double which followed. The umpire said Reeves was not hit. After the game the player's hand was found to be fractured.

It may surprise some people to see Melillo up among the batting elect, but Oscar himself is not at all amazed. Says he: "Natural ability, like murder, will out." Seriously, though, his work on the offense has been a revelation and is the current sensation of the season.

Killefer went back to his old batting order, with Red Kress back in fourth place, Ferrell moving down to seventh. In the last three games in New York, Kress began to hit hard and, when he is "right," he is a natural No. 4 man.

Ruth Takes Lead in Major League Batting

By the Associated Press.

Babe Ruth clouted his way into the batting leadership of the major leagues yesterday as his three hits including his eleventh homer of the season lifted his average 11 points to a new high mark of .408.

His nearest rival in the big six, Mickey Cochrane, hit only once in five times up and lost six points. "Gink" Hendricks, National League leader, picked up five points with two hits in four tries and Oscar Melillo gained one with two hits in five at bat. The standing:

take advantage of his opportunities.

At the seventeenth Slattery put his tee shot in the rough to the left, got out with his second but his third was on the green, 30 feet past the cup. Winter, straight down the middle with his drive, rapped his second on the green hole high, and was down in two putts for a par 4 to take a lead of one up for the first time since the fifteenth hole of the morning round.

Slattery missed two shots on the eighteenth hole, while Winter, with two fine straight wood shots was on the green. Slattery got his third on the putting surface but when he failed to get his fourth down, he conceded the hole to Winter, which gave Bryan the match, 2 up, and the title.

Three Strokes Apart for 33.

Winter had a medal score for the 36 holes of 151, 76 in the morning and 75 in the afternoon, while Slattery had 154, 75 in the morning and 7 9in the afternoon.

They played the best golf of the day on the first nine holes in the afternoon, Slattery going out in 35, to 36 for Winter, but coming back, Slattery's game cracked wide open and he took 43 blows, while Winter slipped a little also but managed a 39.

Medart Victor, 9 and 8, In Consolation Final.

Bill Medart, another member of North Hills, won the consolation championship, defeating Paul Gartland of Triple A, 9 and 8, in the final.

The Class A final was won by Reginald Belleville, Crystal Lake, who defeated Bob Cochran, Forest Park, in the final, 2 and 1, and Class B honors went to Howard Williams, Normandie, who gained a 1 up victory over Earl Klein of Woodlawn.

Tournament Notes.

IN his march to the title, Winter triumphed over Chick Irwin, Dick Bockenkamp, Roger Lord, Elliott Whitbread and Slattery, while to reach the final match Slattery won from Ken Saunders, Chris Kenney, Don Lambert and Chester O'Brien.

Winter, after playing in the sectional qualifying round for the National Open at Normandie Monday, will try to score a Missouri double by going after the State amateur championship. Play for this title opens at North Hills Wednesday.

Slattery, due to his splendid approaching, used only 27 putts on the morning round, but in the afternoon he needed 31 made up of 14 on the first nine and 17 on the second.

Winter, in addition to driving much better than Slattery, hit some of the most remarkable second shots of the day. His best was probably his second on the ninth hole in the morning when, lying close to a tree in the rough to the left of the fairway, he pulled a midiron from his bag and slammed the ball to the green 200 yards away.

In the morning round, traps cost Winter two holes. At the tenth he was in a deep trap to the left and took two shots to get out, and on the next hole he played a great iron second over the trees but the ball caught a trap and lay against an abrupt slope covered with long grass, which cost him two more blows to get on the green.

Slattery's best tee shot of the day was on the sixteenth hole of the morning round, when he reached the edge of the green 234 yards from the tee with a strong wind blowing against him.

Winter had trouble at the sixteenth on both rounds. In the morning he was short the ball lying on a slope in front of the green while in the afternoon he was in a deep trap to the right but exploded out nicely.

On the fourteenth hole in the afternoon, Winter was on the green in three shots, playing a fine third out of a trap to the green. He waited several minutes for a street car to pass before putting but he missed.

The new champion hits his shots and then does a 100-yard dash to get to his ball to hit the next. It's a good thing he walks fast for he makes up the times in that which he takes to hit his shots.

A gallery of several hundred persons started out with the players in the afternoon and picked up recruits most of the way around until there were probably 500 watching the final hole played.

AMES DEFEATS DEWEY, 5-4, IN FIRST GAME OF TITLE SERIES

Pitcher Albert Antonucci of Dewey School, the strikeout king of the Public School League, added 10 strikeouts to his record and allowed only three hits to the Ames School team yesterday at the Public School Stadium in the first of a three-game series for the City Grade School championship, but Antonucci couldn't control his left hand snap delivery and Ames won the first game of the series, 5 to 4. Six free trips to first by Antonucci figured in all runs scored by Ames.

Although allowing eight hits and giving eight bases on balls, La Mantia, pitching for Ames, kept his hits and walks so well scattered that Dewey was able to score in only two innings. La Mantia fanned 11.

Epelley scored the first run for Ames in the first when he walked, stole second and third and crossed the plate after a fly to the outfield. In the second Ames scored again, Ellington driving in a run after Tusinski had walked and had stolen second and third.

Benholdt Gets Double.

Ames counted again in the third on Benholdt's double, a stolen base and an error, and in the fourth, added their fourth run on three walks in a row followed by a single by Roderique, which scored Tusinski. Ames made its last run in the fifth. Benholdt walked, stole second and third and scored on an error.

Singles by Fine, Null, Hense, Gorman and Griffin, accounted for Dewey's two runs in the second, and in the sixth Griffin's two-base hit drove in Hence and Gorman, who had walked, for Dewey's other scores. Dewey made its biggest threat in the sixth, having three men on base with two out, after the two runs had been scored, but the opportunity for further scoring was lost when Fine grounded to the pitcher.

The second game of the title series will be played Monday afternoon, starting at 4 o'clock, also at the Stadium, and the third, if necessary, Wednesday afternoon. To the winning team will go the Post-Dispatch trophy, as well as individual medals to players.

CUBS WIN FROM GIANTS AND GO INTO A TIE FOR SECOND PLACE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 6.—Bob Smith pitched the Cubs into a tie with the New York Giants for second place in the National League today, beating the Giants 5 to 1 in a tight duel with John Berly. It was Smith's fourth straight victory.

Smith and Berly fought it out for seven innings with the New Yorker having a bit the better of the argument. Then Berly weakened and Chicago scored four runs. Grimm opened the big frame with a double and when Smith bunted, Hogan threw to third too late to catch Grimm. Cuyler's single brought in the winning runs and after two men had been retired Stephenson's double and Moore's single, coupled with a wild throw by Critz, let two more runs cross the plate.

REDS WIN FOURTH STRAIGHT, DEFEATING BOSTON BRAVES, 6-5

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, O., June 6. — The eighth place Reds ran their winning streak to four games for the first time this season when they put on a three-run ninth inning rally today to defeat Boston, 6 to 5.

In the ninth Heathcote, first up, pinch hit for Kolp and doubled. Crabtree tripled, scoring him and knocked Socks Siebold from the box. Roettger doubled off Cantwell, scoring Crabtree. Roettger took third on a wild pitch and Stripp walked, Frankhouse relieving Cantwell. Hendrick was purposely passed, filling the bases. Roettger was out at the plate and Roush's roller to Maguire but Cuccinello singled, driving in Stripp with the winning run.

Simmons Termed by McGraw 'Standout Player of Country, One Who Can Do Everything'

By John J. McGraw,

Manager, New York Giants.

CHICAGO, June 6.—The pitching situation this season seems to have fooled all the experts. It has been many a year since so many pitchers have been able to start ball games and finish them.

AL SIMMONS

There is no doubt in my mind that this unexpected success of pitchers this spring has been due to general improvement in control, probably the result of confidence inspired by the new ball with raised seams.

An excellent illustration of what control can do to bring out the real merits of a big league pitcher is the case of Dutch Brandt of the Boston Braves. His record is not so surprising to those who have seen his newly acquired control. He always had natural stuff, but in the past had been unable to make it behave.

You could go right down the line and put your finger on any number of pitchers who are prospering in the same manner. Of the veterans there are Fitzsimmons, Mitchell, Seibold, Walberg, Grove, Earnshaw, Walker, Pipgras, Clarke, Brown of Washington and several others.

This confidence of control has even reached into the ranks of the youngsters and both leagues are blessed with an unusual number of effective men.

Berly has made a good start for the Giants, having pitched 19 consecutive scoreless innings. Other comparative newcomers to make their mark early are Johnson of the Yanks; Johnson of the Reds; Derringer of the Cardinals; Baecht of the Cubs; Bridges of Detroit and Fay Thomas of Cleveland. Several more are just beginning to step out.

Promising Young Hitters.

With this general improvement in pitching the games have tightened up, giving fans the best sport they have had in years. The ever increasing attendance is a mighty good sign of public appreciation and interest. It's a great season.

But the pitchers are not having it all to themselves by any means. Quite a number of new hitters, of great promise, have developed. There are Vosmik of Cleveland; Owen of Detroit; Vergez of the Giants; Jurges of the Cubs; Appling of the White Sox; Pickering of the Red Sox; Jimmy Reese of the Yanks. That boy Levey is also going well. Buzz Arlett who has been a long hitting sensation with the Phillies is no youngster in years, though a newcomer to the big leagues. It will be interesting to see what Arlett is able to do in the bigger parks after he has made a complete tour of the circuit.

Speaking of hitters and all around ability let me say right here that Al Simmons of the Athletics is the standout ballplayer of the whole country today. Apparently he can do anything.

A glance at the records will show unusual attention to base running this spring, a situation that many of us predicted when the ball was made less lively. The number of stolen bases grow rapidly.

SPORT SALAD

— By — L. C. DAVIS

Bad Form—Good Results.

THERE was a young man from Pawtucket,
Who hit with his foot in the bucket;
This unorthodox stance
Made the fans look askance,
But the ball cleared the fence when

Absolutely.

THE new ball just as far will
When Babe Ruth socks it with his gavel;
A guy don't care for seams or stitches
When he has on his batting britches

Corners.

Prosperity is just around the corner. But which corner deponent saith not. As we get it, the whole trouble started by corners. There were wheat corners, steel corners, tin-can corners, radio corners, telephone corners and pussy-wants-a-corner. There were so many corners on Wall street that the oil men were running around in circles yelling, "Corners, corners everywhere, but not one corner for a filling station."

The Stock Exchange used to open with an announcement somewhat as follows: Ladies and Gents: The first event on the program will be a fight to a finish between "Kayo" Steel in this corner and One-Round Roodles in that corner, both boys members of this club. The Bears will kindly take seats on the left, the Bulls on the right and the Lambs in between. The winner of this bout will meet "Kid" Prosperity some time in the dim future.

In the meantime, spectators are requested to refrain from smoking, eating or drinking.

It looked like everybody was trying to corner the market without knowing a single angle of the game.

See where "Bucketfoot' Al Simmons' consecutive game hitting streak was stopped at 27 by the Red Sox like David stopped Golliath. The bigger they are the harder they fall.

Al seems to be having trouble with the new ball. Several times this season he has gone to bat without making a hit.

Connie Mack had so many lean years after 1914 that he is now simply gorging himself. Which isn't a wise thing to do at his age. Better fire and fall back, Connie, and give the hungry seven a crack at it.

Billy Evans says the Athletics have all a championship club needs. That's it exactly. Give somebody else a chance.

"Tobacco Diet Makes Chicks Much Larger."

Fair Enough.

"I WOULD not use tobacco,
It is a filthy weed;
I would not put it in my mouth,"
Said little Robert Reed.
"But while I may eschew it,
It makes good chicken feed."

no trade was mentioned or contemplated.

Burleigh Grimes and Jess Haines will be the Cardinal pitchers today in the doubleheader with the Robins. Shaute and Luque may be the starters for the visitors. The first game will start at 1:30 p. m.

Jim Bottomley has been advised that his recent illness probably is the result of having been hit on the head by a pitched ball, May 30. He probably will not return to duty for several days.

Jimmy Wilson injured a muscle in his throwing arm reaching for a high pitch in Friday's game and he won't be able to catch for a few days.

A new set of umpires was on duty for the series. Cy Rigler, one of the best in the business, was behind the plate.

ODDS-ON-CHOICE, COUSIN JO, IS SECOND IN RACE ON MUDDY TRACK

HOMEWOOD, Ill., June 6. — A fast start and the ability to remain in front of a field of class and speed despite a racing strip deep in mud, today brought victory by a short head to J. W. Parrish's Alyssum, extreme outsider in a field of seven three-year-old fillies, in the fifth running of the Illinois Oaks at Washington Park.

Never headed after breaking well from an inside post position, Alyssum lasted to win over the short-priced favorite, Charles Nuckols' Cousin Jo and the two leaders were well in advance of S. W. Labrot's third place Anne Arundel.

Overlooked by the bettors because of having run eighth, 20 lengths back of the winner, Cousin Jo, in the Kentucky Oaks at Churchill Downs a month ago, Alyssum returned $45.84 to win, $15.10 to place and $11.52 to show on a $2 mutuel ticket.

Alyssum's victory was the more surprising because in her only Washington Park previous start, over the same route of a mile and an eighth, she was beaten four lengths in a claiming race of no particular class.

Jockey Bob Finnerty made no mistakes on the three-year-old daughter of Supremus-Escarpolette. When the barrier lifted she moved quickly to the front from her inside position. As the field rounded the first turn she was in the lead, with Cousin Jo close up. Alyssum moved up steadily on the back stretch, at one time holding a lead of some three lengths.

Cousin Jo made her move coming into the stretch turn and advanced sharply. The favorite moved up steadily on the outside, but in the last sixteenth Alyssium ceased to drop back and they were running almost together as they crossed the finish line.

LERMOND BEATS MILE RECORD, SET IN 1895

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 6.—A smashing 4:15 mile by Leo Lermond, former Boston A. A. middle distance ace, furnished the one outstanding event on the New York A. C. track and field meet program at Travers Island today. Scratching of several stars, including most of the Stanford athletes, robbed the meet of many of its expected thrills.

Lermond, running unattached, cracked a 36-year-old record when he crossed the finish line in the mile in 4 minutes, 15 seconds flat to beat Gene Venzke of New York by seven yards. The Travers Island record was set at 4:15 3-5 by Tommy Connors, Irish ace in 1895. Lermond and Venzke both ran from scratch. Joseph Mangan of Cornell, given 10 yards, was third.

Robert Jones of Stanford, won the discus throw with a toss of 146 feet, 11¼ inches, while Norwood G. Wright, former Cornell ace, competing for the New York A. C., tossed the hammer 170 feet, 8½ inches to beat Allan Converse of Yale, and the veteran Pat McDonald of the N. Y. A. C.

Fred Sturdy of the Los Angeles A. C. cleared 13 feet, 6 inches in the pole vault and won easily, while George Spitz, New York University freshman, captured the high jump at 6 feet, 6 inches.

Ray Conger, Illinois A. C. flyer, withdrew from the half mile and the other scratch star, Phil Edwards, had to be content with second place. Edwards could not overcome a 16-yard handicap he conceded Fred Lord, unattached, and Lord won in 1:54 4-5.

Alvin Ray of Stanford, tossed the javelin 184 feet, 10 inches but finished second to George Werntz of Colgate, whose winning throw was 185 feet, 7½ inches.

STILLMAN AND LOHMAN FIGHT HERE TOMORROW

Al Stillman, local fighter, who meets Joe Lohman, the Toledo veteran, in the main event of Jack Tippett's boxing show at the outdoor Battery A arena tomorrow night, went through a hard training grind at a downtown gymnasium yesterday afternoon.

Stillman worked with Steve Marre, the St. Louis boy who will meet Johnny Hoekstra in one of the six-round special bouts. Following three rounds of sparring, Stillman went through a half hour of shadow boxing, bag punching and rope skipping.

Lohman has been working out at his home in Toledo and has advised Promoter Tippett that he would report here this morning. Lohman's last St. Louis appearance was on the charity card at The Arena, when he fought a fast fight with Jack Barry of Chicago. Since that time the Toledo battler has been active in Ohio and Indiana and reports himself in good condition.

Concordia Society Holds Gymnastic Festival Today

Leading turning societies of the city have entered the meet. Among the entries are the Sokols, North St. Louis turn Verein, Concordia Gymnastic Society, Rock Spring Turner Hall, St. Louis Turnverein, and the Downtown Y. M. C. A.

Events in the men's division will be the horizontal bar, parallel bar and side horse. Women's events will include the parallel bar and low side horse, as well as a quatathlon, which takes in the events mentioned, with four variations taken as the basis of judging. Helen Kolodiejczky of the Angelicas is the favorite to win the women's events, due to her past work. She won the women's events last week in the Polish Falcons' meet.

STILLMAN AND LOHMAN FIGHT HERE TOMORROW

Al Stillman, local fighter, who meets Joe Lohman, the Toledo veteran, in the main event of Jack Tippett's boxing show at the outdoor Battery A arena tomorrow night, went through a hard training grind at a downtown gymnasium yesterday afternoon.

Stillman worked with Steve Marre, the St. Louis boy who will meet Johnny Hoekstra in one of the six-round special bouts. Following three rounds of sparring, Stillman went through a half hour of shadow boxing, bag punching and rope skipping.

Lohman has been working out at his home in Toledo and has advised Promoter Tippett that he would report here this morning. Lohman's last St. Louis appearance was on the charity card at The Arena, when he fought a fast fight with Jack Barry of Chicago. Since that time the Toledo battler has been active in Ohio and Indiana and reports himself in good condition.

"Street Singer" Dance Show

Queenie Smith, Herself a Nimble-Footed Comedienne of Note, Heads Cast in Second Municipal Opera Bill Which Begins a Week's Stay on Forest Park Stage Tomorrow Night.

TONIGHT marks the final performance of "Three Little Girls," the first show of the season on the Municipal Opera stage in Forest Park. Bad weather, right at the start of the 10 nights run, and the Decoration day holiday cut into the receipts so that business was about 15 per cent less than the mark set for 10 nights by "Nina Rosa," the opening bill last summer. With the advent of "The Street Singer," with Queenie Smith as the star, tomorrow night, the opera directors expect to see the attendance figures get back to normal. "The Street Singer" and all the succeeding operettas are to run for a single week.

"The Street Singer" was chosen, originally, as a New York vehicle for Miss Smith because of the many opportunities it offered that delectable little dancer, and the production in Forest Park has been elaborated with dance numbers in order to make the utmost use of that unique stage in color and costume with the modern version of dance pageantry.

Queenie Smith, as on Broadway, will be seen in several dance numbers, as will Jack Good, who also makes a Municipal Opera debut in "The Street Singer." With Good in one number will be seen Gretchen Kimmel, clever young St. Louisan, who made her first appearance on the Municipal Opera stage eight years ago. "The Street Singer," also offers opportunity for the debut of Palmere Brandeaux, ballet master, and Mlle. Doree Daudet, ballet mistress of the current opera season, who head the all-St. Louis dancing chorus in a ballet number.

Little Miss Smith, who was well-known as a dancing star long before she made her debut as a comedienne, was born in Texas, but went to New York as a child and entered the ballet school of the Metropolitan Opera House. There, while still in her 'teens, she became solo danseuse. Later she abandoned the Metropolitan for a gayer stage, and made her debut in musical comedy with Eddie Leonard in "Roly Poly Eyes." She made an instantaneous hit, and within a short time Edward Royce, then producing "Orange Blossoms" engaged her as a dancer for that production and while in rehearsal made the discovery that Queenie Smith was a real comedienne.

FROM that production Queenie Smith's course to stardom was fixed. She contributed much of, and sometimes most of the fun to "Helen of Troy, New York," "Be Yourself," "Tip Toes," "Cinders," "Sitting Pretty," and "Judy" and was launched by Vincent Youmans, the composer as co-star with Charles Purcell in "Hit the Deck," in which she visited St. Louis on two occasions. Then came "The Street Singer," and a Broadway success in a role peculiarly fitted to her appealing personality.

Besides Miss Smith and the dancers who surround her, "The Street Singer" introduces to Municipal Opera's stage, Archie Leach, a young British leading man, who was a London favorite before Fred Stone brought him to America to play in "Tip Top." After a success in that smashing hit, he returned to England and w... brought back by Oscar Hammerstein for the leading role in "Golden Dawn." After that came "Polly" and then the Shuberts engaged him for "A Wonderful Night," in which he created the leading male role on Broadway. Next he created the leading man's part in "The Street Singer."

In the cast, too, will be Doris Patston and Jack Sheehan, two of last season's great favorites, who will make their first bows before Municipal Opera audiences this year; Gladys Baxter, who, by her beauty of voice and acting charm, has already firmly established herself as one of the opera's great favorites this year; Hal Forde, Stephen Mills, Connie Graham, an English comedienne, making her first appearance in Forest Park, Richard Ford, the Hans of "Three Little Girls," and Robert Long and Victor Cassmore who appeared in "Nina Rosa" last year.

"THE STREET SINGER" is a comedy of today, built about the funny, but romantic adventures of a group of Americans in Paris. The book is by Cyrus Wood and Edgar Smith and lyrics by Graham John. Jean Gilbert, Nicholas Kempner and S. Timberg provided the score.

Besides its modern dance numbers the score of "The Street Singer" is full of melodics, among them some of the most popular song hits of recent years. These include "You've Made Me Happy," sung by Queenie Smith and Archie Leach; "The Girl That I'll Adore," sung by Leach and the ensemble; "You Never Can Tell," sung by Gladys Baxter and Jack Good; "I May Be Wrong, But I Think You're Wonderful," sung by Good and Audrey Vitt; "So Beats My Heart for You," sung by Miss Smith and Mr. Leach, and the comic song, "O Theobold, O Elmer," sung by Hal Forde and Stephen Mills, and "When Everything Is Hunk-Dory," sung by Miss Smith and Leach.

Lunt and Fontanne Will Make a Movie

Definite announcement comes from Hollywood that Ferenc Molnar's "The Guardsman" will be the first co-starring screen production for Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne. The Theater Guild's stage-couple plan to start work on their initial film venture this month. Sidney Franklin, whose pictures includes "The Last of Mrs. Cheney," "Devil May Care," and "A Lady's Morals," will direct "The Guardsman," with a supporting cast yet to be selected.

"The Guardsman" was produced on the New York stage by the Theater Guild seven years ago, with Lunt and Miss Fontanne in leading roles.

A Dancing Star

Queenie Smith in "The Street Singer," at the Municipal Opera tomorrow night.

From the Ring to Muny Opera

By Archie Leach

Mr. Leach, an English actor, is making his debut before Municipal Opera audiences tomorrow night as the leading man in "The Street Singer" in the role which he created when the musical comedy was first presented, with Queenie Smith as the star, in New York.

A CAULIFLOWER ear was the cause of it all. I missed that decoration in my fighting days and thus was changed the whole course of my destiny.

I wanted to start in life as a pugilist. I had to run away from home to do it, but I did. It seemed to me a burning shame that for all our British hearts of oak an American held the championship of the world. I was going to change all that but I didn't even change my face. From which you may gather that I was not a great fighter. Right-O, as I notice we English say.

Father took me back, even if I wasn't a champion, and sent me off to college. "Brain must be your game," he said, "it surely isn't brawn." Poor, mistaken Dad.

The principal thing I learned in college was that I wanted to go on the stage.

Being an athlete, in the pink of condition, I joined a Harlequinade. Ultimately I became a member of the famous Bob Pender troupe. I suppose you'd call them pantomimic tumblers and comedians. There is nothing like it in this country. The Harlequinade is a British institution. Purely.

It's a Christmas pantomime, the characters adapted from the old Italian Commedia del' Arte. Stock clown, each of whom has a traditional personality. They have marvelous adventures told in action—in pantomime and tumbling. Beginning on Boxing day, which is the first week day after Christmas, they continue for sometimes 10 or 12 weeks to the great delight of the kiddies.

SO I made my entrance upon the stage, shot through the floor by way of a "star trap," and up into the air, and then, because I forgot to spread my legs apart when I came down, I dropped through the "star-trap" out of sight again.

Down below there were four husky fellows with a table, who had catapulted me up through the floor. I landed on the table and up I went again. And I was still too excited to remember to spread out my legs—so down through the trap I went once more.

A "star trap" is an opening in the floor which has been cut much like you cut a pie, in segments, and when you're shot through one onto the stage it opens up at the pressure of your body and then the pieces fall back into place again. Fred Stone used one for his entry onto the stage in "Tip Top." Remember? That entrance of mine was like a triple somersault. I made a triple-debut, before I finally landed upon the stage, all spread out and ready for action.

Fred Stone, and "Tip Top" brought me to America, as a member of the Bob Pender troupe. We were a feature of the show, and after that played at the Hippodrome in New York and over the Keith circuit in the East, and then went back home.

I had seen enough in America to know that I wanted to be on the stage in this country. And there was no place here for the Harlequinades.

SO BACK home I went in for musical plays—toured with the Arcadians, played in "No, No, Nanette," in "The Byng Boys on Broadway" and "Polly." Then Arthur Hammerstein brought me over to New York for "Polly" and "The Golden Dawn" and after that there were "Boom Boom" and "A Wonderful Night" and "The Street Singer." I like "The Street Singer" best of all.

I have never gotten over the idea that I would like to be a comedian. When the audience roared at me the time I shot up and down through that star-trap, it ruined me for ever, I suppose. I am quite sure that if Beel Jackson of Battling McJuggins, or Bruiser O'Lannigan, or some other husky aspirant that I fought with years ago had only left me a cauliflower ear I would be a clown today. You don't do a half bad day's work when you make an audience forget its troubles in laughter at your humors.

But instead of that, an English manager picked me to do the "and-some 'ero," and I'm doing "and-some 'eroes" still.

The Week's New Films

--By Nie

JACKIE COOPER, who came up from the Our Gang comedies to play "Skippy" a short time ago, steps into a gangster picture called "Donovan's Kid" at the St. Louis Theater and puts Richard Dix and Marion Shilling, a St. Louis girl, completely in the shade. For Jackie is a great little actor, the best of the youngsters now playing before the Hollywood cameras, and he runs away with the film from start to finish. The story is all about a gangster's kid who is adopted by a hard-boiled yegg named Donovan when his own father is put away by rival bootleggers. In order to keep the kid going straight Donovan—who is Richard Dix—has to go straight himself. His reward is the love of the boy and also of Miss Shilling and the moral is that honesty, even if it hurts, has its compensations. Heading an excellent vaudeville bill on the St. Louis stage is Blanche Sweet, former movie star, who has a nice little comedy sketch which she plays well.

Another Horse Opera.

COVERED wagons, land rushes, bad men and at least one good woman are all tangled up in "Not Exactly Gentlemen," another opus of the wide open spaces at Loew's. Vic. McLaglen, Lew Cody and Eddie Gribbon make up a trio of tough hombres who are something more than not exactly gentlemen, but when they run across Fay Wray, who is looking for a gold mine, they jump in and help her find it. They had some intention of settling down and helping her work it, too, but about that time a Sheriff's posse rode into the hills with some old warrants and the bad men dashed away, looking for fresh adventures. The picture has all of the sure fire stuff of the Western mellers but it's better done than a lot of 'em and makes a good, thrilling story from start to finish.

It Pays to Advertise.

PROBABLY you remember "Big Business Girl" when it ran as a serial in the Post-Dispatch—the good looking gal who had a fairly worthless husband kicking around somewhere and who knew how to display her charms to the best advantage so as to land herself a $150 a week job with a big advertising agency. Loretta Young is the girl and she has enough charm to equip a half dozen advertising offices but she confines herself to one and almost falls for the sales talk of the big business man who runs the place. In the end she discovers—it takes an airplane dash through a storm to arrive in the nick of time—that she loves her husband best and while she probably lost her job she found motion picture happiness in the end. "Big Business Girl" is a good screen romance of the light and entertaining sort and Ricardo Cortez, as the wise boss who is in the market for a wife, or something, shares the honors with the handsome star.

Only Partly Tarnished.

AND in "Tarnished Lady," a good picture at the Missouri, Tallulah Bankhead, making her debut in the films, has something of the same sort of experience with marriage. She weds Clive Brook because he has $8,000,000 and she needs just about that much to keep up her position in society. Then she discovers that her love for another man is worth more than gold and she quits home to be with him, only to find that he has made other arrangements. Then she goes to work as a shop girl, finds that Clive, who has been hit, along with every one else, in the late stock market crash, was a pretty good guy after all and returns to him for the customary cinema finish. Miss Bankhead is an excellent actress and a welcome addition to the galaxy of stage stars. "Tarnished Lady" is a worth while picture and the Missouri's other feature, "Many a Slip," which was done as a comedy at the Orpheum Theater last winter, is above the average, too.

Carrying the Torch.

"LAUGHING SINNERS," at the Fox, starts out very well and gets better toward the middle but the latter part of the film peters out and proves disappointing. This story is about a cabaret girl who got a bad start but wound up safe and sound in the Salvation Army. Joan Crawford puts everything she has into the picture. She sings and dances well and falls from grace very nicely but the best entertainment is supplied by the wise cracks of Guy Kibbee who plays a traveling salesman for an undertakers' supply house dealing in underground novelties.

To Make Debut With Rogers.

Carmen Barnes, school girl author who became a star overnight as the result of a recent screen test, will make her film debut in "The Road to Reno" in which she will be co-featured with Buddy Rogers.

Swanson Goes Abroad.

Gloria Swanson left last Friday on the Ile de France for a vacation in Europe prior to returning to Hollywood to start her next picture, whose production date has been set as Aug. 1. The star will go first to France, and then plans to go to London for a day or two and thence to Germany, Sweden and Norway.

Chinese Actor Has Finger in Own Publicity.

CHARGING that his finger was deliberately cut off during the filming of a motion picture in order to obtain lurid publicity for the production, Hsueh Chi-hsi, a Shanghai screen actor, has filed suit in the District Court in the Chinese city for $24,960.

Mr. Hsueh charges that the plot of the Chinese production "Red Butterfly" called for the cutting off of his finger and that a false finger was supplied for this scene, but that another actor, at the instigation of the manager of the producing company, cut off one of his real fingers instead. The complaint further alleges that the producing company exhibited the amputated finger in a bottle as part of its publicity campaign.

Drama Association Plans Are Reported As Well Under Way

AFFAIRS of the Drama Association of St. Louis are reported as prospering by the management appointed at the luncheon meeting held on May 25. The plans have been submitted to a considerable number of St. Louis' religious leaders and educators, as well as many consistent playgoers, with the result that a subscription list has been well established.

The plan as now in operation calls for presentation of a series of six new plays at the Shubert Theater next winter, at intervals of four weeks, with a new play opening every fourth Monday night and running a week. The project will be in conjunction with the Dramatic League of Chicago, the Professional Players of Philadelphia and the Professional Players of Boston. By affiliation with these organizations, the Drama Association of St. Louis will be in a position to offer a choice of six from a list of 16 available plays such as "Allison's House," the Pulitzer prize play of 1931, by Susan Glaspell; "The Improper Duchess," by J. B. Fagan, with Yvonne Arnaud; a current success in London; "Melo,' by Henri Bernstein, now a success in New York; "The Venetians," by Clifford Bax, another London success of the day; "The Silent Witness," by Sascha Guitry, with Lionel Atwill in the leading part; "The New Colony" by Luigi Pirandello; "The Kitten's Tail," by Ronald Jeans, with Leslie Banks; "The Death of Danton," a historical masterpiece dealing with the French Revolution, with Philip Merivale; "Ugly Girl," a comedy from the German; "The Devil's Diary," by Maurine Watkins; "Interrupted," by Ferenc Molnar; "Our Pleasant Sins," by Donald Fretwick; "Tables for Ladies," by Gerald Paxton, and "As You Desire Me," by Pirandello, with Judson Anderson.

Touring the Movie Field

Ethel Barrymore Has Completed a Dash Through The One-Night Stands, Which Brought Remarkable Results—Al Jolson Wants to Return to the Cinema in a Serious Role — Paul Nicholson Back.

REFERENCE having been made in these columns last week to the nationwide slump in the movie theaters—it is announced now that the Rialto, one of New York's leading cinema cathedrals, will shut up shop for the summer—it is just as well to mention that Ethel Barrymore has been on a whirlwind tour of the country playing, frequently, in picture theaters, the only temples of amusement left in many of the towns she visited.

Miss Barrymore ended her 9566-mile dash through the one-night stands of the South, Southwest and Midwest and East in Albany, N. Y., last night. She began her adventure into the seldom-played sections of the country at Princeton University on March 2 and appeared in 66 towns, 60 of them for one night only, in 23 states. Since Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson completed his farewell to America in 1916, she is the first important player to undertake an intensive tour of these smaller cities.

Audiences varying from 1000 to 4000 people have witnessed single performances of "The Love Duel," which Barrymore acted, and her receipts have established records in many theaters. Not even Sarah Bernhardt in her Texas tent days equaled some of the houses which Barrymore drew. Richmond, Va., gave her her largest single night's receipts, and Cumberland, Md., the lowest. With few exceptions the S. R. O. sign was displayed wherever the actress appeared. In some towns Barrymore was the first living player many of the younger generation ever had seen.

As the majority of the former legitimate theaters in the smaller cities have crumbled into dust or been refashioned to receive the light and sound of Hollywood, the actress trod boards, not made historic by Booth or Modjeska or by her own glamorous family, but enlivened by the sounds and shadows of the Pickfords and the Chaplins of the mechanical age of entertainment. When motion picture palaces did not open their doors to her she set her scenery in civic, lodge and school auditoriums.

ON the other hand, Al Jolson, blackface comedian of stage and screen, who has been appearing without makeup in "The Wonder Bar," in New York, is negotiating to become owner of the motion picture rights of "The Green Pastures," the 1930 Pulitzer prize play current at the Mansfield Theater, New York, with an all-colored cast.

Jolson is understood to be actuated by the classic urge credited to all comedians to play tragedy, preferably "Hamlet," and to have a burning desire to enact in pictures the role of "the Lawd," rendered famous by Richard B. Harrison's interpretation throughout 537 consecutive performances.

Jolson's offer for the picture rights has been reduced to conrete terms said to be satisfactory to the business executives of its producers.

IF Jolson was the first actor to establish the talkies — he did it with "The Jazz Singer"—older fans will recall that Paul Nicholson was the first stage actor to appear in motion pictures. Now Nicholson has returned to the screen, after an absence of several years, and has an important role in Paramount's "Women Love Once" in support of Paul Lukas and Eleanor Boardman.

The first persons to play parts on the screen were truck drivers, waitresses, telephone girls, delivery boys and others who wanted to make a little extra money, Nicholson recollects, but he is credited with being the first stage actor drafted into pictures by the late Wallace McCutcheon, who directed, supervised, wrote, photographed and produced the first motion pictures shown on a theater screen.

The first public showing of a photoplay took place in 1895, when the projection machine was considered perfected. In 1896 pictorial subjects were shown on the screen in vaudeville houses. The following year Nicholson made his debut in the first picture that tried to tell a dramatic story. It was entitled "The Kiss Scene," and was a hit.

This picture was filmed in the blazing sun on the roof of a building at Thirteenth and Broadway, New York. The show consisted of one scene about 500 feet long and took five minutes to complete. McCutcheon turned out a subject a day. His company was called the American Mutascope and Biograph.

These first motion pictures were used as "chasers" in vaudeville houses. They flickered and were so hard on the eyes that no one could sit through them twice. Vaudeville theaters put on continuous performances, and their profit lay in evacuating the houses after each show. The early movies served effectively for this purpose —and some of the later day films are having the same effect.

IN the few years which have elapsed since Jolson made "The Singing Fool" the technique of manufacturing talking pictures has advanced from confinement to freedom, from stiffness and rigidity to a flexibility and ease of movement that would have astonished the men who first experimented with audible films.

"When you speak that line stand near that flower pot," the director used to say. "The mike that will pick up your voice is hidden there."

But, nowadays, instead of the player following the microphone, it is the other way around; and the tendency more and more is for only one microphone to be used on a set. The modern microphone is movable; it is mounted on the end of the arm of an inverted L, and this arm can be moved in any direction, up, down or sideways. Also the arm can be lengthened or shortened within a range of some 30 feet. And it makes no noise whatever.

POTATO CAN WIN, TOO, IN GARDEN CONTEST

Entrance in 1931 Competition for City Amateur Growers Closes June 15.

Even the lowly potato has a chance in the 1931 garden contest, for which the St. Louis Horticultural Society yesterday announced rules and prizes that distinguish it as by far the most "democratic" yet held in St. Louis.

The contest is confined to gardens within the city limits, and the gardening must be strictly amateur.

"All work in the garden must be the work of the owner, with the exception of rough labor," state the rules. "All work by professionals will positively be barred."

In order to give the small garden an equal chance with the large, judging will be by a scale of points, a possible 50 for design and arrangement, 20 for quality of flowers, shrubs and trees, 15 for lawn, and 15 for personal planting and upkeep.

For the best gardens in the city Shaw's Garden has contributed $100 in prizes, $50 first, $35 second and $15 third. In addition, to those amateurs who, because of unfavorable location or lack of facilities, cannot win one of the three major prizes, $10 special awards are offered for excellence in 10 particular phases of city gardening.

They include lawn, annuals, perennials, shrubs, vase, window or porch box, rose garden, water lilies, garden accessories and vegetable garden. Winners in the major contest are not eligible for these special prizes, and several prizes may be awarded in each special class, at the discretion of the judges.

Entries are to be made by June 15, and gardens are to be judged by the first week in September. Contestants are expected to hold some form of membership in the society, since no entry fee will be charged. Entry blanks may be obtained from the secretary, Miss Ruth Cornelius, at the society's office in Shaw's Garden, Prospect 5915. C. B. Nicholson is chairman of the Contest Committee.

PHILHARMONIC RETAINS HICKS

Alfred Hicks, conductor last year of the St. Louis Philharmonic Society during the illness of the late Frederick Fischer, was appointed conductor for 1931-1932 season at a recent meeting of the board of directors of the society. D. H. Kotthoff was named to succeed John Davis, resigned, as president of the organization and L. F. Woolston was appointed to the board.

To Address Women's Ad Club.

D. D. Knight, vice president of the Graphic Studios, Inc., will speak at a meeting of the Women's Advertising Club at Hotel Statler at noon tomorrow, on "The Advertiser and the Advertising Artist."

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 6.

DOWN South they are expecting a game of pee-wee bowling to be as popular as miniature golf—which originated there. It is a collapsible three-quarters rolling pin affair and is making great headway.

Hot dogs are a nickel at Coney and the 5-cent soda has appeared in the outlying districts of the city.

Also I am told most hot tamales devoured by New Yorkers are out of cans from San Antonio, Tex. Ten years ago this column wondered why there were no chili parlors in New York's midtown. But the wondering has ceased. There are now more than 100 between Columbus Circle and Twenty-third street.

The late George F. Baker, considered the soundest of financiers, left a warning to his fellows. Shortly before his passing he told a group of intimates: "Unless New York bankers keep faith with patrons who trusted them in making investments they will never restore confidence in sound banking in this generation."

Short shavings: George Arliss does not eat meat. . . . Will Rogers started out to be a Methodist preacher. . . . Anna Q. Nilsson is home from Switzerland and is to resume her film career. . . . She's been ill five years. . . . Damon Runyon's first book will be "Bloodhounds of Broadway." . . . "Burton, Arabian Nights Adventures" by Fairfax Downey (Scribner's) is packed with breathless reading, and "The Monk's Hood Murders" by The Edingtons (Cosmopolitan) is a dandy mystery yarn. . . . Ziegfeld once refused Helen Morgan a job in his chorus. . . . Fifi Dorsay is really Yvonne Lussier. . . . Unless some of the big banks shoot square with their wild-catting operations during the boom days they are facing heavy damage suits, Wall Street hears. . . . The late Lillian Leitzel, circus aerialist, became train sick on New York subways. . . . Tallulah Bankhead was a hit despite that the scenario of her film was terrifically panned. . . . The letterhead of Dr. W. R. Brumfield, Gloster, Miss., has "Ordinary Country Doctor" and "Dam Poor Collector". . . . E. Ray Goetz may open up a theater on a Park Avenue roof top, if he can find the right spot. . . . Odd F. Ott lives at 924 West Pleasant street, Springfield, O. . . . Richard Bennett sleeps in a green smock. . . . Mae Melville of the old vaudeville team of Melville and Higgins now lives in Los Angeles. . . . Los Angeles is said to have the finest haberdashery in the world. . . . Ed Wynn's son Keenan is attending a military school. . . . Somerset Maugham and Warwick Deeping once studied medicine. . . . Charles Francis Coe was a prize fighter. . . . Cain's theatrical warehouse has had its busiest season. . . . Many legal firms are forming to specialize in stock and bondholders suits against corporations. . . . Marie Dressler has found movie jobs for many old Weber and Field players in the movies. . . . In the statistical record of panics for 100 years the decisive upturn has always been during June, July and August.

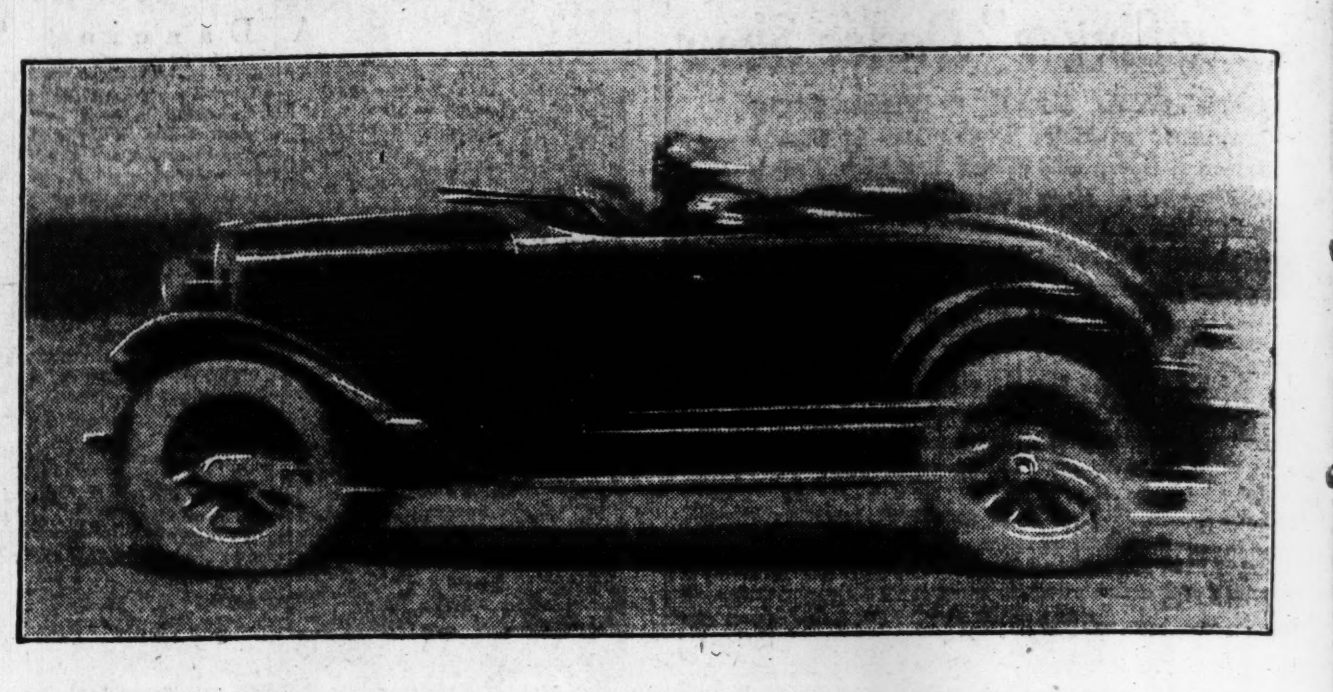
sets 5 more records!



Under official A. A. A. supervision, a strictly stock Willys Six Roadster sweeps dramatically to five amazing new speed records for American stock cars in its class—one mile, flying start, 50.925 seconds, average 70.692 miles an hour; standing start, 61.56 seconds, average 58.479 miles an hour; one kilo, flying start, 32.225 seconds, average 69.416 miles an hour; standing start, 42.17 seconds, average 53.045 miles an hour; one mile, flying start, second gear, 66.90 seconds, average 53.812 miles an hour. The gear ratio used in these record breaking runs was 4.6 to 1. These records continue the long string of remarkable performance achievements of the Willys Six, which include winning first and second places in the annual mountain race from Mexico City to Puebla. Pitted against a field comprised mostly of eight-cylinder cars, the winning Willys Six covered the course of 75.8 miles in 75 minutes. The record for the steep Mount Baldy climb is also held by a stock Willys Six, which clipped 38-3/5 seconds off the former record. In the last Pike's Peak race two stock Willys Six Roadsters won first and second places. The winning time of 24 minutes, 18-1/5 seconds is the fastest on record for a stock car under $1000. These records are convincing evidence that the Willys Six is the fastest, liveliest and most powerful of all low-priced cars.

Dodge Executives Visit St. Louis for Sales Conferences

Regional Staff Attends Sessions Which Are Part of Country-Wide Campaign.

Executives of the Dodge Brothers Corporation were in St. Louis Monday and Tuesday to hold conferences with Regional Manager F. V. Smith and members of his field sales organization. Among them were W. M. Purves, passenger car sales manager; W. S. Graves, truck sales manager; F. N. Sim, director of advertising; W. R. Bamford, assistant to the director of service, and J. W. Hutchins, director of Plymouth sales for Dodge Brothers.

Since last summer and fall, Dodge Brothers has been engaged in furthering the most intensive sales campaign in its history. The purpose of the meeting was to accelerate the momentum noticeable throughout the Dodge organization since the first of the year.

"Business today is going to the organization that is attacking the present situation with a sound, fearless and aggressive sales campaign," said Purves. "This is especially true in the motor car business. In days gone by the average dealer registered a large number of 'drop-in' sales—sales that were not worked for but 'just happened.' Today things are different. Keen competition for the public's favor has resulted in masterful creations in the field of personal and commercial transportation. It would seem, in surveying today's offerings, that motor manufacturers have reached the ultimate in interior appointments in their products; safety to a remarkably high degree, and engines that are little short of marvelous in their constant, unfailing performance."

But none of these attributes are sufficient of themselves to gain, and what is more important, to hold public favor," he pointed out.

"They must be backed by advertising and intensive sales effort, day in and day out."

Such a campaign was inaugurated by Dodge Brothers Corporation to promote the sale of its new six and new eight.

Chevrolet Opens Commercial Body Division Here

Driveaway of 105 Trucks Feature of Formal Ceremony —23 Models in Parade.

The Chevrolet Motor Co. formally opened its commercial body division in St. Louis on Wednesday. A feature was a driveaway of 105 trucks and the attendance of 120 dealers from all parts of the St. Louis zone.

In the driveaway were 23 different truck models, all the trucks and bodies having been assembled in St. Louis, the bodies in the Chevrolet commercial body plant on North Union avenue, opposite the main Chevrolet plant.

A parade of the trucks was arranged by J. L. Purcell, manager of the truck body division, and traversed the downtown streets of the city.

Both A. W. L. Gilpin, Chevrolet regional manager, and C. E. O'Meara, zone manager, said that they regarded this as an outstanding truck driveaway.

Oakland-Pontiac Shipments Exceed Zone Total for 1930

Ross Williams, manager of the St. Louis zone for the Oakland Motor Car Co., announces that on June 2 shipments of Oakland eights and Pontiac sixes into the St. Louis zone passed the total shipments in the entire year of 1930.

"This record," says Williams, "is all the more outstanding, in view of the fact that in 1930 our line was third in this territory, which covers the eastern two-thirds of Missouri, southern half of Illinois, and Western Kentucky. These shipments are a direct reflection of retail sales, as our dealers' stocks of cars are low, both new and used."

Williams also states that there is no indication as yet of the so-called "seasonal slump" in sales in this zone, as the last 10 days of May showed more cars sold to retail purchasers than in any like period since the summer of 1929. Incidentally, this St. Louis territory is running fifth in the United States, being exceeded in sales performance only by four zones covering the Eastern seaboard states.

Abbott and Wollering Elected Directors of Hudson Motor Car Co.

R. C. Frampton, president of the Hudson-Frampton Motor Car Co., has been advised by the factory in Detroit that Chester G. Abbott and Max F. Wollering have been elected to the board of directors of the Hudson Motor Car Co.

Abbott has been with Hudson-Essex for 16 years, while Wollering also has been with the factory for a long time and is widely known.

Frampton reports that there has been a steady increase in sales of Hudson and Essex cars, especially since "free wheeling" was announced for both lines.

Blue ribbon club sales contest for retail salesmen has been started by the Hudson-Frampton Co. for prizes offered by R. C. Frampton and A. S. Frampton.

Tips on Using Jack.

Always set the jack as near to the end of the axle as possible. This reduces the weight that must be lifted. Some cars have special "pads" for the jack. Because they do not read the instruction books closely, many motorists never are aware of this.

Goodrich Silvertown Opens Super Station In East St. Louis

The formal opening of the second Goodrich Silvertown, Inc., superservice station in the St. Louis district, located at the southeast corner of Ninth street and St. Louis avenue, in East St. Louis, took place yesterday.

The new station fronts 125 feet on Ninth street and 50 feet on St. Louis avenue. The building is L-shaped, of brick and concrete, one story high, with basement. It occupies a space 75x25 feet. The rest of the lot is taken up by a concrete driveway and two gasoline islands, each equipped with two two-way gasoline pumps dispensing Shell gasoline.

In addition to Goodrich tire and tube sales and repairing, the station offers Exide battery sales and service, Shell, Quaker State and Mobiloil lubricating, alemiting, car washing and mechanical rubber goods manufactured by the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co.

The station will also be the wholesale distributing warehouse for Goodrich tires and tubes for the territory surrounding East St. Louis, according to E. R. Kenner, Greater St. Louis retail sales manager for the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co. D. S. Wortham is manager of the new station and C. E. Newman is assistant manager.

IN ITS HISTORY

TO DESIGN PROGRESSIVELY · TO BUILD FAITHFULLY · TO SELL HONESTLY · TO SERVICE SINCERELY

Since the enthusiastic reception given the 1931 Oldsmobile on the occasion of its introduction to the public in January of this year, Oldsmobile's popularity has continued to increase, month after month ✣✣ As a result, Oldsmobile is now enjoying a greater percentage of the business in its price class than ever before. And new thousands of owners are telling their friends of the pleasure and satisfaction of Oldsmobile ownership ✣✣ Many of the reasons for this growing popularity are understandable upon examination of the car . . . for its desirable features are self-evident. But there are more fundamental reasons for the definite preference being shown for Oldsmobile ✣✣ Four years ago Olds Motor Works adopted a policy toward owners which has been followed to the letter, year after year, in the development of Oldsmobile cars. This policy took the form of four great responsibilities . . . to design progressively . . . to build faithfully . . . to sell honestly . . . and to service sincerely. Upon these four responsibilities Olds Motor Works has founded its success. And these constitute the policy which the public has so wholeheartedly endorsed this year ✣✣ Olds Motor Works wishes to express its appreciation to the men and women throughout the country who have made the 1931 Oldsmobile the car of their choice . . . and who, by recommending its good qualities to their friends, are adding still further to Oldsmobile's steady advancement in public esteem.

Says St. Louisans Used 98,000,000 Gallons Of Gasoline in 1930

A total of 185,011 St. Louis motorists drove their cars 980,558,300 miles last year, according to estimates disclosed in a local survey by the Shell Petroleum Corporation. It is estimated that they used 98,055,830 gallons of gasoline.

The survey was undertaken, according to A. S. Pentland, local Shell manager, to obtain facts on automobile operating cost. Shell recently announced its new economy program for motorists designed to lower the cost of motor car maintenance. With the announcement came a reduction in gasoline price. Motor oil cost had been previously cut.

This year the mileage dollar will go nearly twice as far as it did last year, says Pentland, who has received facts from the Shell research laboratories, showing that the operating cost of automotive transportation has dropped to its lowest level.

"In our Shell laboratories," said Pentland, "chemists and engineers have worked intently on the problem of eliminating waste from crude oil and to increase the volatility and anti-knock value of motor fuels. Out of this research has come a saving of millions in fuel and repair bills. New Improved Shell 400 is a result of laboratory research."

Alignment of Front Axle Should Be Checked Frequently

Modern high speed driving conditions emphasize the importance of frequent check on the front wheels for absolute accuracy of alignment for safety.

"No other parts of the car receive more shocks and strains than the steering mechanism and front wheels," says H. M. Young, president of Borbein-Young & Co., 3301 Washington boulevard. "A car with a slight tendency to shimmy may at any moment encounter a road condition that will throw it completely out of control. Improper alignment also causes undue tire wear and hard steering."

Old methods of squinting along the front wheels have been replaced by the three-way aligner—a sensitive, calibrated device which swings in the direction of front wheel travel, showing to a split degree exactly the amount of adjustment needed. To promote greater driving safety, motorists may receive a check-up without charge on this device at the Borbein-Young Service Station, 3212 Lucas avenue.

Regulator of Oil Temperature Plays Big Part on Buicks

In the 1931 Buick straight eight, the powerful valve-in-head engine has an exclusive Buick feature that makes for much longer car life. This is the oil temperature regulator, which tends to equalize the temperature of the engine oil and the cooling water. This device automatically keeps the oil cooled or warmed, according to the demand of the place and the weather. With this feature and the air cleaner, oil filter and crankcase ventilator, the Buick engine is well equipped for long service.

Buick engineers this year have produced a much more rigid chassis the result of long study of chassis strains and stresses. The strengthening of the frame has been worked out scientifically. All brackets supporting the steering gear, spring shackles and bodies extend the full depth of the side members, making exceptionally rigid supports. This strengthening prevents vibration in the lamps, fenders and radiator, so that the car driven smoothly and quietly, providing the utmost riding comfort at high as well as at low speeds.

Positive lubrication, which in all Buicks is literally sealed in, gives added life to moving parts. The sealing also protects these parts from injury by dust and water.

Promoted by Chevrolet

C. C. Shelp, who has been appointed regional sales promotion manager.

H. H. Miller, promoted to be zone sales promotion manager.

H. E. Allen, the new assistant zone sales manager.

J. R. Wright, who becomes metropolitan representative.

Hyland Declares Only Service Proves Value of Motor Oil

"The oil buyer of today has a fairly definite idea of the benefits he should expect from a good motor oil, says Dan F. Hyland, general manager of the Alemite Co. of St. Louis. "The average motorist aadmits that motor oil is a mystery, in that he can't see, feel or smell the difference between one quart and another. Nevertheless, he is certain that there is a difference in lubricating quality and, quite naturally, he realizes that an oil of superior quality will give superior performance.

"Trick demonstrations prove nothing. Lubricating quality cannot be judged by sample bottles. Oils may be alike in color, body, clarity and appearance yet be utterly different in quality. Consequently, any claim made regarding oil is worthless until the product proves itself in the laboratory of the open road.

"The only tests that vitally concern the motorist are those made on the go." The makers of the Alemite high pressure lubricating systems, used on 95 per cent of the cars built in America, realized this and deteremined to produce a new type of motor oil that would satisfy the lubricating requirements of modern engines driven at present day high speeds. One hundred per cent pure Pennsylvania crude was selected as the base, and a new exclusive refining process perfected, until the carefully balanced structure of this rich, natural lubricant was successfully preserved.

Four Promotions Of Executives Here Made by Chevrolet

Several promotions of well-known executives by the Chevrolet Motor Co. announced by C. E. O'Meara, zone sales manager.

C. C. Schelp has been made regional sales promotion manager.

H. E. Allen succeeds G. W. Byzel as assistant zone sales manager.

H. H. Miller, formerly metropolitan representative, has been appointed zone sales promotion manager.

J. R. Wright succeeds Miller as metropolitan representative.

A Difference that's Fascinating

CHRYSLER engineering is quite different from other engineering—therefore Chrysler performance is quite different from other performance. Joyously different—brisker—more animated—smoother—more effortless to drive.

You needn't take our word for it. Simply drive a Chrysler—any Chrysler—and learn for yourself the convincing difference between Chrysler performance and other performance.

Drive a new Chrysler Six. A fascinating motor car. A fine, big Six of 116-inch wheelbase; a staunch double-drop frame and low center of gravity; a very quiet 70-horsepower engine; safety bodies of steel; positive self-equalizing internal hydraulic brakes.

Drive a new Chrysler Eight De Luxe. A thoroughly de luxe car in every particular, outside and inside. Smart divided windshield. Luxurious upholstery and appointments. A 124-inch wheelbase. Low center of gravity. Great stamina and sturdiness. A 95-horsepower straight eight engine—80 miles an hour if you want it, and always delightfully steady and smooth.

Drive a Chrysler Imperial Eight—finest, fastest, largest Chrysler ever built. 145-inch wheelbase. 125-horsepower. Winner of twelve official A. A. A. Contest Board speed records for one to five miles.

The new De Luxe Eight and the Imperial Eight both have an exclusive Dual High transmission. TWO high gears—and you can shift from either to the other, at any car speed, without clashing. One high gear for flashing action in traffic. Another still higher gear gives faster speeds at slower engine speeds.

Learn how different Chrysler performance really is. Drive a Chrysler—any Chrysler—and learn for yourself the better value Chrysler offers.

She Becomes Bride of Robert A. Blauner in Ceremony at Kingshighway Presbyterian Church.

AN early June wedding, beautiful in its appointments, was solemnized last evening at 8:30 o'clock at the Kingshighway Presbyterian Church, when Miss Lorraine Leschen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Leschen, 39 Crestwood drive, became the bride of Robert A. Blauner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Blauner, 7117 Stamford avenue, University City. The marriage service was read by the Rev. Dr. Arnold H. Lowe in the presence of about 500 guests, including many from out of town. A large reception at the St. Louis Woman's Club followed the church ceremony.

Miss Leschen, who was given in marriage by her father, was preceded to the altar by Miss Emlee Blauner, sister of the bridegroom, as maid of honor; Mrs. Emilio de Lavigne, Beverly Hills, Cal., and Mrs. Charles Rankins, Tulsa, Ok., matrons of honor, and Miss Margaret Webb, Memphis, Tenn., Miss Jean Lugstras and Miss Alleen Blanke, St. Louis, bridesmaids. Arthur and Betty Kerkhoff, young son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Kerkhoff, were ring bearer and flower girl respectively.

Curtis Singleton was best man for Mr. Blauner and Frank Bosse, Humber Burford, James Dazey, Jerome Bernoudy and Elster Copeland served as groomsmen.

The bridal party passed through aisles marked by tall white cathedral tapers garlanded with greenery and tied with white satin ribbon, to steps leading to a raised platform, built for the wedding. The pulpit had been removed for the occasion and this space banked with palms and cymbodium ferns almost to the ceiling, was decorated with great clusters of Easter lilies and lighted by candles in branched candelebra.

The bride chose for her wedding gown a Chanel model of exquisite ivory Chantilly lace over satin of the same tone. The bodice was fashioned with a cowl neckline at the front and long wing-line drapery of the lace formed the sleeves. The molded silhouette was attained by diagonal seaming designed to release a graceful unlined train, sweeping several yards on the floor. The only ornament on the gown was a spray of deep cream roses placed at the low waistline at the side back. The veil of ivory-tinted tulle, weighted by small wreaths of pearl orange blossoms fell from a coronet of seed pearls and was worn with a short face veil. She wore as her only jewelry a diamond pendant, the gift of the bridegroom, and she carried a bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley.

The bride's attendants wore gowns of chiffon and tulle in delicate pastel shades. The chiffon bodices, cut with deep oval necklines, were softly draped at either side of the normal waistline and a smoothly fitted hip section gradually expanded into voluminous tulle ruffles, edged with silver. Taffeta bows harmonizing with the accessories worn with the gowns ornamented the frocks at the side back of the waistline. The maid of honor wore a maize-colored gown, the tulle ruffles shading into pale green. The matrons of honor were in pale green over flesh crepe, the tulle shading into flesh tints, and the bridesmaids wore petal-pink with light blues blending in the tulle. They carried bouquets of spring blossoms tied with tulle to match their gowns. The flower girl wore a dainty frock of pale blue organdie, accordion pleated and trimmed with Irish crochet lace. She scattered rose petals in the pathway of the bride.

Mrs. Leschen wore a gown of turquoise blue lace and a corsage of orchids. Mrs. Blauner was gowned in orchid-colored lace and her flowers were orchids worn in a shoulder corsage.

The receiving line stood in the lounge of the St. Louis Woman's Club before a background of palms and spring flowers. Potted plants were used in decoration about the club and more of the spring flowers were arranged on the reception table in the ball room. The wedding supper was served in a private dining room where the table was adorned in white iris, white larkspur, white roses, and four silver cornucopias filled with lilies of the valley. Crystal and silver candelabra held lighted ivory candles.

The bride gave her attendants carnelian and gold bracelets and Mr. Blauner's best man and groomsmen received full dress studs.

Following a honeymoon in the North Mr. and Mrs. Blauner will take possession of their apartment, 7558 Byron place.

The bride was graduated from National Park Seminary, Washington, D. C., and traveled in Europe the following summer. She made her debut two seasons ago at an afternoon reception given by her mother and was maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet ball during her debut year. Mr. Blauner was graduated from the St. Louis University Law School and is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Phi Delta Phi fraternities.

Miss Gardner Becomes Bride Of R. N. Hawes

Ceremony Takes Place in Gothic Cathedral Chapel Built of Canvas — Appointments Among Most Elaborate of Recent Years.

IN a Gothic cathedral chapel, its interior almost concealed by fragrant cedar trees and June blossoms, built of white canvas, adjoining their home, Miss Janet Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Dozier Gardner, 4508 West Pine boulevard, was married at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon to Robert Nicholas Hawes, son of Richard Simrall Hawes, 4943 Maryland avenue. Mr. Gardner was formerly Governor of Missouri. The appointments were among the most elaborate of any wedding held in St. Louis in recent years, and the function was outstanding in the social life of this season.

The chapel walls were decorated at frequent intervals with slender cedar trees almost ceiling height, and rows of overhead globes in fernery provided the illumination. Chairs, arranged as church pews, affording the seating arrangement for the guests, were separated by a long center aisle of asparagus festoons held by ivory wicker standards.

The bridal party descended a broad stairway from the house and proceeded to the wedding music from an organ, installed for the occasion, to the altar at the far end, and stood on a raised dais banked with pink and orchid hydrangeas with feathery ferns grouped closely at each side. The background was completely covered with smilax and in the center was built a cathedral window filled with Easter lilies and flanked by immense trees of pink rambler roses. Graduated cathedral tapers in wrought iron candelebra shone among the flowers. The service was read by the Rev. Dr. James E. Crowther of the Grace Methodist Church.

Mrs. Bernard Shea Horne Jr. of Pittsburg, formerly Miss Kathleen Sheldon of St. Louis, attended the bride as matron of honor, and Mrs. Dozier L. Gardner, sister-in-law of the bride; Miss Dorinda Kennerly, Miss Susie Singleton, Mrs. Calvin Anderson Case of Bronxville, N. Y., formerly Miss Elise Whittemore, St. Louis; Miss Roccena Baldwin, and Mrs. Alan Thompson Smith, formerly Miss Katherine Herndon Smith, were bridesmaids. Richard S. Hawes Jr. was his brother's best man, and the groomsmen were Samuel D. Capen Jr., Martin Lammert III, his brothers-in-law; Dozier L. Gardner and William King Gardner, brothers of the bride; Albert Bond Lambert Jr., Rembert La Beaume and Millard Smith, ushers.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in a gown of shimmering white satin, fashioned after the mode popular in the reign of Empress Eugenie. The satin was cut low in front to a deep square neck line, partially filled in with rare old d'Alecon lace and was mounted to the figure in a slender silhouette. There were long close fitting satin sleeves, marked to the elbows by for-get-nots of seed pearls. The oval satin train, more than three yards wide and extending several yards on the floor, depended from inverted semi-circular inlays of satin at the hipline, and was weighted with tendrils of orange blossoms arranged in bow knots. The bridal veil of white tulle was worn from a cap cut from a single layer of tulle banded with a wreath of orange blossoms, and she wore a long face veil. He flowers were lilies of the valley.

Golden yellow and robin's egg blue were emphasized in the costumes of the bride's attendants. Mrs. Horne's gown was of yellow chiffon over a slip of matching satin and tulle, its princesse lines broken by a second layer of chiffon, box pleated, which fell in points from the hips where half peplums swung at each side. The draped bodice was cut wide over the shoulders to give a short-sleeved effect, and was slashed at the back. A sash of yellow chiffon encircled the normal waistline and was finished with a bow and long streamers. She wore yellow slippers and a wide lacy straw hat trimmed at one side with blue wild flowers.

The bridesmaids' growns were designed similarly of robin's egg blue chiffon tinted especially, and slippers to match. Their hats were like that of the matron of honor in blue to correspond with their gowns, adorned with yellow blossoms. The young women carried great arm bouquets of yellow roses and blue delphinium.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the wedding party re-entered the house and received their guests in the living room which had been converted into a bower of flowers. Dozens of Joanna Hill roses combined with blue delphinium were massed against the mantel, and the fireplace was concealed beneath vari-colored hydrangeas. The receiving line stood by the windows which had been filled with tall wicker standards of delphinium and Pendleton gladioli, interspersed with palms and ferns covering the side of the room. Fifteen hundred guests were invited to the reception.

Mrs. Gardner wore an ensemble of peach blow chiffon with a jacket of French applique lace. More of the lace was used on the bodice and the skirt fell in soft wide scalloped drapery. She wore slippers tinted to match and a small English lady hat of brown straw adorned with a plume shaded from brown to peach blow.

The guests were served in the marquee, the sides of which were raised to admit of entrance into a second enclosure arranged as a garden. An orchestra, seated in a fern-covered alcove, played during the evening. The wedding party, with a few additional guests were seated for the bridal dinner in the rathskeller. Here the elaborate decorations were continued. The grilled window apertures were festooned with greenery, and at one side was a flower trimmed table for the wedding cake. The bridal table had for its centerpiece a silver bowl basket of lilies of the valley and iris, surrounded by eight crystal cornucopias filled with valley lilies.

Additional guests at the wedding table included Mrs. William King Gardner, Mrs. Samuel D. Capen Jr., Mrs. Martin Lammert III, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Maloy Jr., Alan Thompson Smith, Shapleigh Boyd, Calvin Anderson Case and John D. Franciscus.

The bride's gifts to her attendants were turquoise slipper buckles, and Mr. Hawes gave his groomsmen tie clasps.

The entire third floor of the house was used to house the wedding presents, which numbered in the hundreds.

Mr. and Mrs. Hawes will depart tonight on their wedding trip and will divide their time this summer between the Gardner and Hawes homes during the absence of the families. In the fall they will take an apartment.

The bride is a graduate of Mary Institute and Mount Vernon Seminary, Washington. She was presented to society several seasons ago at a brilliant tea given by her mother, and later Mr. and Mrs. Gardner gave a fancy dress ball for her at the Bogy Club. Mr. Hawes is a graduate of the University of Virginia. He is a nephew of United States Senator Harry B. Hawes.

Miss Pearl A. Michel Weds

The marriage of Miss Pearl A. Michel, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Pierre A. Michel, 914 Buena Vista avenue, to Albert A. Klein, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Klein, 4558 Wichita avenue, took place at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday morning at St. Luke's Church, Father Joseph McMahon officiating. The church was decorated with peonies and palms and lined with white tapers. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a fitted gown of ivory satin flaring into a train, and trimmed with a deep cape of D'Alencon lace. She wore long lace mitts. Her ivory tulle veil was arranged to a lace coronet held with sprays of orange blossoms. She wore a pearl necklace, the gift of the bridegroom, and carried lilies of the valley, and a duchesse lace handkerchief carried by her mother at her wedding.

Miss Elizabeth O'Keefe, as maid of honor, wore shell pink point d'esprit over a taffeta slip of a deeper shade, with a sash of aquamarine velvet. A bow of the same velvet trimmed her hairbraid hat. She carried pink roses and larkspur. Miss Margaret Dayball and Miss Alvina Klein, sister of the bridegroom, wore aquamarine point d'esprit designed like that of the maid of honor, trimmed with pink velvet and carried Joanna Hill roses and blue larkspur. Dolores and Geraldine Gretencord of Ottawa, Ill., nieces of Mr. Klein, in pink and blue organdie, were the flower girls. They carried baskets of rosebuds.

Henry Klein was his brother's best man, and the ushers were Norvell Burton and Jack Dorsey.

Mrs. Michel wore green Spanish lace with an ecru lace hat. Following the ceremony a breakfast for the families was given in the gold room of the Knights of Columbus Club and a reception followed in the crystal room. Mr. and Mrs. Klein will reside with her parents after a honeymoon.

Not only is slightest fear of coarsened re-growth banished but actual reappearance of hair is slowed amazingly.

A Discovery That is Proving to the Wonder of the Cosmetic World That Hair Can Not Only Be Removed Instantly, But Its Reappearance Delayed Amazingly.

A way of removing arm and leg hair has been found that not only removes every vestige of hair instantly, but that banishes the stimulated hair growth thousands of women are charging to the razor and less modern ways. A way that not only removes hair, but delays its reappearance remarkably.

It is changing previous conceptions of cosmeticians about hair removing. Women are flocking to its use. The creation of a noted laboratory, it is different from any other hair remover known.

What It Is

It is an exquisite toilet creme resembling a superior beauty clay in texture. You simply spread it on where hair is to be removed. Then rinse off with water. That is all. Every vestige of hair is gone; so completely that even by running your hand across the skin not the slightest trace of stubble can be felt. And—the reappearance of that hair is delayed surprisingly!

When re-growth finally does come, it is utterly unlike the re-growth following the razor and old ways. You can feel the difference. No sharp stubble. No coarsened growth.

Where To Obtain

It is called NEET—and is on sale at all drug and department stores and beauty parlors. Costs only a few cents. 275RA

Arm Or Leg Hair Now Easy To Really Get Rid Of

Utterly Without the Problem of Coarsened Re-growth

By a total lack of stubble, you can feel the difference between this and old ways.

A Discovery That is Proving to the Wonder of the Cosmetic World That Hair Can Not Only Be Removed Instantly, But Its Reappearance Delayed Amazingly.

A way of removing arm and leg hair has been found that not only removes every vestige of hair instantly, but that banishes the stimulated hair growth thousands of women are charging to the razor and less modern ways. A way that not only removes hair, but delays its reappearance remarkably.

It is changing previous conceptions of cosmeticians about hair removing. Women are flocking to its use. The creation of a noted laboratory, it is different from any other hair remover known.

What It Is

It is an exquisite toilet creme resembling a superior beauty clay in texture. You simply spread it on where hair is to be removed. Then rinse off with water. That is all. Every vestige of hair is gone; so completely that even by running your hand across the skin not the slightest trace of stubble can be felt. And—the reappearance of that hair is delayed surprisingly!

When re-growth finally does come, it is utterly unlike the re-growth following the razor and old ways. You can feel the difference. No sharp stubble. No coarsened growth.

The skin, too, is left as soft as a child's. No skin roughness, no enlarged pores. You feel freer than probably ever before in your life of annoying hair growth.

Where To Obtain

BOY SCOUT CAMPARALL TO OPEN ON FRIDAY

More Than 1000 Will Take Part in Three-Day Contest in Forest Park.

More than 1000 Boy Scouts, from 113 St. Louis city and county troops, will take part in the 1931 camparall at the old aviation field, Forest Park, next Friday, Saturday and Sunday. In all, 137 patrols of eight members each will compete for five district prizes. This is 25 patrols and 200 scouts, more than participated in the record-breaking camparall last year.

The west district, with 37 patrols from 29 troops, leads in the number of entries, followed by the south district, 26 patrols from 24 troops; north district, 24 patrols from 23 troops; central district, 22 patrols from 21 troops, and suburban district, 18 patrols from 16 troops. Each district will conduct its own contests, a prize being awarded to the patrol making the best showing in each district.

The scouts will go into camp Friday evening, but the main events of the combination camp and scout activities contest will take place Saturday and Sunday. Individual and patrol projects will occupy most of Saturday, five specified and eight surprise projects being assigned to each patrol. The contestants will be judged on their proficiency in meeting required standards within a specified time limit.

A mass campfire, for both the scouts and the public, will be held at 8 o'clock Saturday evening. Each district will provide a stunt and a specialty number.

A public flag observance will be held at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, on Picnic Grounds 2 and 3, just east of the World's Fair pavilion. Troop 60 will present a dramatized history of the flag, while Troop 247, in a series of tableaux, will show the correct and incorrect forms of displaying, saluting and carrying the flag. Acting Mayor Neun will talk.

District camp masters, observers and scorers for the events will be: Suburban district, Dr. C. E. Colgate, Harry Holbrook and G. A. Newcomb; north district, O. W. Seipp, H. C. Noe and George Engelman; south district, P. E. Kelley, H. W. Gotsch and N. C. Tines; central district, P. W. Shull, E. A. Kleykamp and William Thodore; west district, E. B. Langenberg, Dr. L. H. Renfrow and Carl Bauman.

Troop Notes

South District.

Leaders from the South District won the city-wide streamer for first place at the annual St. Louis Scoutmasters' Training Camp, held at Irondale May 29 to 31. A patrol from the South District also won first prize in patrol competition. Points in the district competition were based on attendance, participation in scoutcraft training classes, winning games and discussion groups. In winning both events, the leaders duplicated the feat of the South District patrol leaders, who won both contests at the Patrol Leaders' camp three weeks ago. Scoutmaster William Sippy led the winning patrol.

The scouts and troop committee of Troop 129 received Holy Communion in a body at St. George's Church last Sunday, as the troop's part in the church's Memorial day observances. After mass the troop returned to its headquarters, where prayers were said for dead veterans, and taps was sounded.

An exhibit of snakes and of books bound by the scouts for the bookbinding merit badge, is now being displayed by Troop 250 of Shepard School at Cherokee Bank. Scouts from this troop, assisted by scouts from Troop 209 of St. Matthew's Church, won third prize in a contest parade staged by the Cherokee Business Association May 23.

Four South District troops, 73, 174, 215 and 232, have been invited to participate in the annual picnic of Carondelet School next Saturday. Scoutmaster Hugo Hillig of Troop 73 is in charge of the scout arrangements.

West District.

Games, drilling and knot-tying featured the meeting of Troop 30 of Y. M. H. A. Thursday evening. The troop newspaper, "Squanto," was distributed. The troop extended its sympathy to Assistant Scoutmaster Louis Romansky, whose father recently died.

The Camparall patrol to be entered by Troop 94 of St. Barbara's Church consists of Joe Landau, patrol leader; Lawrence Behan, assistant patrol leader; Gilbert Eise, William Gregory, Joe Teiderman, Richard Young, Sylvester Stark and August Beine. Harold Landau and Sylvester Stark passed a board of review and became second-class scouts May 28. The troop led the parade held at the church's annual picnic at Westlake Park May 31, and assisted in handling the crowd at the races. Fifteen scouts, two committee men and three officers attended the troop's quarterly Communion Sunday last week.

Troop 44 of Church of St. Rose is planning a hike contest with Troop 94 of St Barbara's Church.

A lecture on Indian relics and lore was given by Herman Wohler before the scouts of Troop 120 of Church of the Apostles May 30. Wohler is considering becoming a merit badge counselor in Indian lore. The troop is planning a week-end hike to the estate of Dr. R. J. Payne, a collector of early American antiques. Dr. Payne has a particularly fine collection of old guns and pistols. A log cabin built in early pioneer style is on his estate.

Central District.

The final spring meeting of the Central District deputy commissioners and Court of Honor representatives will be held at Mission Inn, Grand boulevard and Magnolia avenue, at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening. Plans for the coming Camparall and for the summer and fall will be discussed.

A Troop Court of Honor was conducted by Troop 242 of St. Francis de Sales Church, May 30. Educational Chairman Dirkers presided. District Commissioner Stamm presented some of the awards, while the remainder were awarded by Division Commissioner R. E. Strickler. Short talks were given by Father Winkelman, troop adviser, and by Field Executive Case.

North District.

Troop 3 of the Grace Church won the two contests in first aid and signaling during a visit to Troop 206 at at the Ames School last week. William Dickson and Ray Russell represented Troop 3 in the first aid contest, while John Ranspott and Warren Brauer took part in the signaling contest. Several games were also played. Eight scouts, four officers and two visitors were present at the last meeting.

Suburban District.

Scouts from the seven troops of Maplewood assisted in the funeral services for Deputy Commissioner Harry R. Thies, who died at his home, 7414 Lyndover place, Maplewood, recently. A message of sympathy was sent by the district to Mrs. Thies and Scout Bob Thies, a member of Maplewood 3.

The two Camparall patrols of Webster Groves 7 of Webster Groves Presbyterian Church are holding an encampment this week-end to practice for the coming contest. W. R. Stobie, outdoor member of the troop committee, is in charge of the camp. The troop's first patrol is composed of four Eagle Scouts, two Life, and two Star Scouts.

Co-ordination Committee for Radio and Electrical Industries Urges Use of Maximum Power on Cleared Channels—Broadcast From Rum Row Planned for Tuesday Night.

By J. L. S.

Uncle Abe and David, portrayed by Phillips Lord and Arthur Allen, are to return to the air. The new program is to be a "Down East" skit, similar to their previous one, and also patterned somewhat after Sunday at Seth Parker's, in which Lord takes the leading role. It will go on an NBC network twice a night except Sunday, early in the evening for Eastern stations, and later for a Western group.

Improvement of radio reception nationally and locally, by eliminating or reducing interference, is to be sought by a co-ordination committee representing the Radio Manufacturers' Association, the National Electric Light Association and the National Electrical Manufacturers' Association. The first recommendation of this committee, that maximum power be used by stations as far as is consistent with proper broadcasting development, has been sent to the Federal Radio Commission. The committee also recommended that the assignment of cleared channels to stations should require the use by them of the maximum power available. Co-ordination of radio and electrical development in all other lines is a main objective of the committee. Design of electric light and power machinery, so as to cause as little interference as possible with reception, will be studied with engineers of radio and electrical factories.

Using a portable microphone and a 250-watt short wave outfit, Ford Frick, news and sports announcer, is to go to sea on a tug next Tuesday with the idea of broadcasting an account of what is happening on "Rum Runners' Row" beyond the 12-mile limit. The program will take the place of the Howard Barlow symphony concert. The tug will go to sea early Tuesday morning, and an attempt will be made to establish contact with one of the vessels regularly located on Rum Row. Frick plans, if weather permits, to get aboard the ship and to interview its captain. Barlow's orchestra is to open the program, which will then be turned over to Frick.

Four broadcasts from London are scheduled over NBC chains as follows: Thursday an act of Verdi's "Rigoletto" from the Covent Garden opera, over KSD; Friday, part of a comedy, "Our Town," over the WJZ chain; Monday, chamber music concert on KSD; June 23, talk by Sir William Beveridge, WJZ net.

KMOX has been granted permission by the Federal Radio Commission to amend its application for an experimental television station in St. Louis, in anticipation of new developments in television equipment. The hearing on the original application, set for this month, will be postponed until fall. In the meantime, the station hopes to complete arrangements for purchase of this new apparatus, said to be a radical departure in the visual art.

Regular weekly broadcasts by Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago and members of his cabinet are planned following an offer of time over WENR by Niles Trammell, vice president of the NBC. Trammell has offered to Cermak two 15-minute periods a week.

Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Chicago Cubs, will be interviewed in the broadcast over KSD at 8:30 Wednesday night.

Zinaida Nicolina of Chauve Souris and "Around the Samovar" fame, and Adia Kuznetzoff, who is said to have the deepest bass voice known to musicians, are to sing in the Family Party concert over KSD tomorrow night.

A new broadcast series is to consist of four programs of different types, the theory being that listeners will indicate which kind of radio fare they prefer for the rest of the year. The series will open July 1. For one week an orchestra led by Josef Koestner will give a 15-minute concert twice daily except Sunday. It will play popular music and special arrangements. The second week actors widely known among NBC listeners will perform "The Private Affairs of the Jones Family." The third week's broadcasts will bring a minstrel show, featuring Al and Pete, Chuck and Ray and others. The fourth week a "Beautiful Thoughts" program will be broadcast. This will feature Chuck, Ray and Gene and Irma Glenn, organist, in songs, readings and organ music.

Fritzi Scheff, musical comedy star, is to be soloist in a concert of Vienna music on KSD June 14.

Luella Melius, an American coloratura soprano who has won favor in Europe, will sing in the Melodies broadcast over KWK at 7:30 Thursday night. * * * Ben Bernie is taking over the CBS chain program formerly featuring Ritchie Craig Jr. * * * Rosa Ponselle is to sing in another operatic broadcast from London over the CBS chain tomorrow. * * * Arthur Brisbane, noted newspaper editor, is to speak in a broadcast from the N. E. L. A. convention at Atlantic City, on the WEAF chain, the night of June 11. * * * Sir John C. W. Reith, director-general of the British Broadcasting Corporation, will speak from Chicago over the CBS chain Tuesday. * * * A broadcast from the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto, the night of June 23 is to include songs by a chorus of 2000 voices. * * * Count Felix Von Luckner, German submarine commander during the World War is to be interviewed by Grantland Rice, over KSD on June 17. * * * The unveiling of busts of former Presidents will be broadcast from Richmond, Va., over the WEAF chain—that of John Tyler on June 16 and that of Zachary Taylor on June 23. * * * A new daily series of poetry readings starts on the WEAF chain tomorrow, to be conducted at 10:15 a. m. by Capt. R. Henderson Bland, of England. * * * The Express program will change its style on KWK, starting tomorrow night when it will feature the piano duo of Ohman and Arden and an orchestra directed by the latter. * * * Beginning June 14, Harbor Lights, the WJZ sea drama, will move from Saturday to Sunday night.

What's New in Radio Industry

By MARTIN CODEL.

CHICAGO, June 6.—What's new in radio? Here on the eve of the annual Radio Manufacturers' Association trade show, which will open Monday, one hears much talk of midgets, television, the variable-mu and pentode tubes, new long-life battery sets, the Stenode Radiostat, home talkies and many other things.

Thousands of radio dealers are gathering from all parts of the country to preview the latest the radio industry has to offer, the offerings these same dealers will be making to the buying public from this time on.

Foremost, perhaps, is the emphasis being placed upon the production of the small, compact, low-priced receiving sets generally called midgets. They will be evident on all hands and for the most part they, like the larger sets, are employing the superheterodyne circuit.

The larger sets, of course, will continue to command large sales, for much more can be done with them in the way of engineering true tone values. The superheterodyne dominates all classes of sets, hardly a major manufacturer today ignoring that circuit. Then, too, with a wide market still prevailing for battery sets, especially among the non-electrified rural regions, the new A batteries, one with a life of about 1000 hours, will be considerably in evidence.

The two new tubes, the variable-mu and pentode, are to be featured. The variable-mu is a screen-grid which permits stronger signals to be fed into the radio frequency amplifier without causing cross-talk, liminates hissing background noises and does away with the need for controlling devices to compensate for the different intensities of distant and local signals.

The ordinary radio receiver cannot use the variable-mu. Neither can it use the power pentode, which is a tube with many times the usual amplification of a power tube. It takes special circuits for both these tubes, and these special circuits are incorporated in many of the sets to be offered to the public.

Television experimenters are a zealous lot who have attracted thousands of experimentally-minded persons to look-in with them on the pictures now offered over 20 or more stations east of the Mississippi. Commercial television receivers are available today for those minded to dabble with an art that is about at the stage of perfection that ordinary radio was seven or eight years ago.

Advance reports have it that Dr. James Robinson's Stenode Radiostat will be an attraction at the trade show next week, with several manufacturers showing models of the British scientist's new system of exceedingly sharp tuning. The models to be displayed by several manufacturers, it is said, will incorporate the pentode and variable-mu' tubes.

Out of radio and its kindred acoustical arts have come home talkies, permitting the filming of motion pictures, the recording of voices and their presentation in the home. This, the furniture displays and the many other appurtenances of radio will give the dealers plenty to consider.

Europe Has Trouble After Separation of Stations Is Reduced

The Federal Radio Commission is not likely to reduce the separation between stations, as requested last fall by 10 high-powered broadcasters, if it observes the result of such an experiment in Europe.

Dr. J. H. Dellinger, chief of the radio division of the Bureau of Standards, who has returned from a conference of the International Electrotechnical Committee in Scandinavia, found the change very unsatisfactory. Europe last year, to make room for more stations, cut the required separation from 10 kilocycles, which is maintained in this country, to nine kilocycles.

Radio engineers expressed great dissatisfaction over the change, Dr. Dellinger said, as heterodyne interference has increased since new stations were crowded onto the broadcasting band. Now European authorities face the problem of forcing stations off the air if they return to the 10-kilocycle separation.

Sylvania in Merger.

Plans to consolidate the Sylvania Products Co., makers of Sylvania tubes, and the Nilco Lamp Works, Inc., both at Emporium, Pa., and the Hygrade Lamp Co., Salem, Mass., have been approved by the boards of directors of all three companies, which did a total of $13,000,000 business in 1930. There will be no public financing, and the executives in charge of the separate concerns will continue in office, it is stated.

The commission has arranged division of time by WOS, Jefferson City, operated by the Missouri State Marketing Bureau; KFRU, at Columbia, Mo., operated by Stephens College, and WGBF, at Evansville, Ind. WOS and KFRU will operate simultaneously with WGBF until unset; WOS and KFRU will operate half time at night, and WGBF half time at night on the 630-kilocycle channel.

Saturday night, July 25, an NBC chain will carry a description of a pageant, "Covered Wagon Days," that will be performed in the Utah Stadium, in Utah. The pageant will depict the founding and building of the Salt Lake empire, and will be part of Utah's celebration of the arrival of Brigham Young and his pioneers in the Salt Lake Valley in 1847.

Erno Rapee, conductor of the Roxy Symphony Orchestra, will lead the orchestra in the concert featuring Olive Plamer and Paul Oliver next Wednesday night over KSD.

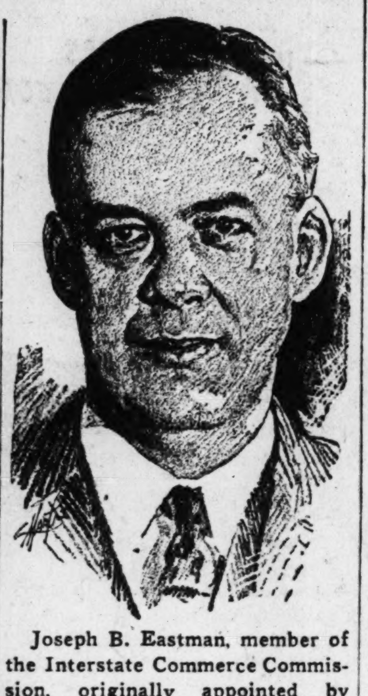
INDIRECT GOVERNMENT CONTROL OF RAILROADS

A Suggestion by a Member of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Joseph B. Eastman Outlines General Plan to Stabilize Service and Earnings, With Provisions to Keep Politics Out of Management and Operation.



Joseph B. Eastman, member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, originally appointed by President Wilson.

(For five years prior to 1910, Joseph B. Eastman was a member of the Public Service Commission of Massachusetts, widely recognized among students of utility regulation as one of the most enlightened and progressive state commissions in this country. On the strength of his record there, President Wilson appointed him to the Interstate Commerce Commission, where he has served with extraordinary distinction. President Hoover reappointed him last year. In a recent speech before the New York Traffic Club, composed largely of railway executives and representatives of shippers, Commissioner Eastman said it would be possible "to evolve a plan of complete governmental responsibility for the transportation service, which would retain most of the merits of private initiative." Responding to an invitation from the Post-Dispatch to clarify and elaborate on this statement, Commissioner Eastman prepared the following article):

By Joseph B. Eastman,

WASHINGTON, June 6.

LET me say at the outset that I do not urge public ownership of the railroads at the present time, for several reasons. I question whether public opinion is yet ripe for such a move or would sufficiently support it. It would be unwise to embark upon such an undertaking without the most careful preparation of plans in advance, and no one as yet has either been delegated or has volunteered to do that job. Also, such a project would now be greatly complicated by the rapid development of other means of transportation, such as motor trucks.

Under all the circumstances the question has seemed academic, so far as the railroads are concerned, and I have not tried to work out a specific plan for their public ownership and operation. This, of course, may not be the situation as to other public utilities, and in particular instances it may well be, not only that the problem would be much simpler than in the case of the railroads, but also that the times are propitious. While I have no detailed plan to offer, I have some general ideas upon the subject of public ownership and operation which I am quite willing to give to the Post-Dispatch for what they may be worth. It must be understood that they are presented as my personal views, and not as those of the commission of which I am a member.

Ownership Policy.

If a government, whether local, State or Federal, undertakes to go into business and carry on an industry, it should not, I believe, directly own the property or manage it directly through an ordinary governmental bureau or department. The property should be owned and the business carried on, just as under private enterprise, by a corporation or similar form of organization.

The government should control this corporation by ownership of stock. The idea would be to keep the industry separate and distinct from other governmental undertakings, to operate it on a self-sustaining basis and in a form permitting ready examination into its affairs, to manage it in accordance with business principles, and to remove it from ordinary political influences and continual interference by the legislative and executive branches of the government.

Just as the affairs of a purely private corporation are under the general supervision of a board of directors, so this publicly-controlled corporation would be under the immediate control of a similar board. But they should be called public trustees rather than directors. Designations often have a very considerable psychological importance.

The executive branch of the government would be responsible for the appointment of the trustees. The legislative branch would be responsible for the charter of the corporation. Once the trustees were appointed, however, they would be held solely responsible for the management of the corporation in accordance with its charter powers and purposes.

The drafting of the charter would be a most important matter. It should, I believe, be prefaced by a declaration of policy, carefully and impressively worded, stating the general purposes, and making very clear the intent that the affairs of the corporation shall be conducted on business principles without regard to party politics. It should definitely provide that the corporation shall be maintained, if possible, on a self-sustaining basis, including suitable provision for depreciation, the payment of taxes, the payment of all interest obligations and a strictly limited dividend on stock.

Depressior Safeguards.

Provision should be made for the accumulation of a reasonable reserve fund as a protection against periods of depression or other similar contingencies. Beyond such provision, it should not be the object to create a surplus, but if surplus earnings should at any time result, they should be put back into the property or used to retire interest-bearing obligations. In the case of certain utilities operating in a prosperous community, it might be wise to allow the trustees some discretion in the creation of a surplus to be used. Of course, I am only touching on some of the high points in the charter.

If the operations of the utility are complicated, and it serves many distinct classes of customers similarly situated, it might be well to provide for adjudication by the appropriate public regulatory commission of complaints alleging unjust discrimination or departures from published rates. (The appropriate commission, in the base of utilities operating within a State, would be the State utility commission; in cases of utilities doing an interstate business, it would be the Interstate Commerce, Power or other Federal commission, if any, having particular jurisdiction). I would give the commission supervision over accounting, and it might be given some measure of control over important extensions of service. But broadly speaking, the amount of such supervision, which involves divided responsibility and judicial rather than administrative procedure, should be reduced to a minimum.

The Government could permit the corporation to take its chance, like an ordinary private corporation, without guaranty of obligations. But if it wishes to give the corporation the best possible credit and access to capital at the lowest rates of interest, it could provide such a guaranty. This latter course would have the advantage that it would give the taxpayers, who are a most influential element in every community, a direct interest in the affairs of the corporation, so that they would uphold the executive branch of the Government in selecting a nonpolitical and efficient board of trustees.

In the case of an urban transportation system, it would be just and right to assess part of the cost of rapid transit lines, involving costly subway or elevated railway construction, upon the real estate benefitted thereby.

The legislative branch of the Government would retain a distinct measure of control over the corporation through authority to amend its charter, from time to time, in any way which would not unlawfully impair contract obligations, and through its power to authorize an investigation of the corporation's affairs. But it would have no authority otherwise to meddle in the management, and any amendments of the charter would require approval of both branches of the legislative body, if it has two branches, and also of the executive.

The executive would have ultimate control over management through his authority to appoint the trustees, just as the stockholders of a private corporation select the directors. But I think the trustees should have a fairly long term of office, only one coming up for appointment each year, so that the management would not be in danger of being uprooted through caprice. In the ordinary case, five trustees would be enough, and I think they should be paid salaries, not large, but high enough so that men of moderate means would not be debarred.

On assuming office, they should be required to take an oath, impressively worded, to the effect that they will, among other things, manage the property as economically and efficiently as is in their power and without regard to political considerations. Such declarations may seem mere formalities, but I believe them to have a distinct and important psychological effect. The oath of office would also make impeachment proceedings possible under certain circumstances, but there should be no other power of removal. The trustees should be strictly prohibited from appointing employes at the behest of public office holders.

Voice for Labor.

If an additional safeguard is desired, provision could be made for the selection of a minority of the trustees by nonpolitical elements having a natural self-interest in economical and efficient operation. The business and labor interests of the community served are two elements which might be so represented, and they are often so organized that such a plan would be feasible. Specified central organizations representing these elements could be given direct authority to appoint one trustee each, or, as an alternative, the executive branch of the government could be directed to appoint one trustee from lists of five, or some such number, submitted by these organizations.

This plan of representation of nonpolitical elements has been followed to some considerable extent in Germany, and apparently with good results. It is called the "mixed-management" plan. These minority trustees would not be in control, but they would be on the ground in direct touch with all the affairs of the company and in a position to expose mismanagement. I do not consider this feature essential, because I believe that most executives would normally see to it that these elements of the community were represented on the board. I know that this has been done in the case of the public trustees of the Boston Electric Railway Co., and I am told that it has been done in the case of the directors of the Canadian National Railways.

No Bar Against Unions.

If a still further safeguard were deemed desirable, it would be possible to provide for minority stock holdings by various centralized organizations throughout the community. No large investment would be required, but these minority interests would have the usual rights of stockholders to inquire into the affairs of their company, and any special rights of this character which it might be thought wise to provide for in the charter.

The name of the corporation should, I believe, clearly indicate its public character, and in the case of uniformed employes the uniforms should be designed to include in some attractive way, and without expense to the employes, the insignia of the controlling government. The employes should, in short, be made to realize that they are working for public and not for private interests. Some plan should be devised for the public recognition of especially meritorious service, upon the part of both officers and men. This idea has for many years been followed to much advantage in the military departments of the Government, in city police and fire departments, and also in some private industries. The employes should be permitted and encouraged to organize.

There is, of course, some danger on a publicly controlled property that they may press their demands too far, to the public injury and eventually to their own injury. They should be treated in accord with the most enlightened standards prevailing in the industry of this country. No doubt, indeed, the Government should lead in this respect. But it cannot without danger get too far ahead of the procession. My observation of the public service, however, has not led me to believe that this is a very serious danger.

Keeping Out of Politics.

The trustees, and the management for which they are responsible, should endeavor to maintain close friendly and co-operative relations, not only with the organization heads, but also with the men themselves. The management of the Canadian National Railways under Sir Henry Thornton provides a most excellent model in this respect. One result has been to show that the employes can be of the greatest aid in keeping the company free from undesirable political entanglements. The men will respond to reasonable treatment, and more readily, I believe, in public than in private service. I would not subject the employes to civil service regulations, until a need therefor has been demonstrated. Such regulations have disadvantages as well as advantages. They should be adopted, not of preference, but only of necessity.

This plan of conducting a public business through the medium of a publicly-controlled corporation is, I believe, spreading rapidly. It has, for example, been adopted quite extensively in both Great Britain and Germany. A recent Conservative Government in England followed such a plan in the development of the Central Electricity Board, and the present Labor Government is now proposing it in connection with London passenger transport. The present Minister of Transport stated that "he had frankly broken away, as he believed the Labor Party would have to do in nearly all big trading undertakings, from the old conception of direct State of Municipal management on departmental lines." The new statesman and nation, of London, recently said:

Precedents Elsewhere.

"The idea of public administration has hitherto connoted in men's minds the idea of control by Parliament or by an elected local authority. It will, we hope and believe, continue to involve this idea in matters of high policy plainly concerning the public interest. But we have to learn, as we are learning already in the case of the British Broadcasting Co., to distinguish between ultimate control over policy, and supervision of the affairs of day-to-day administration. We have to learn that, if we are to manage public services efficiently, we shall have to leave their administrators to get on with the job, reserving the right to criticise, and to replace them if they bungle, but leaving them free, over a wide field, to settle current questions on their own responsibility."

On this continent there are at least two cases where this general idea, broadly speaking, has been followed out on an extensive scale, and I think there are others. One is the Boston Elevated Railway Company, which owns and operates all of the surface, elevated and subway lines of railway in the Boston metropolitan district, and which leases and operates all subways and tunnels. It is a statutory corporation, but its affairs are now directed by a board of five public trustees appointed by the Governor. The other is the Canadian National Railways, which also is a corporation and owns and operates railroad lines just as railway companies ordinarily do. Its stock, however, is owned by the Dominion Government, and its directors are appointed by that Government.

If the plan were to be followed in the case of all railroads in the United States, the undertaking would be so gigantic as to call for considerable amplification and development of the general idea. It would be a problem in organization, requiring a great amount of concentrated thought for its wise solution. Probably it would be desirable to utilize, instead of a single corporation, a considerable number of corporations.

As I stated at the outset, I have not attempted to work out such a plan. Of necessity the plan followed when the railroads were taken over by the Government during the World War was hastily improvised. Any one who will read the excellent "War History of American Railroads" by Walker D. Hines, second Director-General and eminent in the railroad world, will, I am sure, agree that Federal control was much more successful than is commonly supposed, and also that it "does not constitute a sound argument either for or against permanent peace-time government ownership and operation."

Behind the Scenes With Alfonso XIII In the Last Hours of Tottering Reign

Count Romanones, Minister of State, Tells How News of Monarchy's Collapse Was Imparted to Hapsburg Ruler, Incidents of Flight, and Beginning of Exile When Alfonso for First Time Broke Down and Wept.

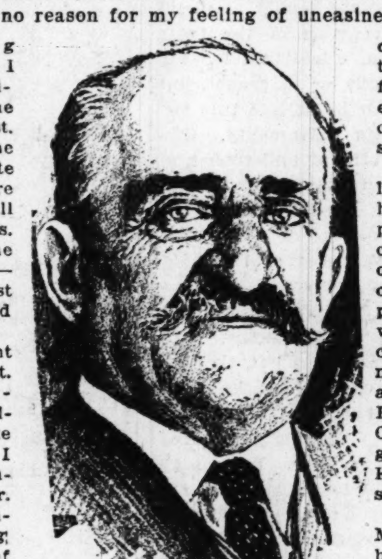
No man in Alfonso's entourage is better qualified to describe the now famous abdication of April 14, 1931, than Don Alvaro de Figueroa y Torres, Count Romanones, a member of the King's first and last cabinets, known as the richest man in Spain, and for 40 years a stormy petrel of Spanish politics. At the time of the downfall of the monarchy he was royalist Minister of State in the Aznar cabinet.)

By COUNT ROMANONES.

MADRID, June 7.

THE explosion of April 14, for the municipal elections on that date were really a spontaneous eruption of public feeling, was for everyone, without exception, a complete surprise. The elections took place in all parts of Spain in a quiet, orderly manner. There were no attempts to purchase votes, much less actual buying of votes. The decision against the Crown was made evident with crushing weight.

I am not one of those who believe in presentments. However, on Sunday, election day, I felt greatly depressed in spirit although, as I was in the country and out of touch with returns from the voting, there was no reason for my feeling of uneasiness.



Count Romanones, first and last minister of State in the reign of Alfonso.

On returning to Madrid I learned immediately that the battle was lost. I went to the Ministry of State and from there telephoned to all the Governors. All were of the same opinion — the Monarchist candidates had been defeated.

I did not want to believe it. Hours afterwards, with almost complete returns in, I went to the Ministry of Interior. The entire ministry including the Ministers of War and Navy and the Director-General of the Civil Guard, Gen. Sanjurjo, were congregated there. Every face revealed profound consternation. Turning to Gen, Sanjurjo, I said:

Army With People.

"Until now you have guaranteed the support of the Civil Guard. Will you be able to do that tomorrow when the will of the country is known?"

The General lowered his head without responding. With this, the last hope vanished.

On Monday, as was my custom, I went to the Palace to confer with the King. I found him serene. He showed no signs of nervousness. Our conversation was lengthy. I told him that "all was lost," and that there remained "not the remotest hope." Without doubt I spoke with sufficient clarity as I interrupted the King with the statement that "I will not be an obstacle in the road we may have to take and which the welfare of Spain may require."

The Council of Ministers met at 5 o'clock that afternoon. In a few brief words, Prime Minister Admiral Aznar, outlined the problem which we had to examine and we had no other recourse than to speak and to speak clearly. I, as Minister of State, spoke first and wished to be the first to talk, but maintained that the Government should immediately recognize the crisis and give the King facilities for taking whatever steps he considered necessary.

The discussion lasted three hours. The latter part of the discussion was based on the contents of a note I had prepared and it was finally accepted with some modifications. We agreed that the President of the Council should give the note to King Alfonso as soon as possible.

That night, Monday, I slept badly, with the feeling that I was wasting precious moments.

The following morning my friend, Count Gimeno, visited me and told me that the night before he had talked to Viscount Casa Aguilar who had just returned from a conference with King Alfonso bringing the impression that the King would not permit the shedding of a single drop of blood although he was still hopeful for a solution to the problem facing him other than departure from Spain.

King's Flight a Necessity.

An hour later, I was informed that Alfonso awaited me. When I arrived at the Palace I perceived that the atmosphere had changed entirely, the faces of the high dignitaries and of the servants betrayed an air of uneasiness.

The King awaited me impatiently. We went into his office. Putting every possible emphasis on my words, I repeated the advice already given him through Viscount Aguilar.

During the course of the conversation the King requested me to see Niceto Alcala Zamora, Republican-Socialist leader, and learn his proposals. Just 25 years ago Alcala Zamora, the present provisional president of the Spanish Republic, accompanied the Royal party as my private secretary, on a voyage to the Canary Islands.

Alcala and I met on neutral ground in the house of Dr. Gregorio Maranon. Alcala started the conversation with, "You know me very well and know that I am not a man to conceal the truth.

"You have lost the battle. There remains no other recourse for the King than to leave Spain, and leave immediately. The Republic will be proclaimed before the sun sets. The King should resign his power before the Council of Ministers. It will not be prudent for him to leave Spain by way of Irun, because there, as in San Sebastian, exists great public feeling against him. It will be best for him to leave through the Portuguese frontier."

Hearing these words I realized that any argument was futile and limited myself to informing Alcala that I would convey his declaration to the King and the Council of Ministers.

Snapshot of Alfonso of Spain, his equanimity seemingly restored, leaving his hotel at Fontainbleau, France, followed by one of his daughters.

Serene Despite Ill News.

I returned to the Palace. I will never forget my conversation with the King. The occasion was the tumbling down of all the efforts of a lifetime, yet the King maintained himself with a freezing calmness. Alfonso, more serene than I have ever seen him, listened to my message. He then indicated that he was inclined to write a message to the Nation, and outlined its contents to me.

I took leave of the King and went to the Department of Interior. The Minister and Assistant Secretary had gone to lunch. From the Interior Department I requested the President of the Council and the Minister of Interior by telephone to come immediately. They arrived in a few minutes, as did Gen. Berenguer. I recounted the conversation which had taken place at the palace and impressed upon them the necessity of taking steps to insure order during the time the King would relinquish power and the new Government would step in.

Shortly after our conversation started, we received word of the hoisting of the first Republican flag atop the Palace of Communications. A noisy mob was advancing toward the Oriente Plaza and the large Puerta del Sol Plaza was gradually filling with an excited, cheering throng.

We agreed to notify Alcala Zamora that he should endeavor to maintain order until the last Council meeting had been held with the King. Zamora, however, refused to take action, asserting that if the royal family's departure from Spain was delayed we would have to take the consequences.

Some of the Ministers favored resistance to the new Government, but King Alfonso cut short the discussion by declaring, "I do not wish to resist. Not one drop of blood shall be shed on my behalf. Why are we wasting time?"

The Ministers of War and Interior both then admitted they possessed no means of resisting the new Government. The King read to us in a firm voice his manifesto to the country. The moment was hardly propitious to suggest any alterations in the document, but we were all agreed that it would hardly do to make the contents of the manifesto known to the country until after the royal family was across the border.

Tears at Journey's End.

The King bade us good-by. It was a moment of great emotion. There was not a face which wasn't covered with tears and some of us could not refrain from sobbing.

The King's departure had been set for 8:30 in the evening of the day before the Queen left. A 15-minute delay was incurred when Gen. Rivera was unable to reach the palace because of obstacles placed in the streets leading to the building.

Finally the motor cavalcade was ready. The King, with Infante Don Alfonso, occupied one automobile. In another was Gen. Rivera with the Duke of Miranda, and in the third were three Adjutants to the King. The party left the city through the Campo del Moro. The journey to the coast was without incident except at Murcia, where a crowd, at first suspicious, gathered about the King's automobile and saluted him respectfully.

The arrival at Cartagena was marked by silence on the part of the thousands of people gathered in the streets. There was neither applause nor outcry. King Alfonso boarded a small boat to be taken to the waiting Principe Alfonso. To the cry, "Long Live the King," which came from the various officials congregated at the waterfront, Alfonso responded with the customary, "Long Live Spain." Dawn was just breaking.

The King remained on the deck of the cruiser as long as he could see land. During the 25-hour voyage he conversed with the commander and officers of the vessel and with Admiral Rivera, his last Minister of Navy.

As the King set his foot on foreign soil his self-control which had carried him apparently unmoved through the terrible events of the past three days gave way and the tears streamed unchecked down his cheeks. Recovering himself, he turned to Admiral Rivera and said:

"Pardon me, Admiral, but the thing which I loved most in the world is the country which I have just abandoned."

•The text of the manifesto issued by Alfonso is as follows:

"The elections held on Sunday revealed clearly to me that I have lost today the love of my people. My conscience tells me that this disaffection will not be definite, because I have always served Spain. My only aim even in the most critical circumstances was public interest. A King can make mistakes and without doubt I have erred myself sometimes, but I well know that our country has always shown itself generous towards unmalicious faults.

"I am King of all Spaniards and I am Spanish myself. I could have employed divers means to keep the royal perogatives and effectively fight my adversaries, but I wish to avoid everything that might throw my compatriots into fratracidal civil war.

"I renounce none of my rights because, more than my own, they are the depot accumulated by history and I shall have to answer for their preservation.

"I await the truthful expression of the collective opinion and while waiting for the nation to speak I deliberately suspend the exercise of royal perogative and take myself from Spain, knowing thus that she is the sole mistress of her destiny.

"Today again I believe that I am accomplishing the duties dictated to me by the love of my country. I demand of God that other Spaniards understand their duty as profoundly as I."

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Congressman Karch Calls for an Immediate Special Session of Congress.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE industrial depression has reached such proportions throughout the United States that immediate and drastic measures must be taken to meet the situation.

Although those high in industry and finance are daily spreading optimistic propaganda, there is no authority that there will be any appreciable revival of business in time to obviate the extraordinary impending distress which will come upon us next winter.

The resources of private charity are exhausted. Unemployment is actually on the increase, and nothing short of a sudden and miraculous turn toward industrial activity will save the nation from a siege of hardships and famine unparalleled in the history of this country. Ominous unrest is beginning to manifest itself in the large centers.

I view the immediate future with great alarm. Fourteen million of our population are directly affected. A large percentage of these have subsisted on meager rations for almost two years. Undernourishment and physical hardships are beginning to take their toll, and, unless emergency relief is immediately forthcoming, we will have to combat pestilence with famine.

In my judgment, nothing but a special session of Congress, immediately called, will avert this imminent disaster.

We should heed the warning sounded by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, in a recent address, that unless the poor are promptly restored to their rights to work for a living it may be too late to stem the tide of discontent and disorder, and political and economic upheaval.

I propose to start work at once upon a new large scale Federal project plan, of such magnitude as to employ all of the idle workmen. We finally have to come to it, and humanity demands that we do it now.

The best minds of the country that have given the problem any study are proposing this very plan, and are advocating it as a permanent policy of the nation under the term of "flexible public works program."

William R. Hearst recommended it in a recent radio address. Dean Wallace B. Donham of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration offers the same solution. The idea was probably originated by the Emergency Committee of the Federal Public Works, which recommended a bond issue of $1,000,000,000 to further such a program.

I call upon the heads of organized labor of the country to lead off in this movement and apprise the President of the true state of affairs—of which he seems to be uninformed, if not unmindful.

I call upon the ex-service men of the nation, who represent its dominant public opinion, and are daily brought in contact with the true situation. They could easily induce the President to call an extra session if they chose to do so by speaking through their various organizations in every section of the land.

Political expediency must be laid aside in this hour of national calamity. It is not a question whether the President or the members of Congress themselves desire a special session. The crisis demands action.

The first remedial measure which should be enacted at a special session of Congress is the legalizing of beer as a beverage—thereby opening the breweries. This would put at least 1,000,000 men to work immediately. The impetus to general business would be instantaneous and of such force as to automatically start up related industries.

It is estimated that $1,000,000,000 in revenue could be raised annually by excise taxes.

Education and the Indian.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

SECRETARY OF WAR HURLEY has declared the Government and the Christian religion have failed the Indian because they have not taught him the value of property, along with "our Christianity, our manual of arms and our code of ethics."

The Secretary makes his criticism with peculiar fitness. He was the only white member of his graduating class at Bacone College, Muskogee, Ok., and it was in a commencement address at his alma mater that he voiced his views.

There is evidence on every hand that the Indian does not have a sense of values. Jackson Barnett and his million dollars form just one example of the incapacity of the race in financial matters. The Federal Courts in Indian states are full of such controversies. There is no doubt that the white man is largely to blame for this condition—originally, at least, with deliberate intent. From the sale of Manhattan Island to the current disputes over oil holdings, the white man has a black record of "bargains" struck with the red man.

Secretary Hurley has struck a sound note. The Indian, through the guidance of the white man's Government, must be taught how to be self-sustaining before he can successfully discharge the duties of citizenship.

UNCLE SAM AND THE RAILROADS.

It has taken the country some time to realize the plight of the railroads, as it has taken the railroads themselves some time to realize that their heyday ended with the coming of highways for vehicular traffic.

Joseph B. Eastman, 12 years a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, thinks the Government will have to assume responsibility for the railroads. That is, the country cannot do without them, and it becomes more and more difficult for them to live as the states and the Government co-operate in the construction of pavements over which automotive transportation plays havoc with the business of the railroads. Mr. Eastman says the idea of the Government in business does not alarm him if the business is of such a nature that it cannot be carried on by private enterprise with due protection to all concerned. He proposes than the transportation services of the country be conducted by a public trust controlled by the Government. He thinks that if the same amount of ingenuity were devoted to transportation as has been devoted to the creation of great holding companies in power and other profitable industries, it would be quite possible to evolve a plan of complete Government responsibility for transportation which would retain most of the merits of private initiative.

It is doubtful if the plan of the Eastern railroads to ask for higher freight rates upon goods in which they have a transportation monopoly is practicable. The condition of the country is not such as to warrant belief that it would be willing to go to the relief of the railroads by paying higher freight rates on commodities the prices of which are not now low enough to accelerate consumption. Nor is it generally believed that either the Government or the states can do very much to protect the railroads from competition upon the vehicular highways. The railroads themselves supplanted other forms of transportation because they were an advance upon their predecessors. Transportation upon the vehicular highways is in many respects an advance over railroad transportation. Its greater facility is as much emphasised in local freights as it is in the local passenger traffic represented by the individual automobile. The individual now transports himself from his home to any nearby destination whenever he pleases and at vastly greater pleasure than derived from riding upon a train. It is for this reason that 34 per cent of the traffic in the city of St. Louis is now by private automobile, a defection which has left the street car no better off than the railroads.

Mr. Eastman does not propose that the Government shall own the railroads. Probably some railroad executives themselves are convinced that the time will come when the country will face the alternative of owning the railroads or doing without them. Mr. Eastman proposes a possible means of preventing Government ownership. He would have the Government preside over a giant railroad trust, which would by elimination of unnecessary competition attempt to bring the railroads back to a profitable place in the whole web of transportation. One of the suggestions of ways in which this may be done is to consolidate in a single pattern all forms of transportation, whether on land or water, and operate them through composite freight and passenger stations. Mr. Eastman is among those supporting this plan. The idea widely prevails that the era of duplication in railroading is over. Where many competing lines at one time thrived, each having its own yards and its own depots, a single unit alone can hope to survive in the new transportation.

The Government first exercised control over the railroads in 1887, when the Interstate Commerce Commission was created. Theoretically it now allows the railroads to earn 5 3-4 per cent on their valuation. Actually, earnings last year averaged only 3½ per cent. Only a few of the strongest lines are able to earn their dividends; many are able only to make both ends meet; a formidable number seem to be headed for bankruptcy. The railroad industry, says the Nation, is in chaos, and if that is so, the time has passed for taking fright at the thought of intercession by the Government. Call it what we will, the Government's responsibility to the country requires that the railroads continue to function. The Government itself has contributed greatly to their discomfiture by joining with the states in building the vehicular highways. It, of course, had no more thought when it did this of embarrassing the railroads than it had of embarrassing the steamboats when it made liberal grants to railroad construction. It is the sort of thing that results from human progress. The inventions of men are as ruthless as the earthquakes which continue to shake this cooling sphere.

EXHIBIT A.

Now that the Supreme Court has said the last word on ex-Secretary Fall's conviction for bribery, it only remains to be pointed out that this case is a spectacular exhibit of the delay to which our criminal jurisprudence lends itself. Fall was indicted in June, 1924, and during seven years he has invoked every legal technicality to save himself from punishment for his crime. It is the almost universal testimony of students of criminal law that delay palsies the arm of justice. The tactics of Fall and his attorneys should give impetus to the movement to revise our procedure to the end that punishment shall swiftly follow crime.

SOMETHING IN A NAME.

The Census Bureau's 90-page booklet of statistics on marriage and divorce, just issued, contains yards, even miles, of figures that might be drawn upon to prove many things about matrimony and incompatibility. Also, though doubtless unconsciously, it offers ample tabulations to show that, despite Shakspeare's argument to the contrary, there is something in a name after all. In a table of counties having unusually high marriage rates there appears, with singular appropriateness, Love County, Ok. That affectionately named domain had 98.5 weddings per 1000 population in 1929, while the entire State could show only 15.1. Then there is Union County, and it did the expected—turned in a matrimonial rate four times that of South Dakota's figure. And there is more than mere coincidence in the fact that Orange County, with its fragrant connotation of ceremonial blossoms, led California in ratio of knots tied. Just to toss in the exception that proves the rule, the list also includes Quitman County. Instead of rivaling Reno as a mecca for weary wives, matchmaking old Quitman was Georgia's best exhibit.

Of course, there will be burrowing literalists to point out that all these counties border on states that have strict marriage laws, and thus create a demand for nearby sanctuaries of the Gretna Green variety. Nevertheless, we contend that Cupid makes these districts his headquarters because their names just suit his business.

FASCISM AND THE VATICAN.

The present crisis between Mussolini and the Vatican was precipitated by the Premier when he ordered the dissolution and suppression of all political organizations not affiliated with the Fascist party. Pursuant to this order, the organization known as Catholic Action was dissolved by Fascist authorities, although the Vatican claims Catholic Action's purposes are religious and social, not political. It contends that the Fascist step is a violation of Article 43 of the Concordat, signed two years ago, in which Italy recognized Catholic Action as an organization "under the immediate direction of the hierarchy of the church for diffusion and propaganda of Catholic principles." Mussolini, on the other hand, charges that Catholic Action has been used to foster anti-Fascism.

It has always been difficult to believe that the settlement in February, 1929, of the 49-year-old dispute between Italy and the church would be a permanent one. Mussolini was obviously eager, for political reasons, to conciliate the Vatican and to dispose of the "Roman question," which he declared to be "a thorn in the side of the nation." To this end, he agreed to the establishment of a Vatican State, granting to the Pope a degree of territorial sovereignty, declared the Roman Catholic religion to be the sole religion in the State and extended religious instruction from the elementary schools to the secondary schools, besides making other concessions. Never, however, did Mussolini lose sight of his aim to use the church to strengthen and consolidate Fascism.

Soon after the Lateran accord, Mussolini proceeded to make it clear that the State and not the church was supreme in Italy. To those, for example, who looked upon the establishment of the City of the Vatican as a restoration of the Pope's temporal power, the Premier said: "We have not resurrected the temporal power of the Popes; we have buried it. * * * No territory passes to the City of the Vatican which it did not already possess and which no force in the world and no revolution would have wrested from it." Despite his concessions to the Pope as to religious instruction, Mussolini said the State cannot and will not surrender the education of the young to the church. "In this sphere," were his words, "we are intractable. Education must be ours."

These and other constructions placed upon the Lateran accord weakened the already delicate fabric between Italy and the Vatican, which Fascist theorists had always contended was a purely artificial contrivance. The Fascist conception of the State is an all-inclusive organization, established for the benefit, not of individuals, singly or in groups, but for its own ends. It is difficult to fit into this picture the church's theory of its universality. Giovanni Gentile, known as the official philosopher of Fascism, has said that the Fascist State and the universal church are incompatible; the one excludes the other.

The rift was widened by the visit of Litvinoff, Soviet emissary, to Rome, where he concluded a political alliance with Italy. The Vatican resented this pact with the Soviet, because of the latter's anti-religious position. Soon after Litvinoff left, the Vatican pointedly held a "Russian day," in which a mass was held for persecuted Christians in Russia. Meanwhile, Osservatore Romano, the Vatican organ, opened an intensive campaign against Moscow. Various attempts were made by Mussolini to smooth over the Vatican's disaffection, but they were repulsed. The Premier then turned about-face and inaugurated a series of moves calculated to antagonize the Vatican, culminating in the suppression of the Catholic Action.

Whether the present crisis can be settled with satisfaction both to church and State remains to be seen. But the fundamental clash between the philosophies of Fascism and the church persists as a powder fuse likely to be ignited at any time.

JUNE: AFTER TWO YEARS' ABSENCE.

This time last year seeds lay unsprouted in the ground. Stunted plants wilted, scorched and dried up. The worst drouth in the country's history had set in. By way of contrast, look at the countryside any evening now. Waving in gusts of gentle wind, the waist-high wheat tells the whole story. Farmers say they never saw it looking better. In no time the green bearded heads will be changing through olive and yellow to gold and the whir of the reaper making music across the stubble. For the corn, hay and gardens, the rains have done as much. In the pasture, fattening cattle swim in tall grass, the entire world from the top of the hill to the zig-zag creek below, theirs to choose from. Cherry trees, yellow last week, are reddening in the sun, and in the peach orchards boys climb about thinning the burdened boughs. Roses break through the picket fence; long-stemmed daisies nod to the wayfarer. Here and there at sunset a patch of mown meadow yields a promise of the country air's summer fragrance. Walk the paths of June, or if you must, drive its paved highways, but greet it in the open. There was no June last year.

ANOTHER UNEMPLOYMENT PROBLEM.

Money, like labor, is suffering from unemployment. With the New York Federal Reserve Bank's rediscount rate at the lowest level it has ever reached, 1½ per cent, interest rates on all types of credit are following suit. Thus St. Louis banks, following the example of New York and Chicago, have reduced the interest rates on demand deposits from 1 per cent to ½ of 1 per cent. If they did not do so, St. Louis would suffer from an influx of funds for which local bankers have no use.

While no change has yet been made in interest rates on savings bank deposits or on time deposits of six months or more, the rates on commercial paper are so low that, as Richard S. Hawes pointed out the other day, the banks are in some instances paying out more for deposits than they receive on loans. It is obvious that this paradoxical situation cannot continue for any length of time. Unless there is a greater demand for money in the near future, we may expect to see a downward revision of rates on savings bank deposits.

It has been the theory of the Federal Reserve Board that easy money rates would tend to restore prosperity; hence the successive reductions of rediscount rates from the high point of 6 per cent, reached shortly before the stock market crashed in 1929. Up to the present, however, low interest rates have failed to constitute a magic formula.

Senatorial Politics in Nebraska

Pulitzer prize award to Nebraska editor, in writer's opinion, created confusion as to political sentiment in that State; Nebraskans are predominantly progressive and hold Norris in high regard; ex-Senator Hitchcock entered race to prevent disintegration of Democratic party, but his candidacy was damaged by Republican Old Guard's proffer of support, resulting in Norris' victory.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

SINCE the assignment of the Pulitzer prize to Charles S. Ryckman of the Fremont Tribune for his editorial, "The Gentleman from Nebraska," there appears to be considerable confusion of opinion in the minds of our countrymen of sister states concerning the political status of Nebraska. We of Nebraska, of course, can understand the situation, and we have no regrets to offer for the outcome of the past senatorial contests, either in the Republican primary or at the general election. Neither have we any apologies to make for our senior Senator, the Hon. George W. Norris, who was elected by a majority of 75,000 votes.

Senator Norris needs no eulogy or introduction to conscientious progressive statesmen in either the Republican or the Democratic party. He is known throughout our country as a true and courageous leader of those progressive forces now being concentrated against that financial greed which has pauperized the masses of our citizenry and brought our nation to its present deplorable condition. However, since Charles S. Ryckman, in representing those forces, so decisively defeated in Nebraska at the last election, attempts to mislead our countrymen as to the reason for the Old Guard defeat, and since the jury of awards has so willingly supplied its support in giving notoriety to such indefensible slander of Nebraska people, a review of the political complexion of that senatorial contest would seem to be in order.

The political views of the Nebraska people are predominantly progressive. Within the Democratic party those progressive proclivities are practically unanimous, while within the Republican party the forces are more evenly divided between the progressives representative of the natural economic policies of our State and the reactionaries influenced through Eastern capitalist interests. At the time of Senator Norris' announcement in December, 1929, that he would file for re-election on the Republican ticket, politics in Nebraska were in a very precarious condition. The Democratic party, due to internal strife over prohibition and religious views, culminating in the overwhelming majority given Hoover, was disorganized and apparently without the power of rejuvenation. Within the Republican party the reactionary forces, presumably strengthened by the Old Guard and the administration at Washington, were making a most determined fight to unseat Norris.

During previous campaigns, by virtue of the high regard in which Senator Norris was held by his constituents, the Senator had been able to defeat this element; but in this campaign the strength of those reactionaries had been enhanced through the Senator's bolt from the Republican ranks in his support of Gov. Smith. What, then, were Democrats to do about the situation?

The Democratic party was too weak to elect a Democratic Senator, even though we might find a candidate of Senator Norris' caliber. Should we stand by and watch from the side lines while the Republican party replaced Senator Norris by a reactionary Republican, who would go to Washington and fight against the coalition and for interests detrimental to our welfare?

The writer, a life-long Democrat, viewing the situation from this standpoint, published a couple of articles in the Omaha World-Herald advising Democrats to go into the Republican primary and thereby make sure that Reedism and Grundyism was forced from Nebraska politics. Following the publication of these articles ex-Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock, owner of the World-Herald and a stanch Democrat, fearing the disintegration of his party, for which he had labored during a lifetime and held so much at heart, came out from political retirement and filed for Senator on the Democratic ticket. There was no question of Senator Hitchcock's nomination. He was at that time, as at the present, held in high esteem by all honest and thoughtful people throughout our State.

Politics then naturally turned to the battleground of the Republican primary, where the progressives and reactionaries were waging a terrific war. The reactionaries, however, in allowing their forces to be led by the old guard, which stooped to dishonorable and damnable methods in a desperate effort to hold the lines, soon gave way to a routing defeat.

All thoughtful citizens of Nebraska have a most profound respect for Senator Norris. Some Democrats may feel he should affiliate with the Democratic party, but Senator Norris' idea has been to purify his own party and reinculcate into that party the moral philosophies of Washington and Lincoln. As was clearly foreseen, Senator Norris was nominated by an overwhelming majority, many Democrats scaling the political fences while not realizing their votes were not needed.

In the Nebraska primaries the citizens are entitled to congratulations for having exhibited a most keen intuition and sense of duty in nominating two of the greatest statesmen Nebraska has ever produced—Senator George W. Norris and ex-Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock. During the early stages of the general election, the general consensus of opinion was that it didn't matter which was elected. However, as the campaign progressed Senator Hitchcock was very unfortunate in having the discredited and defeated elements of the Old Guard Republicans proffer their support. This support was proffered apparently without any invitation, but nevertheless it caused many of the rank and file of the voters to become suspicious of Senator Hitchcock's leadership. This accounts in a large measure for the overwhelming majority given to Senator Norris.

The people of Nebraska are becoming very proficient in familiarizing themselves in the character and policies of the candidates for whom they vote. They are proud of Senator Norris, for they know when they send him to Washington he will not barter away their birthright. If the forces of greed are so strongly entrenched at Washington as to make it impossible for him to secure the passage of outstanding legislation there, then he can at least console himself in having converted the Old Guard Republicans of Nebraska into a people without a party.

DOUBLE-BARRELED MYSTERY.

From the Edwardsville (Ill.) Intelligencer.

BLUE and white ribbons on poles about the business district have created a double-barreled mystery. How did they get there and what is their significance? Two explanations have been offered. One is that Collinsville High School students slipped up during the night and tied up their colors, to rub it in about their victory over Edwardsville on the athletic field. Another explanation is that the colors are those of the Royal Neighbor Lodge and were placed in honor of a convention of the order being held here. If the latter is true, the labor of the good ladies was in vain. Edwardsville High School students have taken great pains to see that all the colors have come down.

SAYS CITY COULD BE SUED IF IT QUIT LINDELL PROJECT

CRITICISES NOLTE FOR PROPOSING I

Exceptions to Lates Awards in Bottlenec Condemnation Action t Be Heard This Week.

Dismissal of the city's condemnation suit for eliminating the Lindell boulevard trafic bottleneck, as suggested by Comptroller Nolte, would give the persons whose property would have been taken grounds for damage suits against the city, Circuit Judge Hall said yesterday.

He said the claim would be possible on the plea that the long delay over the case had tied up the property. Complaint has been made that some of the property owners were unable to obtain proper rentals for their holdings because of the uncertainty, and some could not erect new buildings or improve old ones, because they did not know where the building line would be finally established.

Suit Begun in 1918.

The condemnation suit for widening the two blocks of Lindell between Grand boulevard and Channing avenue, was instituted by the city in 1918. Two condemnation commissions appointed by the Circuit Court failed to get as far as a final report on damages and benefits. The city filed exceptions to the report of a third commission, contending that its work had been slipshod. Recently the fourth commission, appointed to reconsider the damage awards to which the city objected, made a report fixing damages which the city held to be grossly excessive. The city filed new exceptions and Judge Hall, before whom the suit is pending, has fixed next Thursday and Friday to hear them.

Last Friday, Comptroller Nolte recommended, in a statement, that the suit be dismissed as tacit notice to property owners throughout the city that excessive damages would not be paid for land for public improvements. He thought the effect might be to induce the owners of property on the Lindell bottleneck to accept prices considered reasonable by the city.

Opposed to Dismissal.

Judge Hall said he was opposed to dismissal of the suit and declared he would try the new exceptions on their merits, without prejudice. Neither the Comptroller nor the Judge could order the dismissal. Suits are brought for the city by the City Counselor. It is not likely the Counselor would dismiss such a proceeding as the Lindell case without direction from the Mayor, or possibly from the Board of Estimate and Apportionmen, composed of the Mayor, Comptroller and president of the Board of Aldermen.

Recently Mayor Miller told the City Counselor not to appeal from the findings of the fourth commission, but to pay the damages and proceed with the work. However, on further consideration he agreed to the new exceptions.

In answer to the inquiry why owners desiring to improve property on the Lindell bottleneck did not adopt the proposed new building line, Judge Hall said the fear that the suit might be dropped interfered with this. If a building were erected on the new line and that line were not adopted, a vacant space would remain between the building and the present sidewalk.

Criticizes Comptroller.

Judge Hall characterized Nolte's proposal as "small town stuff," adding that no other city in the world of St. Louis' size permits delays in public improvements such as occur here.

"I think the Comptroller's statement," the Judge said, "was ill-advised and should not have been made by a public official in a matter of this kind. How does he or anyone else know that the city experts were correct in their appraisals? I suppose if they were dealing with their own property their views might be different. I heard some of the witnesses before the last commission was appointed and also heard experts of experience testify on the opposite side. Maybe if the public knew what the testimony was it would have a different notion of the case. Some of the theories of the city experts were contrary to the laws in all of the 48 states."

SAYS CITY COULD BE SUED IF IT QUIT LINDELL PROJECT

CRITICISES NOLTE FOR PROPOSING IT

Exceptions to Latest Awards in Bottleneck Condemnation Action to Be Heard This Week.

Dismissal of the city's condemnation suit for eliminating the Lindell boulevard trafic bottleneck, as suggested by Comptroller Nolte, would give the persons whose property would have been taken grounds for damage suits against the city, Circuit Judge Hall said yesterday.

He said the claim would be possible on the plea that the long delay over the case had tied up the property. Complaint has been made that some of the property owners were unable to obtain proper rentals for their holdings because of the uncertainty, and some could not erect new buildings or improve old ones, because they did not know where the building line would be finally established.

Suit Begun in 1918.

The condemnation suit for widening the two blocks of Lindell between Grand boulevard and Channing avenue, was instituted by the city in 1918. Two condemnation commissions appointed by the Circuit Court failed to get as far as a final report on damages and benefits. The city filed exceptions to the report of a third commission, contending that its work had been slipshod. Recently the fourth commission, appointed to reconsider the damage awards to which the city objected, made a report fixing damages which the city held to be grossly excessive. The city filed new exceptions and Judge Hall, before whom the suit is pending, has fixed next Thursday and Friday to hear them.

Last Friday, Comptroller Nolte recommended, in a statement, that the suit be dismissed as tacit notice to property owners throughout the city that excessive damages would not be paid for land for public improvements. He thought the effect might be to induce the owners of property on the Lindell bottleneck to accept prices considered reasonable by the city.

Opposed to Dismissal.

Judge Hall said he was opposed to dismissal of the suit and declared he would try the new exceptions on their merits, without prejudice. Neither the Comptroller nor the Judge could order the dismissal. Suits are brought for the city by the City Counselor. It is not likely the Counselor would dismiss such a proceeding as the Lindell case without direction from the Mayor, or possibly from the Board of Estimate and Apportionmen, composed of the Mayor, Comptroller and president of the Board of Aldermen.

Recently Mayor Miller told the City Counselor not to appeal from the findings of the fourth commission, but to pay the damages and proceed with the work. However, on further consideration he agreed to the new exceptions.

In answer to the inquiry why owners desiring to improve property on the Lindell bottleneck did not adopt the proposed new building line, Judge Hall said the fear that the suit might be dropped interfered with this. If a building were erected on the new line and that line were not adopted, a vacant space would remain between the building and the present sidewalk.

Criticizes Comptroller.

Judge Hall characterized Nolte's proposal as "small town stuff," adding that no other city in the world of St. Louis' size permits delays in public improvements such as occur here.

"I think the Comptroller's statement," the Judge said, "was ill-advised and should not have been made by a public official in a matter of this kind. How does he or anyone else know that the city experts were correct in their appraisals? I suppose if they were dealing with their own property their views might be different. I heard some of the witnesses before the last commission was appointed and also heard experts of experience testify on the opposite side. Maybe if the public knew what the testimony was it would have a different notion of the case. Some of the theories of the city experts were contrary to the laws in all of the 48 states."

FOR EASTERN RAIL MERGERS

Boston Commerce Chamber Approves Two Trunk Line Systems.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, June 6.—The Boston Chamber of Commerce directors today announced that the governing board of the Maritime Association of the chamber had reported in favor of penetration of New England by railroad trunk lines.

The Maritime Board would allow the Chesapeake & Ohio-Nickel Plate system (Van Sweringen) to take over the Boston & Maine Railroad and the Pennsylvania Railroad to assume control of the New Haven road.

Suggests Indirect Control of Railroads By Government

case, the existing corporation, previously under private control, was used in carrying out the plan. It was peculiarly fitted for the purpose, for all of its securities had been issued under public supersion and there was no inflation in its capitalization. In the case of many utilities, no doubt the existing corporation could be used, the Government merely condemning or otherwise acquiring its stock. But in all such instances I should recommend a reframing of the company's charter along the lines I have indicated.

A thought which I believe to be sound is that the more important the utility is from the community point of view, the more likelihood there is that it can be safely entrusted to direct public control, particularly if a plan such as I have suggested is followed. A small, obscure operation is much more apt to fall a prey to mismanagement than one which is in the direct path of the limelight and plays a vital part in community life and prosperity. It would be difficult for a Government long to survive a corrupt and inefficient management of such a utility.

Let me say also, and in conclusion, that if such a public undertaking can be protected, as I believe it can be, from continual petty and political interference, and its management given a degree of autonomy somewhat comparable to that existing in private undertakings, I am confident that no difficulty will be experienced in obtaining the services of men of the highest ability and character. Canada had no difficulty in obtaining the services of Sir Henry Thornton, one of the outstanding railroad men of England and, prior to that time, one of the outstanding railroad men of the United States.

The present chairman of the board of public trustees of the Boston Elevated Railway is Henry I. Harriman, who has twice been president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce and has a distinguished record in the public utility field. He is now serving the Commonwealth of Massachusetts as loyally as he formerly served private interests. At the present time few, if any, of the great executives of the country own or even control the properties which they manage. They all serve somebody and, if given a fair chance, I believe that many of them would actually prefer to serve their country or their State or their city to serving purely private interests and profit.

LAURENCE J. LINES DIES

Member of Post-Dispatch Advertising Staff Succumbs After Operation.

Laurence J. Lines, manager of special advertising campaigns for the Post-Dispatch, died suddenly at Rochester, Minn., Friday morning while preparing to return to St. Louis following an abdominal operation at Mayo Clinic. Death apparently was due to a heart attack. Mr. Lines, who was 33 years old, and resided at 4234 Lafayette avenue, underwent an operation three weeks ago and had been discharged from the hospital. He was at a Rochester hotel with his wife, Mrs. Marjorie Gatz Lines, when he was stricken.

He formerly was athletic director of the Detroit, Mich., Recreation Commission. He had been with the Post-Dispatch two years. In addition to the widow four children, Helen, Kathleen, Laurence and Robert, survive. Burial will be at Detroit, Mr. Lines' former home.

48 SCULPTURES BY CARL MILLES AT CITY MUSEUM

First Major Exhibition in America of Works of Noted Swedish Artist Opens in Forest Park.

The first major exhibition in America of the works of Carl Milles, noted Swedish sculptor, and the second largest show of his statuary ever held, opened yesterday at City Art Museum in Forest Park, where 48 Milles pieces are on display.

Occupying all of one of the larger galleries and a seperate room for photographs, with some pieces placed in the main hall, the collection represents one of the major exhibits at the museum in recent years.

The sculptor himself. some of whose work was exhibited at the Modern Arts Festival of the League of Women Voters in April, was here last week and helped to install the exhibit. He will return during the continuance of the show through the summer from Detroit, where he is resident sculptor at the $15,000,000 Cranbrook Academy of Art. Thirty-five of the works are from his personal collection and are taken from the garden of his villa on an island in the harbor at Stockholm.

All Kinds of Treatment.

Specimens of every kind of treatment by the artist, in bronze, in granite and marble, and in wood are shown. Many are original works or replicas of originals in Sweden and others are sketches for works completed or for proposed memorials.

Towering in Sculpture Hall is the equestrian figure of "Folke Filbyter," legendary king of Sweden, and founder of the Folkunga dynasty. In the piece, the original of which is at the celebrated Folkunga fountain at Linkoping, Sweden, Milles has depicted the near-sighted old man crossing a river in search of his lost grandson, who, according to legend, was stolen by monks. The piece is of green bronze and is reproduced in sketches and miniature in the main exhibition.

The effectiveness is greatly increased by a display in another gallery of photographs of the entire fountain in action at Linkoping. Among the photographs are pictures of Milles' other fountain pieces in original settings at his villa and at other places in Sweden.

Another Fountain Piece.

"The Triton Urn," a bronze fountain piece covered with a black patina, also in Sculpture Hall, came from the garden and was brought to America especially for this show. Four other Tritons of heroic size are copied from garden pieces. In the center of the gallery, they are figures of extraordinary virility and robustness in somewhat modern treatment. The particular replicas here are to go to the Art Institute of Chicago permanently as the gift of Swedish residents of that city.

Some figures, as "Dancing Girls" and "Diana," represent Milles' closest approach to classical treatment and recall the period of his early life when he was a student of Rodin and much under the influence of the French master.

Milles' style ranges through various types of academic treatment. In contrast are two interpretations of the classic myth of Europa and the Bull, one a finely drawn bronze from the fountain at Halmstad, Sweden, and the other an almost humorous drawing of the woman and the bull, broadly realistic and with more than a suggestion of Mayan or Oriental art.

Influence of Renaissance.

In the woodcuts of Emanuel Swedenborg, Milles' style shows the influence of Renaissance artists with a strong Gothic effect. Two of the Swedenborg figures are sketches for a proposed monument in London. "No living sculptor combines so much personal style with so great a variety of treatment," Stanley Casson, noted English critic, wrote of Milles in a book on sculpture recently.

Other works in the exhibit demonstrate Milles' feeling for mass effect and his use of highly conventionalized modern design. Six marine fragments from the Poseidon Fountain at Gothenburg are grouped together, but can best be understood by viewing photographs of them first in their original settings.

The Milles exhibit was brought to the United States through the sole initiative of the Art Museum here, and after the summer will go to Detroit, Toledo and other cities. Milles, who is 56 years old, is regarded by many critics as one of the world's two or three outstanding sculptors. Incidentally, there are 15 tons of his work here.

DROPS CAMPAIGN FOR BONDS FOR NEW COUNTY COURTHOUSE

Committee on $15,000,000 Issue Proposal Thinks Present Is Not Propitious Time.

The St. Louis County Courthouse Bond Issue Campaign Committee has dropped its proposal to have submitted to the county voters next month a $1,500,000 bond issue for a new courthouse and jail at Clayton.

It feels that the time is not propitious for a bond issue, although it has found a general sentiment that the old courthouse and jail should be replaced.

An office opened by the committee on May 16 at 5 South Meramec avenue, Clayton, will be closed, but the committee intends to keep its organization intact, to revive the proposal at some time in the future. William O. Reeder, chairman of the committee, and Clarman of the trustees of Deer Creek, is chairman of the committee, and Clarence L. Wolff is secretary. Both are lawyers.

Marine Memorial Service.

INDICTMENTS EXPECTED IN GRAND BANK CASE

Prosecutor Miller Says New Grand Jury Investigation Concerns Actual Robbery.

Circuit Attorney Miller expects one or two indictments to result from a new grand jury investigation of the million-dollar burglary of the Grand National Bank, which will start Tuesday.

The inquiry will concern the actual robbery rather than the mysterious return of $822,000 of stolen bonds, the Circuit Attorney said. yesterday, and any indictments which are voted by the June term grand jury will concern this primary phase of the case.

The forthcoming investigation follows a police raid on the safe deposit box of Henry W. Bostleman in the First National Bank of Webster Groves. Bostleman, a former convict and principal suspect in the Grand National robbery, is in a Denver hospital recovering from a bullet wound suffered May 10, when he was caught with two companions in the act of a department store burglary which was similar in execution to the Grand National robbery.

The men arrested with Bostleman, Van A. Miller and "Cocky" Leonard, are suspected by the St. Louis police of having participated in the Grand National burglary. The bank robbers, according to the police theory, were led by Bostleman. Six weeks after the Grand Bank robbery, Bostleman was arrested at the Hamilton State Bank when he attempted to deposit gold coins and currency which Grand National employes identified as having been stolen from their institution. Subsequently, he was released.

Commenting on a newspaper publication that the Government is making an investigation of the distribution of $140,000 reward paid by the bank for the return of the stolen bonds, Collector of Internal Revenue Becker told the Post-Dispatch that no such inquiry is under way. He said the situation remains the same as when State Representative Joseph L. Lemon returned the bonds last January. At that time Becker stated that Lemon's income-tax return, when filed next March, would be scrutinized carefully and an inquiry made if circumstances warranted.

New England Society Election.

At the annual meeting of the New England Society of St. Louis the following were elected as officers: Circuit Judge Albert D. Nortoni, president; Harold McMillan Bixby, John Rush Powell and Charles F. Bates, vice presidents; J. P. Crowley, secretary and treasurer, and Edward Weston Collins and W. M. Penniman, members of the executive committee. Judge Nortoni succeeds Prof. Isaac Lippincott of Washington University. The society set Dec. 21 as the date of its annual Pilgrims' day celebration and dinner.

OPEN AIR SCHOOL PUPILS DISMISSED

Only Two of 431 Recommended for Readmission; Health of Others Improved.

Only two of 431 chilren who have attended the Taussig Open-Air School have been recommended for readmission, the others having been benefited to an extent which makes attendance there no longer necessary, according to the report of Dr. J. H. Humphrey, supervisor of public health of the Board of Education.

Special attention has been given recently to children who have been exposed to tuberculosis, 78 of the 186 students enrolled this year having been in contact with tubercular persons. Tuberculin tests were given and the only active case was removed to Koch Hospital.

Two open-air schools are provided for white children and one for Negro children who need to continue their studies in the open air. Car fare is provided for them and when they are unable to pay for proper food—an important item in tuberculosis prevention—funds are provided by the Tuberculosis Society. A two-weeks' outing for 50 students is provided by the society at the conclusion of the six-weeks' summer school term.

City clinics provide a means of correcting physical deficiencies of the children. Last year two major and 44 minor operations were performed. Dental work was done for 134 children and 11 were provided with glasses.

OFFICIALS AND CIVIC GROUPS TO CONFER ON ALOE PLAZA

Acting Mayor Neun Trying to Obtain Agreement on Some Simple Plan.

Public officials, citizen advisory bodies and representatives of civic interests will meet Wednesday morning at Acting Mayor Neun's office at City Hall to discuss plans for development of Aloe Plaza, opposite Union Station.

Neun wants an agreement on a simple, attractive plan that would not be costly or interfere with future comprehensive treatment, but would prevent the place from becoming an eyesore.

President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service, who recommended a $200,000 plan for the plaza, which included a pavilion and automobile parking spaces, which have been criticised; the City Plan Commission, which proposed a $1,200,000 plan five years ago; Comptroller Nolte; Alderman Kuhs, an acting member of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment; Chairman Neumann of the aldermanic Ways and Means Committee, where the plaza appropriation is pending; the Municipal Art Commission; the Citizens' Bond Issue Supervisory Committee and the General Council on Civic Needs were invited.

Removal of the old buildings on the two-block site is being completed, except for one small lot not yet acquired.

The Cost of Retailing Money

THOSE who know that 80% of the nation's population cannot borrow from banks do not question the economic need for small loan companies. Without them, the majority of families in times of financial stress would have nowhere to turn for funds to pay their bills and buy the current necessities of life.

▼ It is the great and widespread importance of small loans which merited the consideration of the Russell Sage Foundation on the question: "What should they cost?"

▼ This philanthropic institution answered with a Uniform Small Loan Law which provided for a fair maximum rate on loans up to $300. Twenty-five states have adopted this law, most of them with little or no revisions.

▼ To those who do not realize that the bank rate is a "wholesale" rate, charged usually on large loans to finance industry and commerce, this small loan rate may seem high. Upon deeper thought, it cannot be compared with bank interest. It is a "retail" price to the consumer, to pay the cost of supplying money in "broken lots."

▼ A $20,000 loan may be made on good security by a bank at one rate of interest. The same amount of money loaned to 200 different people in amounts of $100 each would cost the lender much more.

▼ No one would expect to buy a basket of coal at carload prices. Loaning money in amounts under $300 is a retail business dealing in cash.

▼ No law restricts the retailer of goods on the profit he may charge. If a merchant in food or furniture determines his selling price by adding 50% to 100% to his wholesale cost, to pay operation costs and profit, that's his business.

▼ Yet the laws of Missouri restrict the money retailer's gross profit to 2½% a month. He may not deduct his interest in advance as banks do. He may not impose fines or extra charges for anything. His is the only business where every item of cost is clear to the customer, where there are no hidden charges.

▼ America's foremost family finance organization, Household, operates in full accordance with both letter and spirit of the Missouri small loan laws. Every stringent requirement is met. And in other states, where a higher maximum charge is allowed by law, Household has voluntarily reduced its rate nearly one-third, on amounts above $100 up to $300.

▼ Competition and not legislation may be depended upon for a further reduction in rates, when and if possible.

▼ Household is concerned not only with the temporary relief of its customers' financial troubles.* It endeavors to help them attain permanent financial security.

He was one of two captured by policemen in a radio car, following a burglary in the home of George Kalin, 4339 Manchester avenue, in which $125 worth of jewelry was taken. Kalin saw Garner and another man in his yard and summoned Jack Dansky, 4329 Manchester avenue, a licensed private watchman, who was shot attempting to make an arrest. For the Kalin burglary and larceny Garner got four years. He received 10 years for the robbery on March 26 of Edward Eisel, 1011 South Newstead avenue, who lost $2.25 to two robbers who held him up on Tower Grove avenue between Arco and Gibson avenues.

Floyd Thomas Hobbs got 12 years for holding up Walter Foster, 3207 Hebert street, a railroad car inspector on March 6. Foster was washing his car at the time. He lost $14 and the car.

A charge of grand larceny against Wayne McGeever was dismissed by the Circuit Attorney for insufficient evidence.

During the week the Supreme Court affirmed three criminal cases appealed from St. Louis. These were: Mike Godos, proprietor of a Market street pool hall, six months in workhouse for permitting a slot machine on his premises; Cleveland Lovelace, four years in the penitentiary for killing a woman with his automobile; Mattie Gaters, Negress 40 years for killing a Negro man.

OPEN VERDICT GIVEN IN DEATH OF W. L. GRACE BY SHOOTING

Relatives Think Hunter Was Killed Accidentally When Cleaning Shotgun.

A Coroner's open verdict was returned yesterday in the death of William L. Grace, widely known quail hunter who was found shot in his apartment, 4924 Buckingham court, Friday afternoon. An automatic shotgun, a duplicate barrel, a cleaning rod and a bundle of rags were found beside his partly dressed body.

Relatives expressed the opinion that Grace, who was planning a trip to California, was cleaning the weapon when it was accidentally discharged, shooting him through the heart.

The funeral was held yesterday afternoon, with burial in Calvary Cemetery.

RIVER FRONT PLAN FAVORED BY MANY PROPERTY OWNERS

Numerous Options Obtained by Agents of Progress Council Show Proposal Is Well Received

$8,000,000 HOLDINGS SOUGHT IN PROJECT

Real Estate Dealers Optimistic as to Effect of Success of Improvement on Holdings in Vicinity.

By Berry Moore.

Real estate agents commissioned by the Progress Council to obtain options on property in the downtown district east of Third street for the proposed river front improvement are enthusiastic over the reception given the enterprise. The attitude of property owners is taken as auguring well for the success of the project.

It is reported that numerous options already have been obtained, with the property owners generally subscribing to the proposal. Work of the commissioners is facilitated by the co-operation of real estate agents who appreciate the opportunity offered to dispose of the property in this section, which has not moved fast.

The prices at which the property is available, the commissioners report, vary according to the age, character and condition of the improvements. Where buildings are in a state of dilapidation and of negligable value, less than the assessed value has been agreed on in some instances, it is understood. This also applies to vacant ground on which the improvements have been razed and for which there is virtually no market.

14 Shaw Estate Options.

The Henry Shaw estate, incorporated as the Missouri Botanical Garden Association, has granted options on 14 pieces of property in this district at prices corresponding with their assessed valuations, it is understood. Options are reported to have been signed by other large holders in this section on the same basis.

The total assessed value of the property sought is in excess of $8,000,000. It is understood the Council does not contemplate paying more for the property as a whole than its assessed value. The ultimate cost, however, including that incident to the adjustment of leases, it is estimated, will be in the neighborhood of $10,000,000. The options are being taken subject to existing leases, which it is assumed will have expired before the project finally materializes.

Only the property between Third street and the wharf and Washington and Clark avenues ,is now being optioned, although the area announced extends from Franklin avenue to Poplar street. The west side of Third street is not included.

Form of Options.

As has been told, the options are being taken in the name of the Progress Council Corporation, of which Claude B. Ricketts is chairman, formed in this connection by the River Front Improvement Committee of the Progress Council, which is sponsoring the enterprise.

The option form gives the Council exclusive right to purchase a t any time before Sept. 1, 1932, and would be automatically renewed for one year, if a proposal to acquire the land under bond issue should be put before the voters at the time of expiration. The object in obtaining the options is to determine whether property can be purchased at a reasonable price.

The Option Corporation has the right under the options to form a corporation for the purchase and improvement of the property independently of the city. The property owners are given the right to participate in the finance corporation on an equal basis with the members of the Progress Council.

Double-Deck Highway Proposed.

The Progress Council was formed several months ago to devise ways and means to stabilize values in the downtown business district and to relieve traffic congestion there. A Third street double-deck highway is planned as a step towards solving the traffic problem.

Real estate dealers are extremely optimistic as to the effect of the success of the enterprise on the real estate market, which it is believed would take on the proportions of a boom, especially in the downtown business district. The prediction is ventured that Broadway and Fourth street would be rejuvenated with a complete restoration of values. This is based on the demand, involving both purchase and lease, which it is believed would follow for quarters on the part of concerns in the section to be taken for the river front project. Property on the west side of Third street would be in demand as involving great speculative possibilities.

The Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co., the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., Martin & Breit, Cornet & Zeibig, Edward L. Bakewell, the Downtown Improvement Association and the Office Building Managers Association have been commissioned to obtain the options.

CERTIFIED REAL ESTATE APPRAISERS ADVOCATED

The convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards at Baltimore last week authorized its president to confer with governmental authorities and request a study of the subject of establishing through Federal legislation a system permitting the discount of mortgages on urban residences, and a study of long term and short term credit as applied to home financing. For the purpose of initiating discussion the president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards was authorized to offer the services of five realtors for membership on and consultation with the committee to which these matters may be referred by governmental authorities, and to furnish for purposes of investigation such tentative proposals as may secure the approval of the Board of Directors of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. No specific plan for a central mortgage residential banking system was approved by the convention.

Other action designed to stabilize realty values was the approval by the appraisal division after a year of study of a plan to certify real estate appraisers. The plan provides for the creation of an institute of appraisers and the setting up of high standards of practice which authors of the plans say will result in more wide-spread care in the setting of realty values. The admission and conduct rules of the proposed institute will make it increasingly difficult for less careful appraisers to operate according to Philip W. Kniskern, New York City, who was chairman of the committee that presented the plan. The measure has yet to be brought before the board of directors of the association.

The proposed plan for certification of qualified appraisers will be given further study and is expected to come before the association at its coming annual business meeting in January.

The new association officers elected who take office January, 1932, are:

President—Lawrence T. Stevenson, Pittsburg, Pa.

Vice Presidents—First, William H. Gardner, Winnipeg, Man., Canada; second, James B. Fisher, Brooklyn, N. Y.; third, August C. Sehrt, Milwaukee, Wis.; fourth, John J. Wagner, Cedar Rapids, Ia.; fifth, Charles Elmer Rousek, East Orange, N. J.

Treasurer—Mark Levy, Chicago, Illinois.

Directors—For a three-year term expiring Dec. 31, 1934: Earle G. Krumrine, Chicago, Ill.; Paul E. Stark, Madison, Wis.; George D. Robertson, Los Angeles, Cal.; Hugh Potter, Houston, Tex.; Ward C. Gifford, Kansas City, Mo.

To fill vacancies—For the term expiring Dec. 31, 1932: Walter S. Schmidt, Cincinnati, O.; Samuel C. Kane, Philadelphia, Pa.

For the term expiring Dec. 31, 1933: Louis B. Beardslee, Chicago, Illinois.

Directors—For a one-year term expiring Dec. 31, 1932: George L. Atkins, Trenton, N. J.; George F. Nixon, Chicago, Ill.; Lewis Mitchell, Buffalo, N. Y.; Edward G. Hacker, Lansing, Mich.; C. C. ROY W. WENZLICK ON HOOVER'S HOME BOARD

Accepts Secretary Lamont's Invitation to Chicago Conference This Week.

Roy W. Wenzlick, vice president of the Wenzlick Real Estate Co., has accepted an invitation from Seretary of Commerce Lamont to serve as a member of the committee on large scale operations of President Hoover's conference on home building and home ownership, to be held in Chicago beginning Tuesday at the Union League Club. Alfred K. Stern, Chicago, has accepted the chairmanship of this committee.

Wenzlick received the invitation in the following telegram, which tells the object of the conference:

"It is the President's hope and mine that you will serve as a member of the committee on large scale operations of the President's conference on home building and home ownership. Mr. Alfred K. Stern has accepted the chairmanship of this committee. The committee would be concerned with planning, building and management of large-scale housing operations of both apartment and suburban types. This might include operations of private agencies and of limited dividend companies and co-operative types of organization. Details of committee work cover lease and sales forms, problems of financing and personnel community facilities, etc., with a view to evaluating these and to making recommendations. I trust that circumstances will permit you to accept this appointment."

Wenzlick was formerly head of the business research department of the Post-Dispatch. He is now in charge of the research department of the Wenzlick Real Estate Co., established to study fundamental trends in real estate values with the purpose of reducing the speculative element in real estate investments.

As a specialist in matters relating to business research, Wenzlick has been widely consulted and referred to by organizations and individuals here and elsewhere. For several years he has served as chairman of the Research Committee of the Community Council. This committee has had charge of local arrangements for taking the United States census in St. Louis. He is also chairman of the Research Committee of the Church Federation.

Four of the five houses begun earlier in the year are nearing completion, the fifth having already been occupied. Another approach to this subdivision will soon be created by the completion of the paving on Audrain drive, which forms the northern boundary of the Normandie Golf Club. Bel-Nor now has more than eight miles of fully improved residential property, 150 homes, and a public school. It is between Bellerive and Normandie Golf Clubs at 8200 Natural Bridge road. Knickmeyer-Fleer Realty & Investment Co. is exclusive sales agent.

DEAL REPORTED FOR SALE OF BIG SPRUCE ST. GARAGE

Property, Now Leased by Railway Express Agency, Said to Be Valued at $500,000—Weisels Co. Handling Negotiations.

It was reported yesterday that negotiations were pending, if not actually closed, for sale of the large garage on the north side of Spruce street between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets, occupied by the Railway Express Agency, Inc. The identity of the prospective purchaser and the amount involved were not disclosed.

The building, recently completed, was built by the Joseph W. Kopman Construction Co., the owner. The express agency occupies it under a 15-year lease, calling for annual rentals totaling $400,000, with an option for an additional 10 years at a rental aggregating $260,000, or a total of $660,000 for 25 years. Henry R. Weisels, Inc., assembled the site, which was reported to have cost $225,000 and arranged the lease. The Weisels company is handling the present negotiations, said to involve about $500,000 for the site and the building. Weisels was out of the city yesterday and could not be reached.

The garage, comprising about 50,000 square feet, is built of concrete and brick with steel trussed roof. The site, 332x150 feet, embraces the entire south half of the block bounded by Spruce, Fifteenth, Sixteenth and Belmont streets.

Real estate movement in this section has been featured by several record building projects, including, notably the J. C. Penney warehouse, 13 stories in height, covering the block bounded by Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Spruce and Poplar streets, and the 21-story St. Louis Mart and Terminal warehouse, now under construction at Twelfth and Spruce streets, financed by the Terminal Railway Association. Both have rail connection with the Terminal Railway yards.

The Loose-Wiles Biscuit Co. just prior to the 1929 crash acquired a large site on Fourteenth street opposite the Municipal Court building with plans for ultimately building a large addition to its plant at 120 South Fifteenth street. The site extends through to Fifteenth street.

The Santa Fe Railway owns the property on both sides of Poplar street between Fourteenth and Sixteenth streets, purchased during the last two years through the Franciscus Realty Co. While there has been no official announcement to this effect, presumption is that the Santa Fe has acquired this ground as a site for a freight depot, with plans for eventually entering St. Louis on its own tracks. This land, adjoining Mill Creek Valley, is regarded as the most valuable in this district by virtue of its terminal facilities.

Another feature of the week was the sale of the business block at the northeast corner of Clayton road and Concordia avenue to M. Costa and G. Sciales, through Henry R. Weisels, Inc. The purchase price was reported to have been $60,000. The property is situated on the north side of Clayton road, one block east of Big Bend boulevard and has noteworthy speculative possibilities. The improvements consist of one and two story buildings, comprising seven stores and a five-room apartment, with annual rental of $448. The site has a frontage of 130 feet on Clayton, with a depth of 130 feet. Negotiations were handled by Arnold H. Maremont, secretary of Henry R. Weisels, Inc.

Perfect Home

7471 Cromwell Drive, Moorlands

A group of contractors and material men co-operated to produce this super home—a home in which the materials and workmanship are of the best, selected for durability and appearance with no show of extravagance often seen in "show" houses.

The Perfect Home contains the usual living rooms on the first floor, with a large screened porch, a lavatory and a main stair of circular design which extends from the large rathskeller in the basement to the second floor. A two-car garage is built with the house. The second floor has three main bedrooms and two well-equipped bathrooms. The third floor is arranged for a maid's room with bath.

The foundation is of concrete blocks, waterproofed, the superstructure of buff matt bricks backed up with insulating cinder blocks, roof of variegated tile, exterior mill work of red cypress, interior of quartered sycamore. All plastering is on metallic laths, wiring in armored cable, floors of hardwood or tile. The bathrooms and kitchen are wainscoted with vitrolite. The kitchen is equipped with Murphy porcelain kitchen cabinets.

An unusual feature is the ceiling construction of the principal rooms. The ceiling beams are not the usual false beams but actually support the floors above and have become an architectural feature. All exposed parts of the building, including the second floor ceiling, are insulated with wool. All plumbing fixtures are of Kohler colored design with chromium fittings. A vapor steam heating plant with a Nokol oil burner has been installed, with the incinerator and hot-water heater as an integral part of this Triplex Pacific Boiler. Distinctive ornamentation period hardware by Earle throughout.

The Perfect Home Is Attractively Furnished

urnover of 800,000 Is Below the Recent Rate of Activity—U. S. Steel Encounters Considerable Selling—Rail Shares Are Reactionary.

y the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Wall street's burden of woe, both real and imaginary, was measurably lightened this week by one of the strongest rebounds in stock prices witnessed during the long bear market.

A few optimists jumped to the hasty conclusion that "the turn" had come. Others, none the less pleased by the reversal, preferred to give the market plenty of time to prove itself. If the gains are reasonably well held during the tests that presumably are waiting around the corner there will be more of a disposition to admit that an important point has been reached and perhaps turned.

The Standard Statistics-Associated Press composite of 90 issues, after touching a new low of 96.9 on Monday, reached 107.6 on Thursday. Profit-taking, rather insistent on Friday and decidedly effective in the week-end trading brought today's closing average back to 103.7. But the intervening gain of nearly 11 points represented a recovery of about 25 per cent of the losses since the year's peak was reached in February.

Several Factors Back of Rise.

Back of the rise were several factors. More obvious reasons were the Standard Oil of New York-Vacuum merger news, and the reduction of margin requirements first by the banks to brokers and then by the brokers to customers. The action of the banks, however, told Wall street that stocks had apparently reached a conservative price basis, and in the strength of this interpretation shorts covered rapidly. There was doubtless some investment buying behind the rally although the bulk of the support came from covering.

Business itself contributed scantily to any revival of bullish sentiment. Most lines are still feeling the effect of seasonal contraction although the recession so far is n greater than is normally experi enced as the dull summer perio approaches. With the exception o the grains, notably wheat, commodity prices are largely uneasy.

The enormous over-subscriptio to the June 15 Government financ ing encouraged investment bankers Although it was probable that th inquiry from banks and other im portant bidders was over-large i order to assure desired allotments the $6,315,000,000 demand for a $800,000,000 issue indicated that th reservoir of money was filled t overflowing and apparently awaite only a return of confidece to spi into the security markets.

The credit situation was un changed. A slightly firmer ton came into the money markets a the week ended, for some larg lenders were reported to have with drawn their funds. The effect o the lower margin requirements o speculative borrowing will not b come known until the brokers' loa figures are announced next Thurs day.

Profit Taking at Week End.

Stocks went back to the firin line today for a test against sel ling. Profit-taking and offering by skeptical shorts chipped awa at the list during the two hour of quiet trading, leaving fina prices 1 to 3 points under the Fri day close. The turnover was 800, 000 shares, well below the recen rate of activity.

It normally happens that after strong advance—particularly quick, sharp upturn such as wa experienced this week—the mark has to undergo what is technical known as secondary selling whe profits are accepted on stoc bought at lower levels and bea put out fresh lines on the theor that short covering has been tem porarily exhausted. The resistan to such reactions is closely watche but the tren of a single day c hardly be called conclusive. Doub less the pessimistic statement fro

Composite of 90 Issues, After Touching a New Low of 96.9 on Monday, Reaches 107.6 on Thursday and Then Reacts to 103.7 at Week-End.

PROFIT TAKING AT CLOSE OF THE WEEK

Turnover of 800,000 Is Below the Recent Rate of Activity—U. S. Steel Encounters Considerable Selling—Rail Shares Are Reactionary.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Wall street's burden of woe, both real and imaginary, was measurably lightened this week by one of the strongest rebounds in stock prices witnessed during the long bear market.

A few optimists jumped to the hasty conclusion that "the turn" had come. Others, none the less pleased by the reversal, preferred to give the market plenty of time to prove itself. If the gains are reasonably well held during the tests that presumably are waiting around the corner there will be more of a disposition to admit that an important point has been reached and perhaps turned.

The Standard Statistics-Associated Press composite of 90 issues, after touching a new low of 96.9 on Monday, reached 107.6 on Thursday. Profit-taking, rather insistent on Friday and decidedly effective in the week-end trading brought today's closing average back to 103.7. But the intervening gain of nearly 11 points represented a recovery of about 25 per cent of the losses since the year's peak was reached in February.

Most lines are still feeling the effect of seasonal contraction, although the recession so far is no greater than is normally experienced as the dull summer period approaches. With the exception of the grains, notably wheat, commodity prices are largely uneasy.

The enormous over-subscription to the June 15 Government financing encouraged investment bankers. Although it was probable that the inquiry from banks and other important bidders was over-large in order to assure desired allotments, the $6,315,000,000 demand for an $800,000,000 issue indicated that the reservoir of money was filled to overflowing and apparently awaited only a return of confidece to spill into the security markets.

The credit situation was unchanged. A slightly firmer tone came into the money markets as the week ended, for some large lenders were reported to have withdrawn their funds. The effect of the lower margin requirements on speculative borrowing will not become known until the brokers' loan figures are announced next Thursday.

Profit Taking at Week End.

Stocks went back to the firing line today for a test against selling. Profit-taking and offerings by skeptical shorts chipped away at the list during the two hours of quiet trading, leaving final prices 1 to 3 points under the Friday close. LOWER RANGES TO STOCK PRICES IN LOCAL TRADE

Transactions in Individual Shares Only Moderate and Changes on Whole Are Not Wide.

Local stocks, on the whole, lost ground during the week, although there were several exceptions to the general trend among the leaders. The changes, except in several instances, were limited and the turnover in individual shares was mainly moderate. Several new lows for 1931 appeared in the list.

Coca-Cola Bottling, International Shoe, Johnson-Stephens-Shinkle and Rice-Stix recorded gains for the period. Losses were shown by Missouri Portland, National Candy, Wagner Electric, Landis Machine, Laclede Steel, Stix, Baer & Fuller and Key Boiler Equipment and Elder "A."

McQuay-Norris closed unchanged after selling lower.

In the banking group Mercantile-Commerce, First National, Boatmen's and St. Louis Union Trust were off.

MARKET VALUE OF LISTED SHARES OFF $5,936,002,806

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 6.—The market value of all shares listed on the New York Stock Exchange declined $5,936,002,806 in May to a total of $42,533,985,679 as of June 1.

Total borrowings by members of the exchange against collateral as of June 1 amounted to 3.37 per cent of the market value of all shares listed, compared with 3.40 on May 1. During May borrowings of members decreased $216,444,474 to $1,434,683,650 at the end of the month.

As of June 1 there were 1297 stock issues aggregating 1,305,516,716 shares listed on the exchange, compared with 1297 issues aggregating 1,304,765,685 shares on May 1.

The average market value of all listed shares was $32.58 on June 1, compared with $37.23 on May 1.

Liberty Bonds of $100,000 Denomination.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Secretary Mellon announced today that, hereafter coupon bonds in the denomination of $100,000 will be available for the three outstanding Liberty loan issues, first 3½s, first converted 4¼s and fourth 4¼s and in addition coupon bonds of $5000 and $10,000 denominations will be available for the first 3½s.

The denominations will be issued only on exchange of a life face amount of other bonds of the same issue.

The Secretary said the additional denominations for "Liberty bonds" will accord to holders the same convenience heretofore accorded holders of Treasury bonds."

STOCKS HAVE STRONGEST REBOUND OF BEAR MARKET

abroad on the turn in Germany's affairs caused some apprehension in speculative circles, and developments over the weekend, notably at the chequers meeting, will be followed with intense interest. The mark was off to a new low for the year, not far above the theoretical gold point, but German Government bonds were firm.

U. S. Steel encountered considerable pressure following an estimate that next Wednesday's unfilled tonnage statement, showing the backlog as of May 31, would report a decline of 250,000 to 300,000 tons, or under the seasonal average of the last seven years. A loss is usually suffered in May, which is a month of seasonal slackening.

Steel common dropped 3 points.

To Increase Youngstown Output.

In American Can, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical, General Electric, General Motors, American Telephone, North American, Consolidated Gas, Westinghouse, National Biscuit, Loew's and Bethlehem Steel the loss ran from 1 to 2. Rails were reactionary, but in some cases the market was thin. Southern Pacific, New York Central, and Atchison yielded 2 to 3. Union Pacific lost more than 5 and Norfolk & Western 13, the latter on small volume.

One of the encouraging developments as the markets closed for the week was an estimate that steel operations in the Youngstown area would be up 1 point to 42 per cent. It was the first increase in about three months. Part of the improvements is doubtless due to the sustained demand for pipe.

Commodities eased. Wheat lost from a fraction to about a cent under realizing and bearish Canadian advices which said that the appearance of rain in the next few days would materially help the crop in the Western provinces. Corn was off nominally on heavy rains in Kansas and a better cash demand, cotton followed stocks, yielding $1.20 to $1.30 a bale.

Except for sterling and the mark, foreign exchanges were firm. The peseta and the Brazilian milreis were up.

WEEK'S METAL MARKET

NEW YORK, June 6.—The decline of copper to the 8-cent level, the lowest on record, attracted heavy domestic buying, and the price soon became steadier, with producers' asking quotations of 8¼c for electrolytic delivered in the Connecticut Valley, at which level a fair business continued. Foreign buying expanded to the best daily business for some time on the 8¼c basis. A scarcity of prompt metal was said to have developed and in some instances slight premiums were reported paid for immediate shipment.

A better demand for tin developed at the lower levels, owing partly to rumors that governments of four producing nations have accepted recommendations to reduce tin output by an additional 20,000 tons annually. The firmer stock market improved sentiment, but larger buying met freer Far Eastern offerings.

Lead continued quiet and steady, despite restricted buying and producers are holding, owing to a firm undertone in the ore market.

Zinc sagged under somewhat freer offerings, but the market later tightened.

Antimony was dull and slightly easier in absence of demand.

Dry Goods Market Review.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Cotton goods were in moderate request today at low prices for print cloths and other unfinished goods. Finished cottons were selling in small quantities for nearby use. More interest was developing in women's wear for fall. Rayon sales were beginning to show a seasonal falling off. Hosiery continued quiet in first hands, but the retail movement is steady. Knit outerwear was active in distributing channels. Silk held steady with some indications of firmness.

Stock Exchange Topics.

NEW YORK, June 6. — From preliminary forecasts now making their appearance it is indicated that the street is looking for a drop of somewhere around 250,000 to 300,000 tons, in the volume of unfilled orders on the books when the steel corporation monthly figures appear noon next Wednesday. These estimates probably accounted in part for the selling which came into the stock during today's short trading session. For April a contraction of 97,000 tons was reported, but May has invariably been a month of heavy shrinkage marking the slackening of demand with the approach of the summer months. In fact this tendency has been so pronounced that if the forthcoming figures should reveal a drop of less than 250,000 tons such a shrinkage would be smaller than the average for the month over the last eight years. The smallest drop in that period was 123,596 tons in 1923 while the largest ran to 580,358 in 1924.

OND TRADE QUIET, PRICES IRREGULAR

et Changes Among Foreign Issues Divided About Evenly Between Gains and Losses.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Quiet ading and irregular price changes arked the bond market today.

Net changes among foreign obli tions were divided about evenly etween gains and declines. Not ithstanding the limited activity, a umber of foreign issues made wide anges. Argentine, Cuban and Co mbian obligations advanced from to 7 points. Chinese Hukuang ailway 5s jumped 9¼ points, fol wing the news that certain inter t coupons would be paid. German sues made mixed changes. Shortly efore the close, cables from Berlin ported that the Government had sued a proclamation announcing at the German nation had ached its limit of privation and at new taxes would be imposed. Liberty and Treasury loans were regularly higher, but with the ception of the Liberty fourth 4¼s nd the Terasury 4s, the trading in hem was limited.

Domestic corporate bonds made ixed changes, but the averages in icated that the movement was nar owly, if irregularly, lower. The ublic utilities average alone howed a slight gain. The most dicative fact about the market was he limited turnover in most cor orate issues. No transactions of ny sort occurred in a large num er of them, and the total turnover f many of them was limited to a ew small, or even single, sales. ublic interest in the bond market s a whole continued to be very oderate. Sales aggregated $4,86,000, which was a small total, ven for a short session. American elephone debenture 5s, Cleveland nion Terminal 4½s and 5s, Consol dated Gas of New York 4½s, Illi ois Bell Telephone 5s and Bell elephone of Pennsylvania series C s reached lower levels.

URTHER SHARP DECLINE IN THE COTTON MARKET

y the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Cotton prices experienced a further sharp decline today, osing about ¼ of a cent per pound from he previous closing levels and declining o within 3 points of the low levels established early in the week for most of the ctive positions.

The show of weakness in the Liverpool market combined with heaviness in the tock market and generally favorable weather conditions, with the prospects of a continuation of favorable weather over he week-end, combined to bring about renewed general selling while an absence of ggressive buying was taken to indicate a weaker technical position. The October price declined to 8.65, a loss of 25 points from the previous close, and the general market closed barely steady at 24 to 26 points net decline. Spot was quiet, mids 8.35c.

The market opened barely steady 13 to 16 points lower and after a very moderate rally on trade buying and week-end covering again resumed its downward course and throughout the greater part of the day was easy with an absence of more than a moderate demand. It seemed to be the prevailing impression that the buying which had resulted in the recoveries of over ½c from the low levels established on Tuesday and Wednesday had been largely covering and that the firmness in the techmnical position had been corrected.

A good deal of the selling during the day seemed to come from houses with southern connections while further long liquidation was in progress throughout the session. There was little of a constructive nature in the news and with the crop apparently making good progress in most sections and trade conditions far from satisfactory buyers were very timid.

Liverpool cabled that the market there had declined under local and continental liquidation and owing to a poor offtake. Cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 65,000 bales compared with 66,000 a year ago.

WS AND COMMENT

an increase of 1 per cent over the current week and the first increase in 13 weeks, Dow, Jones & Co. reports. Youngstown Sheet & Tube open-hearth steel production at its Campbell plant is approximately double that of 10 days ago. The increase in operations is due to a moderate improvement in the market for pipe.

Stocks of zinc at the end of May totaled 143,409 short tons, compared with 143,212 tons at the end of April and 106,080 at the end of May last year, the American Zinc Institute reports. Production in May showed a decline to 25,688 tons, compared with 29,137 tons in April and 44,556 tons in May, 1930. May shipments amounted to 25,851 tons, against 27,418 tons for April and 38,681 for May last year. Unfilled orders at the end of May were 31,146 tons, compared with 36,150 at the end of April, and 30,515 at the end of May last year.

Secretary Kendig, of Hamilton Watch Co., said that the second quarter has shown an improvement. He added that consideration of the dividend will be taken up at the July meeting and "up to this time the board has not indicated what the quarterly rate of dividend will be."

The Waukesha Motor Co. of Wisconsin has set up a June schedule of 6100 motors, compared with an output of 4100 in May.

Safeway Stores reported May sales of $18,252,435, a decrease of 7.1 per cent from $19,647,815 reported for the corresponding month last year.

Stock Exchange Topics.

NEW YORK, June 6. — From preliminary forecasts now making their appearance it is indicated that the street is looking for a drop of somewhere around 250,000 to 300,000 tons, in the volume of unfilled orders on the books when the steel corporation monthly figures appear noon next Wednesday. These estimates probably accounted in part for the selling which came into the stock during today's short trading session. For April a contraction of 97,000 tons was reported, but May has invariably been a month of heavy shrinkage marking the slackening of demand with the approach of the summer months. In fact this tendency has been so pronounced that if the forthcoming figures should reveal a drop of less than 250,000 tons such a shrinkage would be smaller than the average for the month over the last eight years. The smallest drop in that period was 123,596 tons in 1923 while the largest ran to 580,358 in 1924.

BOND TRADE QUIET, PRICES IRREGULAR

Net Changes Among Foreign Issues Divided About Evenly Between Gains and Losses.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Quiet trading and irregular price changes marked the bond market today.

Net changes among foreign obligations were divided about evenly between gains and declines. Notwithstanding the limited activity, a number of foreign issues made wide changes. Argentine, Cuban and Colombian obligations advanced from 1 to 7 points. Chinese Hukuang Railway 5s jumped 9¼ points, following the news that certain interest coupons would be paid. German issues made mixed changes. Shortly before the close, cables from Berlin reported that the Government had issued a proclamation announcing that the German nation had reached its limit of privation and that new taxes would be imposed.

Liberty and Treasury loans were irregularly higher, but with the exception of the Liberty fourth 4¼s and the Terasury 4s, the trading in them was limited.

Domestic corporate bonds made mixed changes, but the averages indicated that the movement was narrowly, if irregularly, lower. The public utilities average alone showed a slight gain. The most indicative fact about the market was the limited turnover in most corporate issues. No transactions of any sort occurred in a large number of them, and the total turnover of many of them was limited to a few small, or even single, sales. Public interest in the bond market as a whole continued to be very moderate. Sales aggregated $4,986,000, which was a small total, even for a short session. American Telephone debenture 5s, Cleveland Union Terminal 4½s and 5s, Consolidated Gas of New York 4½s, Illinois Bell Telephone 5s and Bell Telephone of Pennsylvania series C 5s reached lower levels.

No Coffee and Sugar Market.

NEW YORK, June 6.—The New York Coffee and Sugar Exhange today inaugurated its summer schedule and was closed for the day. The schedule provides for closing on Saturdays during June, July, August and September.

FURTHER SHARP DECLINE IN THE COTTON MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Cotton prices experienced a further sharp decline today, losing about ¼ of a cent per pound from the previous closing levels and declining to within 3 points of the low levels established early in the week for most of the active positions.

The show of weakness in the Liverpool market combined with heaviness in the stock market and generally favorable weather conditions, with the prospects of a continuation of favorable weather over the week-end, combined to bring about renewed general selling while an absence of aggressive buying was taken to indicate a weaker technical position. The October price declined to 8.65, a loss of 25 points from the previous close, and the general market closed barely steady at 24 to 26 points net decline. Spot was quiet, mids 8.35c.

The market opened barely steady 13 to 16 points lower and after a very moderate rally on trade buying and week-end covering again resumed its downward course and throughout the greater part of the day was easy with an absence of more than a moderate demand. It seemed to be the prevailing impression that the buying which had resulted in the recoveries of over ½c from the low levels established on Tuesday and Wednesday had been largely covering and that the firmness in the techmnical position had been corrected.

A good deal of the selling during the day seemed to come from houses with southern connections while further long liquidation was in progress throughout the session. There was little of a constructive nature in the news and with the crop apparently making good progress in most sections and trade conditions far from satisfactory buyers were very timid.

Liverpool cabled that the market there had declined under local and continental liquidation and owing to a poor offtake. Cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 65,000 bales compared with 66,000 a year ago.

PROFIT-TAKING BRINGS PRICES DOWN ON CURB

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Curb stocks, particularly leading oil and utility shares, receded further from the high point of the week, in the short session today, under the adverse influence of week-end profit-taking.

With traders apathetic, realizing sales contributed most of the business of the dull, short session, with the total turnover amounting to 160,000 shares. The reaction averaged less than a point but recessions among oil and utility shares that led the advance in midweek were larger, ranging up to 4 points.

Vacuum, which rallied earlier in the week from a year's low at 23 to 35, yielded 3¼ points after earlier strength, Humble receded 2 and Gulf was off 3¾ on the day. Standard of Indiana declined ⅝, to close the week 3 points above the year's bottom price. Cities Service slowly receded ⅛ to 11. All of the oil shares retained a portion of the week's rise.

The recession in the utility group was slow, but became somewhat more active just before the close, as the volume of offerings increased. Few losses exceeded a point, the most notable being the 1½-point drop in Electric Bond & Share, the 2-point reaction in American Gas & Electric and losses of a point each in American Light & Traction and Tampa Electric.

Trading in specialties was extremely quiet and confined to a few issues. Technicolor and Great Atlantic & Pacific each yielded a point. Aluminum of America, one of the spectacular features of the week, closed at 110, off 3 net, and comparing with 123, the high for the advance. General Tire & Rubber dipped 8 points to a new year's low, and Parker Rustproof yielded 3 points on profit-taking. Investment trusts eased fractionally.

GRAIN FUTURES CLOSE MIXED ON LOCAL MARKET

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, June 6.—Belief that the recent advance had discounted the Canadian drouth situation for the present and comment that good rain even at this stage could bring material change in prospects held the wheat market in check today. The close was unchanged to slightly higher. Report of some precipitation in Canada and prospect of cooler weather in part also were factors as well as report of slack export call. The action of stock market also played a part.

Liverpool wheat closed 1⅜c to 1⅞c higher.

July wheat opened at 57c, September wheat 57c, July corn 57¼c and September corn 52⅞c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 93,800 bushels, compared with holiday a week ago and 44,800 a year ago, included 24 cars local and 43 through. Corn receipts, which were 70,000 bushels compared with holiday week ago and 67,200 a year ago, included 26 cars local and 24 through. Oats receipts, which were 17,600 bushels compared with holiday a week ago and 57,200 a year ago, included 6 cars local and 2 through. Hay receipts were 5 cars local and 1 through.

In the cash grain market Saturday, soft wheat was steady to 1c higher. There were only a few cars on sale and these cleared readily. Shippers supplied the outlet. There were orders for No. 1 red, but none of this class was offered. Buyers indicated 77c for select types. Hard wheat was steady. Market was quiet. The few cars offered were taken by local elevators. Corn was steady to ⅛c lower. The yellow and white sold at ½c to ⅜c lower prices, while the mixed was steady. Receipts were light and cleared fairly well. Mills were the main purchasers of the yellow variety. White corn went to elevators and a local firm, and the mixed was taken by glucose plants. Oats were steady. Offerings were light and were taken by a local buyer, shipper and elevators.

WHEAT REACTS FROM WEEK'S 4-CENT ADVANCE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 6.—Wheat reacted today from a 4-cent advance that had taken place in the last week. Much wheat bought on account of drouth conditions in Canada was sold out to realize profits and there was also heavy speculative selling. An eagerly awaited comprehensive summary of the Canadian crop situation proved to be bullish but not so sensational as some had anticipated, being qualified by a statement that one good soaking rain within a week would materially alter the outlook.

Wheat closed unsettled, ⅛@⅜ cents lower, corn ¼@½ down, oats ⅛@⅜ off and provisions unchanged to 12 cents decline.

Although the Canadian wheat crop situation has been reported as the worst at this time of the season in 29 years, buying ardor was checked on account of Winnipeg messages telling of scattered showers in the prairie provinces and a heavy rain in some places. There were also Canadian predictions of cooler temperature and additional showers. Many traders, too, were apparently acting on belief that Canadian drouth news had been discounted in full for the present, notwithstanding that a report said imperative need existed for general heavy downpours, and that a percentage of wheat was beyond recovery.

Throughout most of the day, weakness of securities tended to restrain wheat rallies, but in some cases wheat scored upturns of 1½ cents from extreme bottom figures. A handicap to friends of higher prices was scantiness of fresh export demand for wheat from North America. One dispatch said France was buying more United States wheat than at any time in the last year, a statement which, however, elicited comment that the aggregate was not a great deal. North Dakota reports of good rains beneficial to spring wheat were also an incentive to sellers.

BUSINESS NOTES

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Retail sales of men's clothing and furnishings during the current week have been the most satisfactory since the end of March, although the general volume of trade still continues disappointing, New York store executives report. The last three days of this week have been particularly encouraging, with consumer demand stimulated by the warm weather, it was said.

The set of simplified sizes in misses' and women's ready-to-wear recommended by the committee on standardization and size terminology of the merchandise managers' division of the National Retail Dry Goods Association was adopted at a meeting of the committee with representative apparel manufacturers. Only a small percentage of the manufacturers objected to the suggested standards, which will go into effect immediately.

Improvement in both shipments and sales of window glass featured an otherwise quiet and rather listless week in the flat glass industry, the American Glass Review says. Distribution of plate, rough rolled and wire glass continued unchanged. The increase in residential building operations and replenishment of jobbers' stocks were responsible for the better call for window glass.

FORECLOSURE ON CORONADO AND CHASE SOUGHT

Suits Filed on Behalf of Holders of Mortgage Bonds of Two Lindell Boulevard Hotels.

Mortgages on Hotels Chase and Coronado being in default, the trustees for the holders of the mortgage bonds filed suits yesterday to foreclose.

The suits disclosed the heavy burden of annual pay-off on the mortgage loans, which the hotels have been unable to meet, and threw light on the financing used in the promotion of these structures in the golden decade of the 1920's.

In these cases the mortgage holder is not a single individual or a corporation, but hundreds of private citizens who purchased the $500 and $1000 bonds issued upon the secuity of the mortgages.

Construction of these outstanding buildings was financed to the amount of $5,150,000 as are many other large commercial structures. The promoters obtained the sites and had plans drawn. Then the construction loans were negotiated, in these cases with S. W. Straus & Co. of Chicago, nation-wide dealers in securities.

Public Bought Bonds.

The investment house merely acted as underwriter. It took the bonds and advanced the proceeds, taking out its commission for expenses and profit. Its extensive sales organization then resold them to the public. A lawyer interested in the matter explained the method thus: "The investment house gets up a prospectus, with a picture of the hotel and information about its earning possibilities. Armed with this, the salesmen go out and sell the bonds. In these cases the bonds probably were all placed before the buildings were completed."

In virtually all such promotions the possible revenue of the structure is projected into the future and compared with the requirements for interest and retirements. The investor always takes the chance that the future may not be as rosy as pictured.

S. W. Straus & Co. has taken steps to protect the bond holders, its customers. It has organized protective committees for both hotels and has asked the bond holders to deposit their bonds. Charles E. Irwin, connected with the company's home office in Chicago, is chairman. If enough bond holders come in, the committees will try to work out a reorganization, or purchase the properties at trustees' sale. In either case, junior securities, such as stock of the operating companies, are likely to be wiped out.

The foreclosure suits are steps toward possible reorganization, William R. Orthwein, co-trustee, told the Post-Dispatch. Melvin R. Straus is trustee under the Coronado mortgage and Samuel J. T. Straus under that covering the Chase. Both are connected with S. W. Straus & Co. Orthwein is a St. Louis lawyer.

Combination for Trustees.

Theodore Rassieur, former Circuit Judge, is attorney for the trustees. The trustees petitioned the Court for an allowance for compensation for their work and for attorneys' fees, and such would be a prior lien which would have to be paid by reorganizers or from proceeds of trustees' sale.

The bond issue against the Chase was $2,700,000 executed Oct. 1, 1921, with interest at 6½ per cent payable semiannually. These bonds were issued with serial maturities, beginning Oct. 1, 1924. The first maturity was $80,000, and greater sums annually thereafter, the amount for 1930 being $125,000 and for 1931, $130,000. The final maturity is 1933.

The mortgage requires monthly deposits of sums sufficient to accumulate at the proper time the requirements for principal and interest payments. Thus in 1930 the average monthly deposit required on principal was $10,416.66. Although the Chase had financial difficulty in 1928 and was reorganized, it had met all principal payoffs until recently, the outstanding bonds having been reduced to about $1,900,000.

William A. Meletio of the Meletio Sea Food Co., is president of the present Chase Hotel Co., which is defendant in the foreclosure action. The company of which he is president took over the equity following the 1928 reorganization. Before that Chase Ulman, the builder, was head of the operating company.

Two Coronado Mortgages.

There are two mortgages on the Coronado. One for $1,400,000, executed June 1, 1923, covers the original building known as the main hotel. The other for $1,050,000 was executed Aug. 15, 1925, for the construction of the annex to the west of the main structure.

Pay-off on the earlier mortgage started at $35,000 June 1, 1926, increasing from time to time, reaching $55,000 for each of the years 1930 and 1931, with final maturity in 1941.

Pay-off on the later mortgage of $1,050,000 started at $30,000 in 1923, increasing to $35,000 in 1930 and $37,000 in 1931, with annual increases until final maturity in 1940. The outstanding bonds on these two mortgages have been reduced to about $2,000,000. In 1929 the Coronado's payment on principal was $85,000, or more than $7000 a month. In 1930 it was $90,000 and in 1931, $92,000.

The loan on the Coronado Annex is additionally secured by a second mortgage on the main Coronado property. In all cases additional security was given in the form of chattel mortgages covering all equipment, furnishings and fixtures of the hotels.

Just what action the bondholders expect to take is not known by the trustees or their attorney. Orthwein said the foreclosure action was certain to come sooner or later, and the trustees decided to get it into court at this time.

CLEMENTS SAYS HOOVER IS MOST MALIGNED OF PRESIDENTS

Republican Committeeman from Missouri Addresses Women's Republican Clubs.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 6.—Resolutions endorsing the administrations of President Hoover and Gov. Caulfield were adopted at the second annual meeting of the Federation of Republican Women's Clubs of Missouri in the statehouse here late today.

About 200 women, delegates of about 30 Republican Women's Clubs in the State, attended the meeting of the organization, which was formed here last year. New officers are elected every two years and will not be named until next year's session.

Addresses were delivered by Dr. E. B. Clements, Macon, Republican National Committeeman from Missouri; Mrs. Grace Semple Burlingham, St. Louis, Republican National Committeewoman from the State; Mrs. Pearl Gehrigh, Salisbury, president of the organization; Judge Berryman Hendwood of the State Supreme Court; and Mrs. Charles Ellis, St. Louis, vice president of the federation.

Dr. Clements praised the administration of President Hoover and declared the President was the "most maligned President in history." No Republican should be elected to office, Clements said, who did not endorse and support the President.

The Republican State leader declared also the "Democratic bosses in Kansas City" were preparing "to steal the coming State and national election in 1932 by again stuffing the ballot boxes."

MORATORIUMS IF SILVER ISN'T STABILIZED, SAYS SHIPSTEAD

Minnesota Senator Urges Informal Conferences on Problem—Sails for Europe.

WASHINGTON, June 6. — Informal conferences on the silver problem were urged today by Senator Shipstead (Farmer-Labor), Minnesota, as he departed for Europe to study conditions as a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee on Silver.

"Unless the price level of silver is reversed soon," he said, "either by natural economic causes or necessary remedial action, I anticipate either a moratorium or wholesale default on debts, public and private.

"If a solution for the problem is to be found I believe it can be found only by approaching the problem from the possible effect of what action is taken upon the general domestic and foreign trade.

"Possibility of agreement can only come through informal conferences." An informal conference called by the International Chamber of Commerce has been proposed by Senator Smoot (Rep.), Utah. He made the suggestion after being informed by President Hoover other nations had opposed a formal official conference.

QUEBEC, June 6.—Cardinal Raymond Marie Rouleau, Archbishop of Quebec, who died last Sunday, and for whom funeral services were held today, left a "spiritual will," written by him on May 5.

"I remit my soul," the document read, "saved by the blood of Jesus Christ, into the hands of my God, my Creator, and I beg Him, by the infinite merits of His divine Son, and by those of the blessed Virgin Mary, of St. Dominic, of St. Louis of France, of all the saints of the Order of Our Holy Patrons, and of all the elect, to receive it in his mercy, for all eternity.

"I thank the Order of Preaching Brothers, and particularly my superiors, for their bounty and their devotion, in the formation, the correction and the direction given to me.

"To my brothers in religion, I also offer my thanks for their charity; I beg them to pardon me the faults I may have committed against their persons, and to forget the bad examples I may have given them."

DYNAMITE HURLED INTO KENTUCKY MILITIA CAMP

Three Men Arrested for Attempted Violence at Mining Town of Yancey.

By the Associated Press.

HARLAN, Ky., June 6.—Three men accused of hurling sticks of dynamite at an encampment of Kentucky National Guardsmen stationed at Yancey were arrested late today. The dynamite exploded but injured no one.

The dynamiting occurred early today, but news of it was not made public until the men were under arrest. It was the first reported attempt at violence against State troops, which were sent here several weeks ago to quell disorders in the Harlan County coal fields. The men arrested gave their names as Edward Holman, Berry Murphy and Paul Pace. They were charged with banding and confederating for the purpose of injury.

Harlan County officers who made the arrests said 25 or 30 sticks of dynamite tied together and with lighted fuse attached were thrown at the encampment of about 40 soldiers, guarding mines in the vicinity.

The dynamite, thrown from a mountainside, fell within 100 yards of the camp, where troop E Cavalry, London, Ky., was stationed. The charge merely tore up the ground where the explosion occurred.

CRUDE OIL IN TEXAS DROPS TO 12 CENTS A BARREL

Failure to Curb Production in Eastern Part of State Held Responsible.

By the Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Tex., June 6.—Reports to the State Railroad Commission today from East Texas said crude oil was selling as low as 12 cents a barrel and there were rumors of contracts made on that basis.

Following cuts in mid-continent crude oil prices early this week to from 25 to 37 cents a barrel, the larger purchasing companies withdrew posted prices for East Texas crude, announcing that chaotic conditions in the area made it impossible to maintain a fixed scale.

Failure to curb East Texas production is blamed by leaders of the oil industry for the crumbling of the national price structure. A. B. Capers, umpire of the Longview pool, in reporting 12-cent contracts for crude, an unprecedented low price, said there was a growing uneasiness on the part of operators who have abided by proration orders of the Railroad Commission, because many of them were losing marketing connections as the result of failure of other operators to observe restrictive orders.

"Now that it looks like they are getting a 'raw deal,' these men are threatening to build earthen storage or take other steps," Capers said.

PRESIDENT RESCINDS PENALTY OF VIOLATOR OF LIQUOR LAW

Sentence of Edward Mack, 907 La Salle Street, Commuted; Fine to Be Returned.

The remainder of the term of Edward Mack, 907 La Salle street, former bartender who was sentenced in Federal Court Feb. 27 to six months in jail and fined $450 when he pleaded guilty to sale and possession, was commuted yesterday by President Hoover. The commutation of sentence includes remission of fine.

Presidential clemency in the case of liquor law violators is unusual and Mack's commutation is the first in the recollection of August E. Vogt, Warden at the Warrenton jail for the last three years.

The order is effective at once subject to Mack's agreement that he will not again violate the national liquor laws. He has served more than one-half his term.

JOBLESS IN NEED OF CLOTHING, CITIZENS' COMMITTEE SAYS

Donations of Garments Not Likely to Be Used Next Winter Requested.

Persons packing away winter clothing are urged to lay aside used garments which they are not likely to wear next winter, for the unemployed, who are badly in need of clothing of every description.

Mrs. Irvin Bettman, chairman of the Clothing Bureau of the Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment, said, in requesting donations of clothing, "all of us have had the experience of packing away clothing, which we know we probably will never use. This is not the time to engage in such practices. Short skirts, now out of style, and other articles are acceptable for the families of the unemployed."

Persons having discarded clothing are asked to deliver the articles to the bureau, 1312 Pine street, or telephone CEntral 3365.

One year has passed since that sad day
The one we loved was called away.

One in a million that, father, was you.
Just in your judgment, always right,
Honest and liberal, ever upright;
Loved by your friends and all whom you knew,
Our wonderful father and husband was you.

BURNS—In loving memory of Joe Burns, who departed this life five years ago, June 5, 1926.

No stain was on his little heart,
Sin had not entered there
And innocence slept sweetly on
That pale white brow so fair.
He was too pure for this cold earth,
Too beautiful to stay,
And so God's Holy Angel
Bore our darling son away.

Sadly missed by

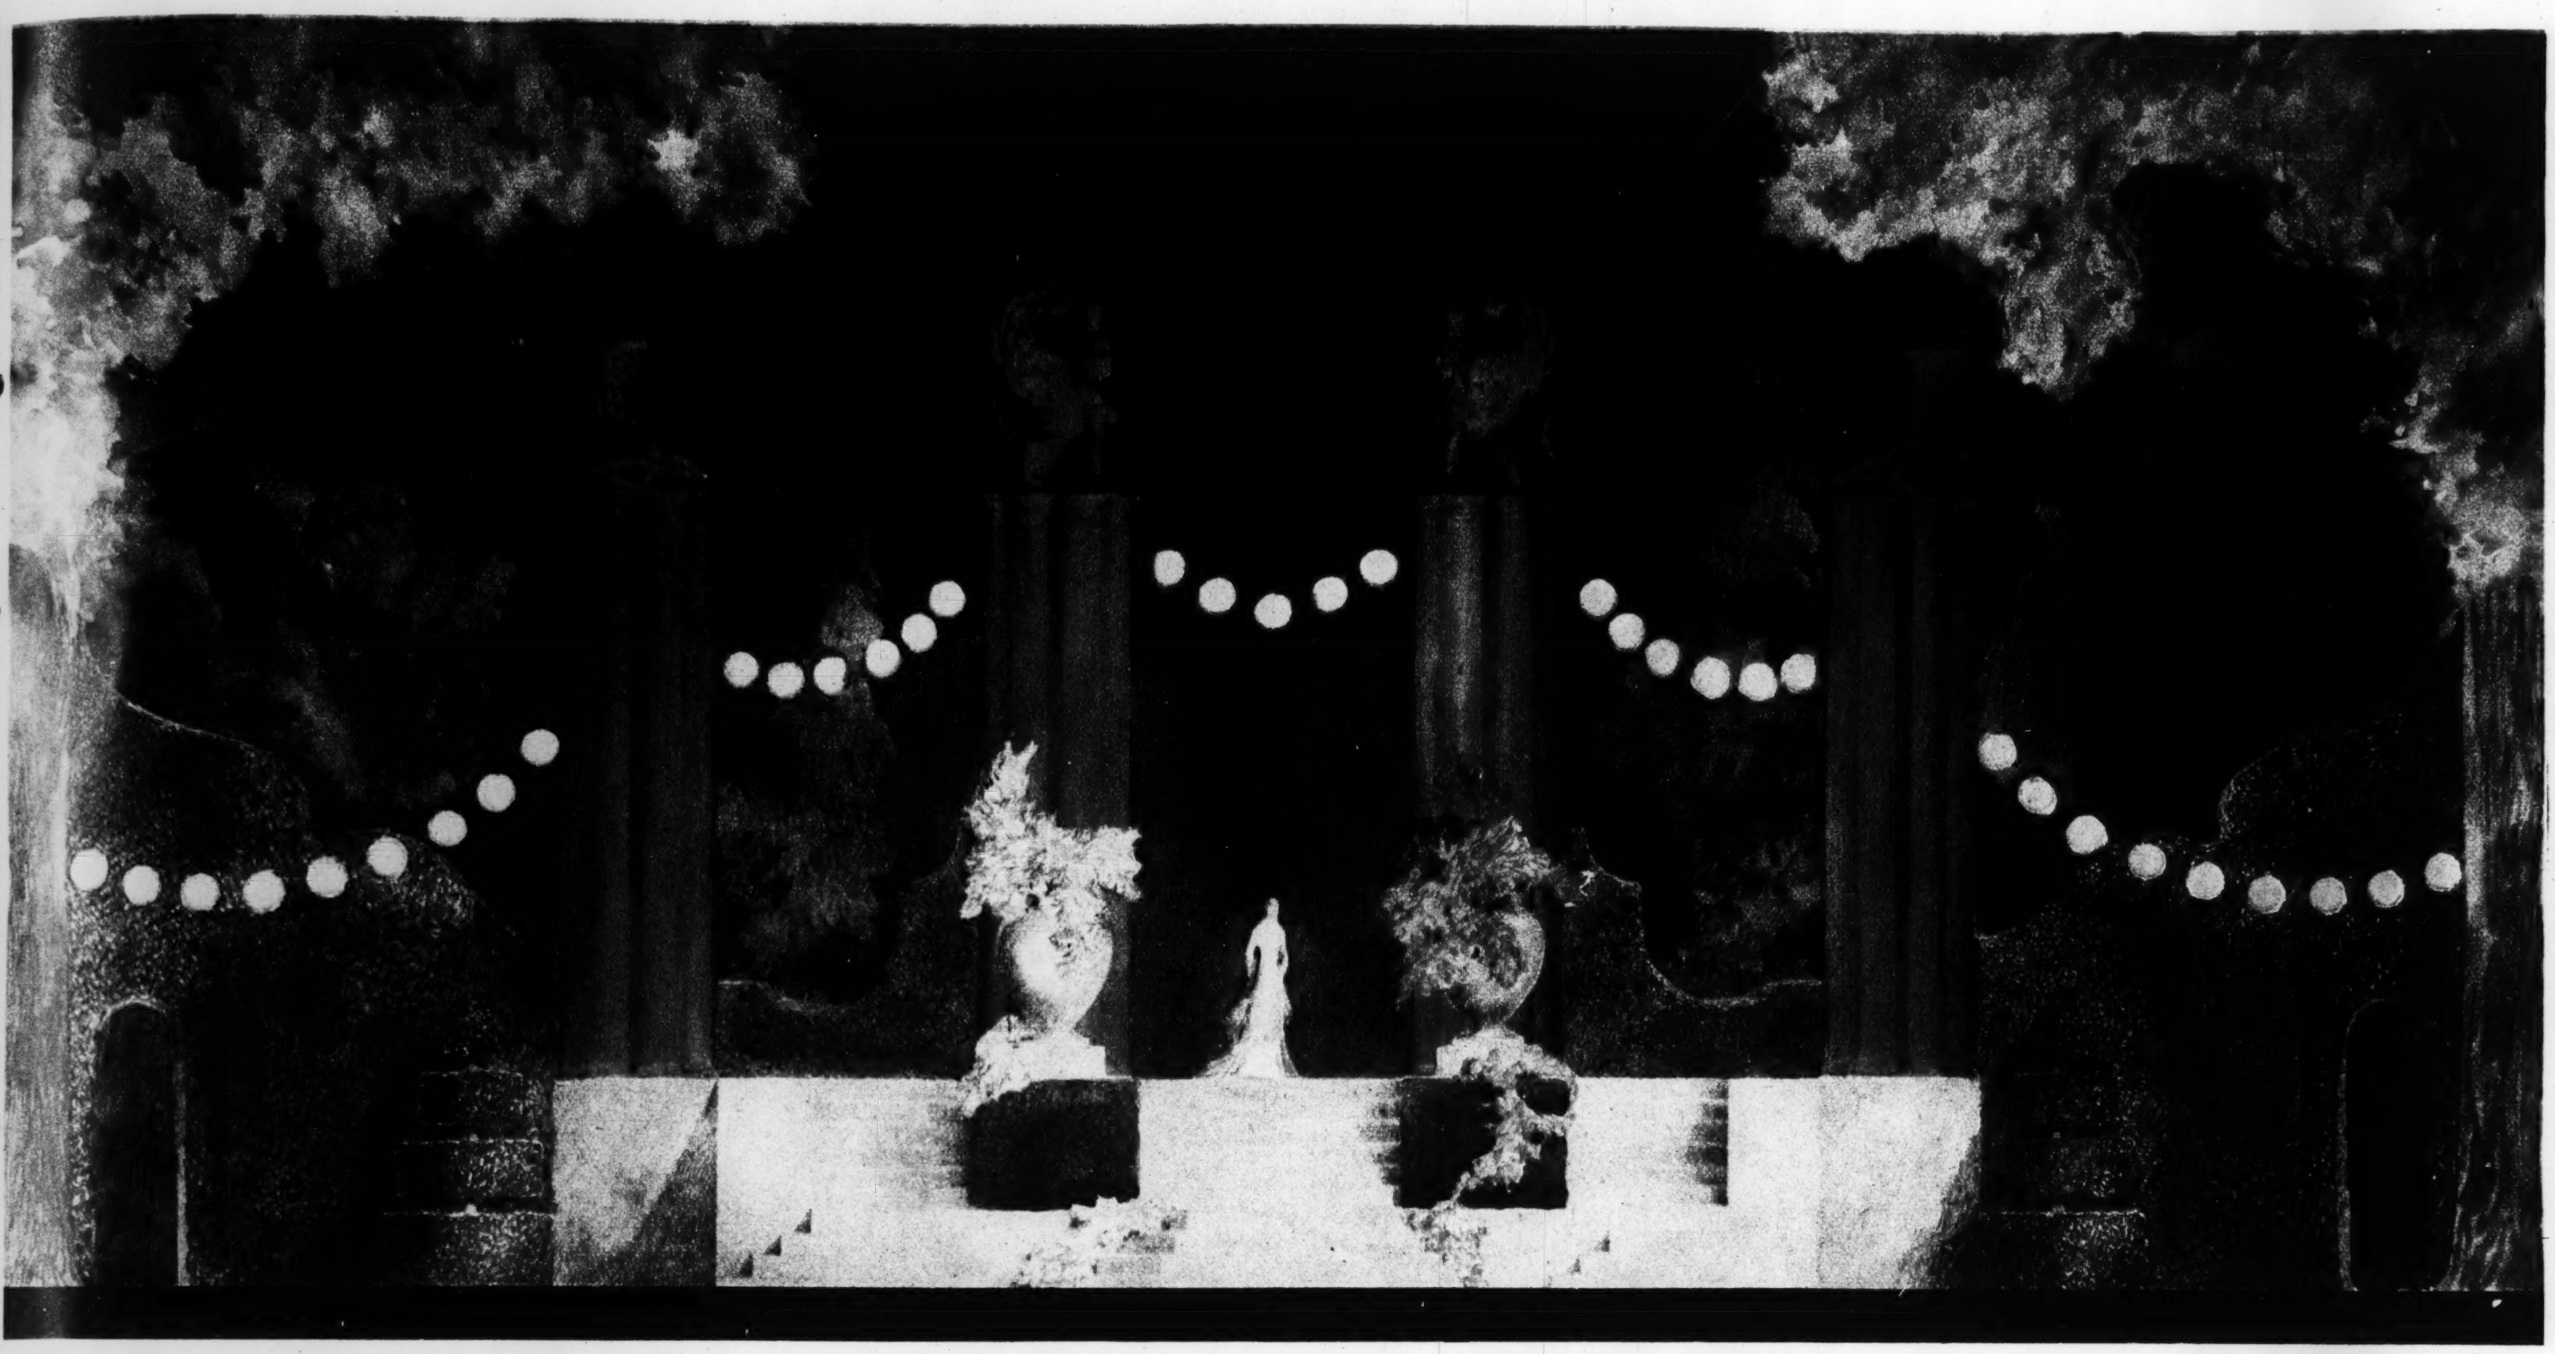
Sunday June 7, 1931—Supplement of the ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH Magazine



Garden scene, Act II, of "The Street Singer."

BEHIND THE REVOLVING STAGE AT THE OPERA

Constant Movement in Three Dimensions and How It Is Brought About Under Novel Conditions in the Municipal Theater.

By a Member of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

IT WAS to be one of those scenes that make the spectators catch their breath, and, when the first delightful surprise had passed, smack their palms together in a storm of applause. Besides, it was important to the plot of the operetta. The girl and the young man whose hearts and voices were always throbbing had to be marooned by a snowstorm on an Alpine mountain top or there wasn't much sense to the rest of it. So the producers were going to help out the lovers and give the audience a thrill with a spectacularly plausible snow. They got a special light-projecting machine and fixed things up so that moving beams, shining through some gauze, would look like falling flakes of a blinding snowstorm. It was to be so realistic that one would expect the mountain climbers to start yodeling for a St. Bernard any minute.

The first night of the show—it was "Alone at Last," one of the Municipal Opera productions of last season—the girl and her adorer stood on their Alpine mountain top, bombarded each other with melody, and prepared to be marooned. And the projector did its best, but it happened that there was a moon that night, and its rays so nullified the light from the machine that the pair of tuneful sweethearts were alone at last without benefit of snow.

THE people who planned the scenic effect were chagrined, but they had learned another thing about outdoor opera: Don't forget the moon.

There are a surprising number of things like that to be learned about the mechanics of staging shows in the municipal theater in Forest Park. The unique combination of a revolving stage in an immense open-air theater calls for a special technique, which is still in its pioneering period, but which, the management plans, will reach new heights in stagecraft this season. Two of this summer's shows involve the completest use of the revolving stage ever seen in America.

These two operettas are "Three Little Girls," given last week, and "A Wonderful Night," the eighth offering of the season. In both, an entire act, with the exception of the prologue in "Three Little Girls," is played through a succession of scenes without darkening the stage and without exposing uncovered backs and sides of scenery to dispel the illusion for the audience. Scene runs into scene with a continuity of action usually seen only in motion pictures.

The way this is done in "Three Little Girls" is as follows: When the show begins the scenery has all been put in place on the turntable. The prologue is played in a setting representing the foyer of an opera house in Vienna; the scene is rather shallow, occupying only the front part of the stage. At its conclusion the lights go out—an accepted convention for indicating a lapse of time in the action of the play—and the prologue setting is removed from the darkened stage. This removal leaves in view of the audience, when the lights go on, the setting for Scene 1, a courtyard, which occupies almost half of the turntable. As this scene ends the stage starts turning clockwise and the men's chorus files through the door, to be discovered in a cobbler's shop, singing, when Scene 2 comes in view. This is a constantly moving scene. By the time the song is finished it has disappeared from sight of the audience, and Scene 3, a garden, faces the footlights. Then, while the turntable is carrying the garden away, occurs what might be called a scenelet. In a small space on the edge of the turntable is an arch, under which two of the principals stand and sing as the stage revolves. Their song ends when Scene 4 is in position. This is the courtyard again, where the act proper began. The turntable has made, therefore, one complete revolution in the progress of the act.

In "A Wonderful Night," Act II contains seven scenes which follow one another without an interval for the shifting of scenery. The scenes are laid in a house in Vienna, and when the action shifts from one room to another the actors merely walk through a door into the new setting as the stage revolves to present it to the audience. An uninterrupted continuity of action is achieved. Incidentally, the furnishings used are authentic reproductions of those found in such houses about 100 years ago—the period with which the operatta deals.

In the show which opens tomorrow night, "The Street Singer," the second act setting of which is shown at the top of this page, there will be no turning of the stage in view of the audience, as the piece does not require changes of scene within an act. In most of the other productions of the current season, however, the advantages of the revolving stage will be utilized. The mobile platform was used effectively last year, but an effort is being made to employ it with increased effectiveness this summer, largely through careful designing of scenery to bring out three dimensions, thus giving an effect of completeness. The exterior of a cottage in "Music in May," for example, will not be a flat expanse of painted canvas, but will show part of the roof and sides of the house as well as the front.

FURTHERMORE, there will be more use made of the theater's natural scenery, notably the two great oak trees on either side of the stage. When possible, a scene described in the script as a ballroom will become a garden on the stage in Forest Park.

Improvement has been made, also, in the mechanism of the turntable. The cable around its edge which caused trouble occasionally last year by slipping has been made more secure, and it is believed that now the stage can be depended on to operate reliably.

The revolving stage was installed here at the beginning of last season, and it was announced at the time that it was the first outdoor revolving stage in the world. The circular wooden platform, with its steel and bronze mechanism, electrically operated, cost about $12,000. It is 47 feet in diameter, and its edge comes within four feet of the footlights. The full width of the stage is about 25 feet more than that of the revolving section. The turntable takes a minute and three-quarters to make a complete revolution.

The work of devising the scenic effects, of providing the background for the singing, dancing and romancing with which summer opera goers are being regaled these evenings, is largely in the hands of Herbert Moore, art director of the Municipal Opera. He is chief experimenter in this laboratory which is developing a distinctive technique of stage mechanics.

Moore, a member of the Shuberts' theatrical organization, began his work with the Municipal Opera last year, when Milton Shubert was placed in charge of the enterprise. He was brought back for the current season, in which J. J. Shubert is general productions manager. This is the first outdoor theater in which he has practiced his profession, but he has been designing scenery for New York stages for a good many years. Originally he was a painter and illustrator, having been a pupil of Howard Pyle's.

Preparing the Forest Park stage for its shows is a far different matter from planning the scenic part of a New York production, Moore finds. For one thing, the local stage is much bigger than those in Manhattan, where the width rarely exceeds 32 feet, and the vast space to be filled here creates both difficulties and opportunities. Useful devices for narrowing the stage are the "tormentors," heavy, box-like pieces of scenery which slide out on tracks from the sides almost to the edge of the revolving section; they are a few feet nearer the footlights than the center of the turntable.

Another thing that causes a bit of brain-racking is the fact that scenery for the Municipal Opera must be versatile. It is too expensive to be used only one week—for one show, that is—and then discarded. It must be so designed that with slight alteration—repainting, changing a door or window, or something of the kind—it can be made to look like something else and serve in other productions than the one for which it was first built.

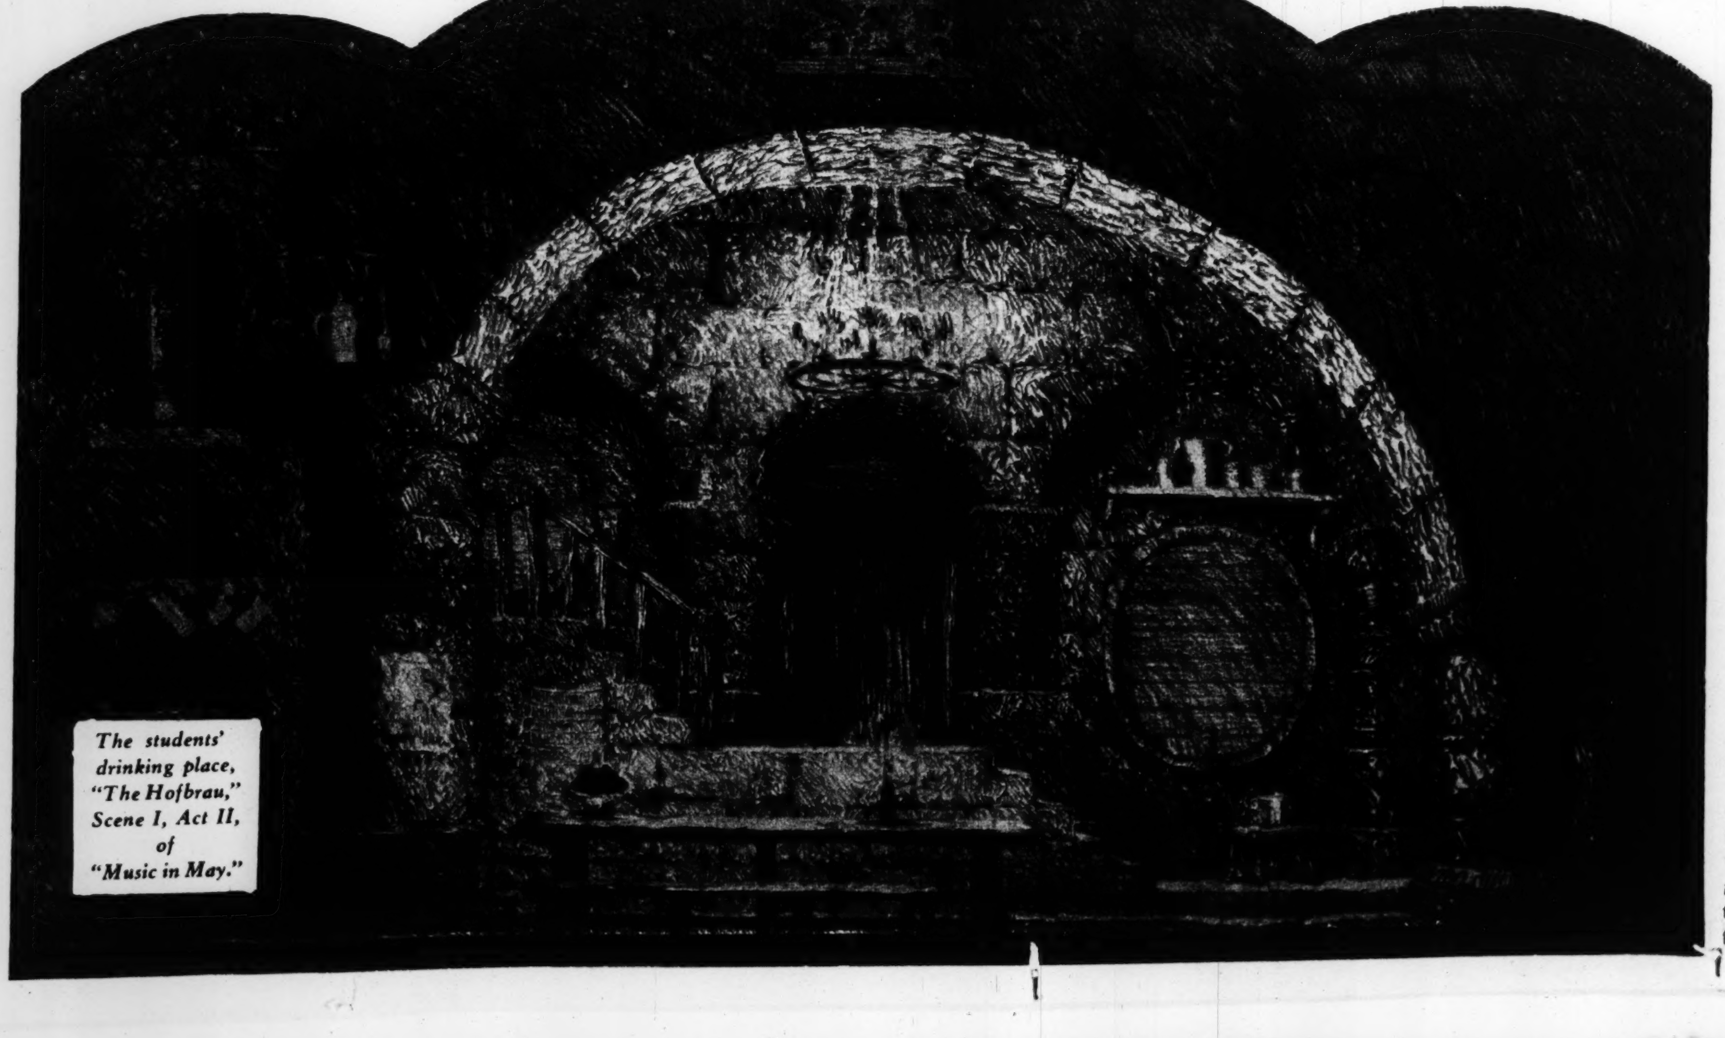
THE "inn piece," an archway and stairs, was used in "The Student Prince," "Alone at Last," "Blossom Time" and one or two other shows last year. The rathskeller setting for Scene 1, Act II, of "Music in May," shown at bottom of the page, will see service, in somewhat altered appearance, in other productions this season.

Lack of a front curtain, of a ceiling and of a back drop makes further call on the ingenuity in staging the local operettas. With no ceiling there is no gridiron, the framework above the stage of an indoor theater, from which much of the scenery is dropped.

The principal pieces of scenery at Forest Park must be built very substantially, so they won't be blown over. Some weigh a ton or two, Moore estimates, and are mounted on wheeled platforms. One such piece is 40 feet long, 16 feet thick and 38 feet high. Wind also makes it inadvisable to use curtains in big archways.

Rain is another factor which has to be taken into account. The canvas which covers the wooden framework of the sets is waterproofed, and when glue is used, a special kind, unaffected by water, is employed. Even the lighting must be planned with the weather in mind, and the changing conditions of the night sky. Rain, falling on hot spotlights sometimes cracks the lenses.

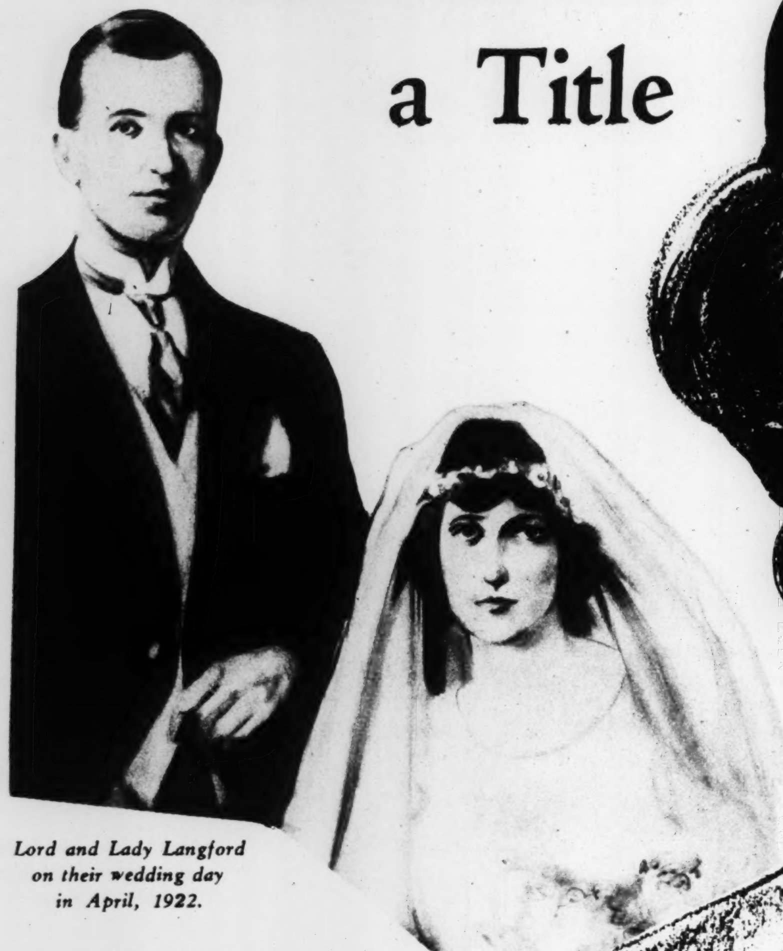
With these and a few thousand other problems to deal with, Art Director Moore came to St. Louis several weeks before the present season began, and by the time the first production was presented he had completed the scenic plans for the next four.



The students' drinking place, "The Hofbrau," Scene 1, Act II, of "Music in May."

The Waitress Who Lost a Husband and Gained a Title

Why Lady Langford's Entrance Into the Peerage Has Been More of a Tragedy Than a Triumph.



Lord and Lady Langford on their wedding day in April, 1922.

LONDON.

QUITE unimportant people snap their fingers at Lady Langford, carelessly call her "Miss," and speak sharply to her if the muffins are too crisp or the marmalade is too thin. For the peeress is a waitress. In a teashop just off the Strand she works, not as an adventuress or as a democratic gesture, but to earn a living.

The wife of the seventh Baron Langford has been waiting on patrons of the teashop since 1927, but she has been waiting on her husband longer than that—waiting for him to come back to her. She married Clotworthy Wellington Thomas Edward Rowley in 1922, and the next year he sailed away to seek his fortune. When his wife learned, early this year, that he had just become Lord Langford, she hadn't even heard of him for a long, long time.

On the death of the sixth baron, the missing husband, his nephew and heir to the Irish title, was found in Melbourne, Australia, where he was working as an odd-job man. He accepted his title, but seemed to be in no hurry to return to the British Isles. He had acquired another wife and probably realized that this might cause complications, even for a peer. "I intend to stay by my Australian bride," he declared.

So his first wife, the peeress-waitress, continues to wait in London. But she has told her story to Scotland Yard, and also to the public. In a series of articles in the London Daily Express, signed "By Lady Langford," she has related the details of an obscure Irish girl's romance with a scion of nobility.

Flo Shiel was a waitress when she met Rowley. Her father, an insurance broker, was an invalid, and the family had encountered financial difficulties, so the girl had gone to work in a tearoom in Dublin. Rowley was introduced to her at a party. He was 36 years old then, and seemed to her very debonair and charming. She was only 20, and impressionable. She fell in love, and he fell into the habit of dropping into the tearoom in the afternoon and talking with her as she waited on him. Presently he was taking her places in the evening. And his formidable array of Christian names had been reduced for her to "Teddy." In a short time he proposed.

She tells of those early days of love as follows:

"It was my first proposal. I was thrilled and flattered. He came to my home in Ballsbridge, a suburb of Dublin, and met my family. Four weeks after our meeting we were engaged.

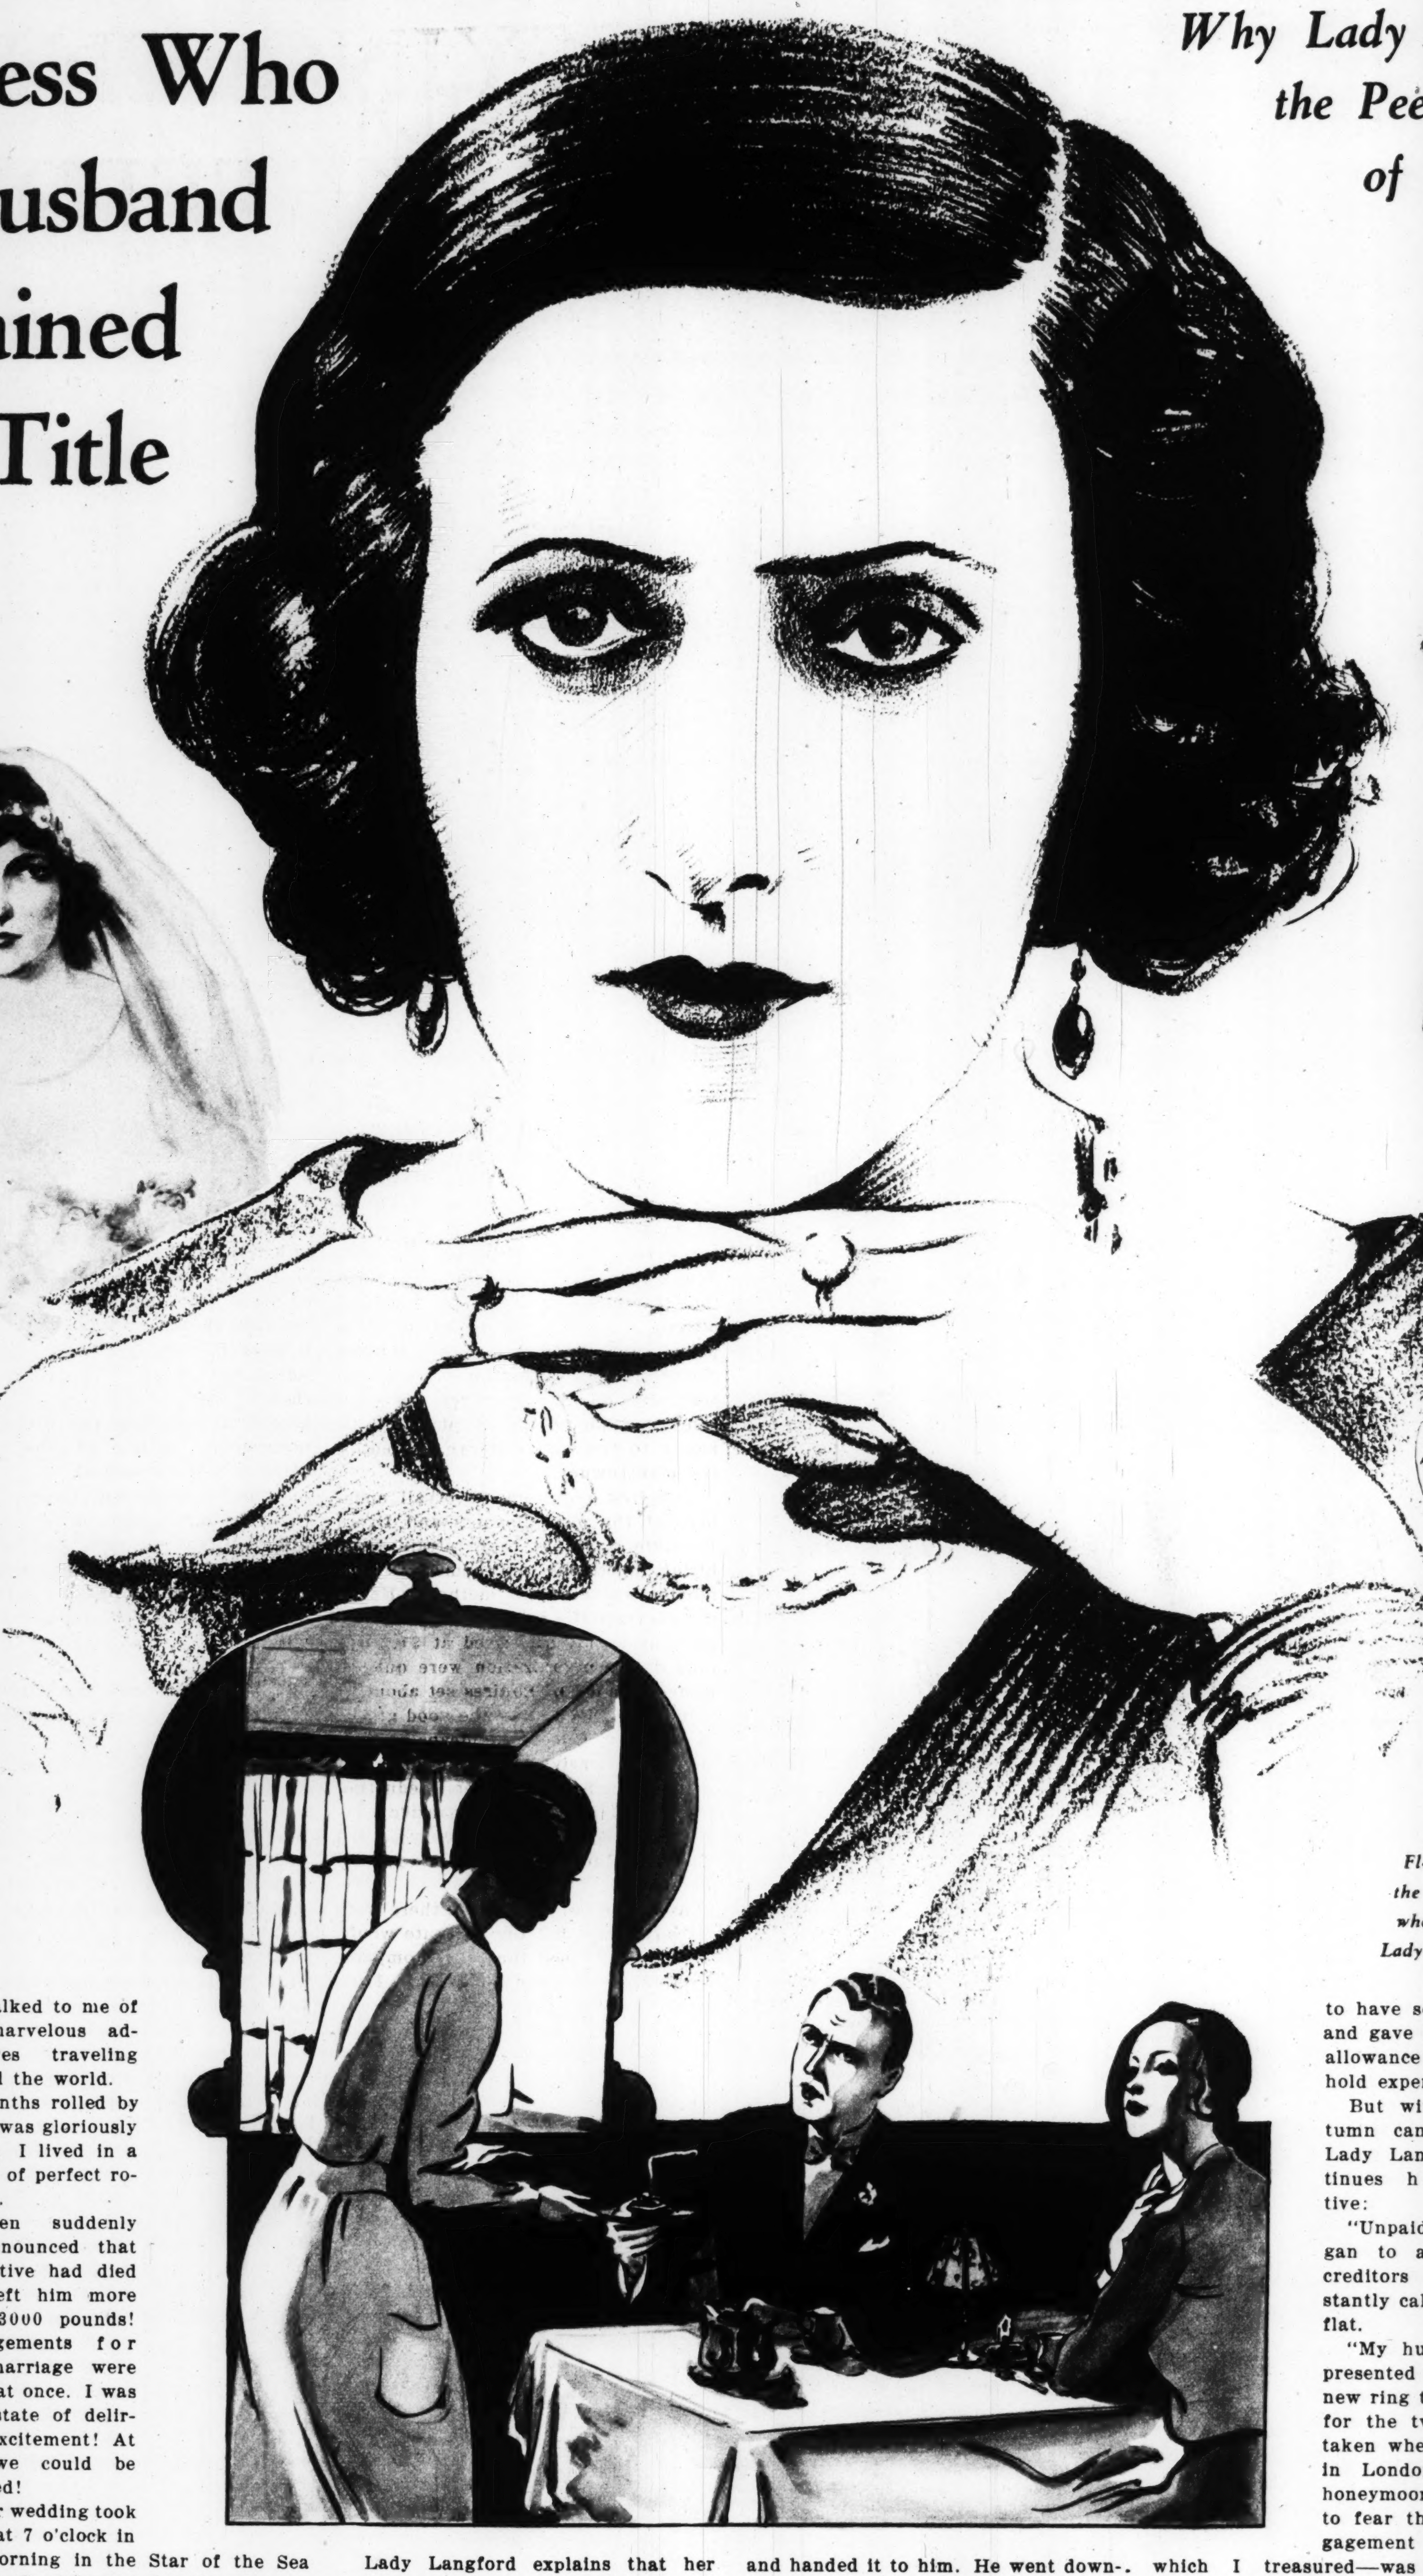
"There was always talk of money. He explained to me that he was 'short' for the time being, but that as soon as he received certain money we would get married.

"He continued to come to Bonne Bouche (the tearoom where she worked) almost daily, and every evening we went out together. He danced well, had a beautiful baritone voice, and talked to me of his marvelous adventures traveling around the world.

"Months rolled by and I was gloriously happy. I lived in a dream of perfect romance.

"Then suddenly he announced that a relative had died and left him more than 3000 pounds! Arrangements for our marriage were made at once. I was in a state of delirious excitement! At last we could be married!

"Our wedding took place at 7 o'clock in the morning in the Star of the Sea Church, Sandymount, Dublin, on April 26, 1922. And at 9 o'clock we sailed from Kingstown to spend our honeymoon in London."



Flo Shiel, the waitress, who is now Lady Langford.

THEY had a great time in London for a few days, sight-seeing and theater-going. Thinking back to that time, Lady Langford likes to read a letter her husband wrote her mother while they were on the wedding trip.

"Darling Mother:

"I wish you were here with us. It would be so lovely. Flo is looking well, mother, and I am taking good care of her; She is so very precious to me.

"I simply glory in taking my darling about; she loves it so, and she is jolly good to me. Mother mine, I would like to express in words my very deep affection for you, but I cannot, but you will always find me at the back of you to keep your spirits up. I think you know that.

"You must not worry—please try not—there's a dear.

"We were both delighted with the announcement of the wedding, and I am having the name inserted in the peerage before we come home.

"Please remember me to all at home. With much love,

Your loving son, Teddy."

Lady Langford explains that her husband knew then that he was second in line for the barony of Langford, but neither of them thought he would ever succeed to the title, which was created in 1800.

That didn't keep them from being happy. But before the honeymoon was over their joy was clouded by something else—money trouble. In her newspaper story the wife writes:

"A day or so after this letter was written Teddy told me that we were going to change our hotel. I did not question his plans, and so we moved to an hotel near Victoria.

"The day before we left my husband came quietly into our bedroom and closed the door. 'Flo,' he began in a serious voice, 'I am afraid, my dear, that I will have to borrow your engagement ring. We are temporarily short of money.'

"I took off my engagement ring and handed it to him. He went downstairs and came back again in the same serious mood. 'Is there anything wrong?' I asked him. 'You must tell me everything now because I am your wife.'

"'Yes' he admitted. 'I am so terribly sorry, but I must have something more.' So I took off my own diamond ring from the other hand and gave it to him.

"We were able to leave for Dublin the next day. I had faith and implicit trust in him. Parting with my rings had simply saddened me for a while. As we started for Ireland I forgot, and nestled happily against his shoulder in the railway carriage."

Lady Langford as a waitress in a tea shop off the Strand.

Rowley and his bride went to housekeeping in a little flat in Dublin, and the husband started looking for work. He seemed to have some money and gave his wife an allowance for household expenses.

But with the autumn came trouble. Lady Langford continues her narrative:

"Unpaid bills began to arrive, and creditors were constantly calling at the flat.

"My husband had presented me with a new ring to make up for the two he had taken when we were in London on our honeymoon. I began to fear that my engagement ring—which I treasured—was definitely lost. Then one day a man came from a firm of Dublin jewelers when my husband was out, and I had to give the new ring back to him. He showed me the bill; it had not been paid.

"After Christmas the companies where he had bought our furniture began to call and complain. They made visit after visit, and I usually saw them, and tried to smooth things over, but it was no use. Gradually our furnishings began to disappear. First a rug, then some pictures, then chairs, and so on.

"I IMPLORED and begged Teddy to get busy and earn some money so that we could save our home. The rent had been paid a year in advance out of my husband's legacy. I was thankful for that. Where the rest of his money went I never knew."

Finally the debt-ridden pair abandoned their flat and went to live with the wife's family. The net of creditors, Lady Langford writes, "was gradually closing in around us."

A few more weeks, and Teddy announced he must try his luck in London. "He would find work there and pay off all those bills," says his wife's narrative. "Then he would come back to Dublin, and we would be happy once more."

Lord Langford.

So on a morning in the spring of 1923, Rowley's young wife stood on the quay at Kingstown and tearfully waved good-by as her husband sailed away. That was the last she has seen of him.

For a time Rowley wrote frequently to his wife. Then the messages stopped and a registered letter sent to London was returned with the notation: "Addressee gone to Canada."

Later that year a son was born to the unhappy wife. The baby lived only a few weeks. Wanting news of her husband, Mrs. Rowley appealed to the police, and the missing man was located in Montreal. According to Lady Langford's story, he told the police he had left his wife provided for but was unable to contribute anything more to her support at that time.

Continuing the account of her experiences, Lady Langford writes:

"I continued to live at home with my memories until suddenly the next summer—June, 1924—I received a letter from Teddy, written from the Salvation Army hotel in London. . . . He was cold and defiant. "What is your idea of the future?" he asked me.

"I COULD not understand it. My parents, however, took a firm view of the situation and sent me to a solicitor. The lawyer and Teddy exchanged several lettters, and the correspondence was finally terminated by my husband, who announced he was going to Australia.

"There have been no letters since. I have received nothing—no word, no money, nothing."

It became necessary for her to earn a living, so she came to London and worked for a while at the General Nursing Council. Her health broke and she went home. Returning to London in 1927, she got a job as a waitress in the teashop where she now works. She lives in a flat in Chelsea with her mother and a young brother.

Last January, William Chambre Rowley, Lord Langford of County Meath, Ireland, a retired Lieutenant-Colonel, died, and his nephew succeeded him. And a waitress in a brown smock learned that as the wife of Clotworthy Wellington Thomas Edward Rowley—Teddy, for short—she was Lady Langford, a peeress. She also learned what it was like to be besieged by reporters and photographers.

The new Lord Langford, according to news dispatches, admitted he had two living wives. He had married Gertrude Summer Hayes, a 47-year-old musician, in Melbourne last June. In the marriage certificate he was said to have described himself as a widower.

Informed that his first wife was living in London and using the name of Lady Langford, he was quoted as saying: "The matter will have to be faced out. I intend going to London in July to take up my title."

Just what the result of this "facing out" will be is problematical. The waitress wife apparently is not inclined to efface herself from the situation. In the last of her series of articles she says: "He (Lord Langford) has told Australian newspaper men that he married after hearing that I was dead. That may or may not be so. He has said, furthermore, that he has decided to stand by the woman of his second marriage.

"I cannot help viewing this amazing situation a trifle dispassionately. Years of heartbreak, disappointment and drudgery for my living have taken something from me. I am afraid I am concerned only with the welfare and comfort of myself. It sounds bitter? It really is not. It is, in my opinion, just the ordinary sense that seems lacking entirely in a young girl in love in the first flush of her bridal days."

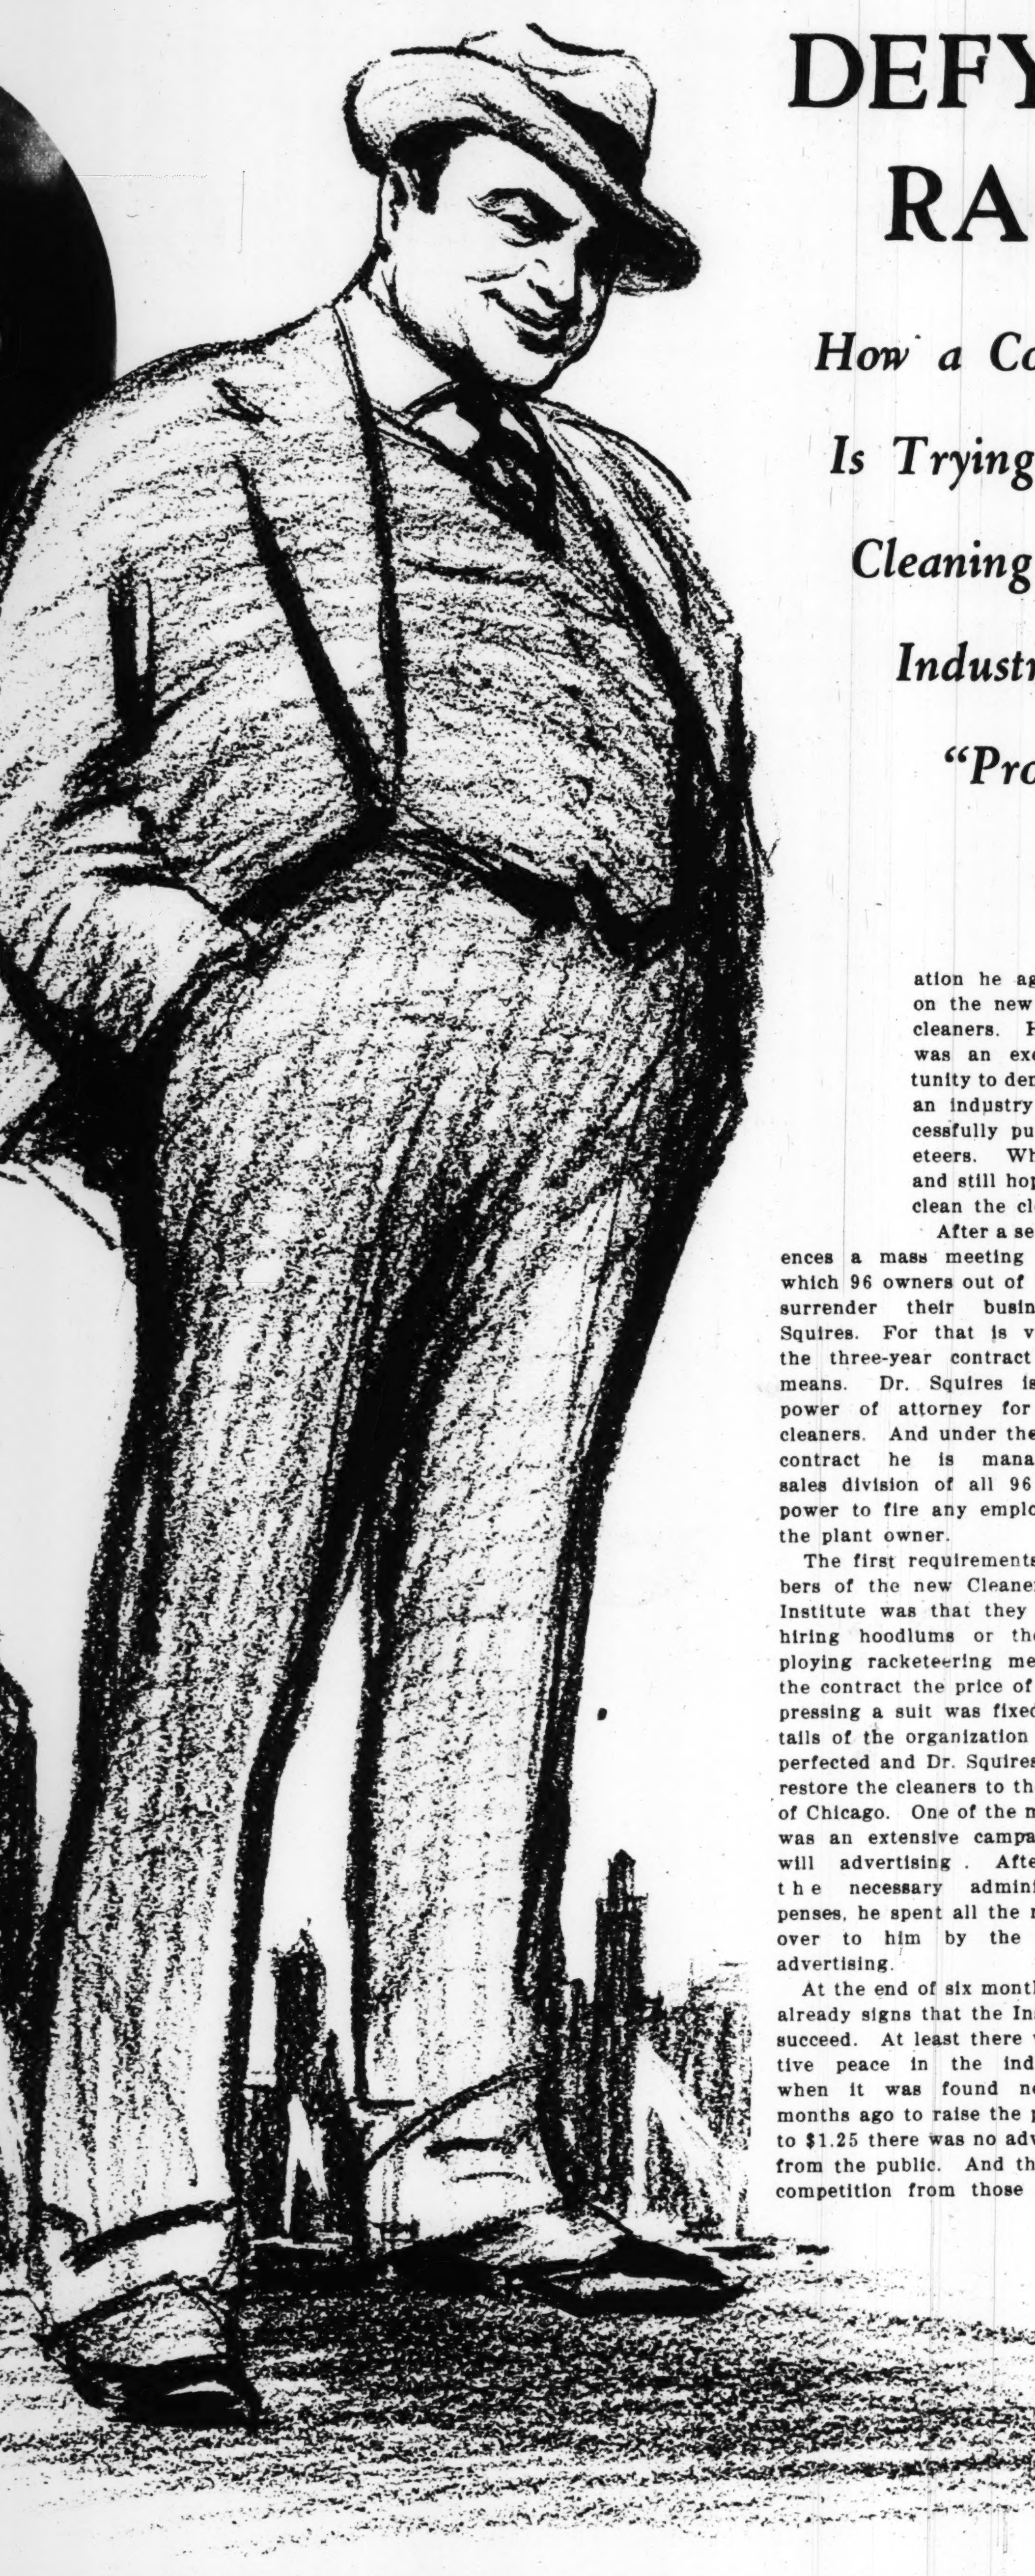
DEFYING CHICAGO'S RACKETEER KING

How a College Professor Is Trying to Free the Cleaning and Dyeing Industry From the "Protection" of Hoodlums.

Al Capone.



Dr. Benjamin M. Squires.

By M. W. CHILDS

CHICAGO.

DR. BENJAMIN M. SQUIRES, a small, retiring man, who looks just what he is—a professor of economics—has defied, publicly defied, Chicago's big shot, Alphonse (Scarface) Capone. And only a Chicagoan can fully appreciate what that means.

It is David and Goliath done in a modern setting, in slow motion pictures. For it is impossible at this time to tell whether the impact of Dr. Squires' weapon against the racketeering of Capone and his hoodlums has been effective. The casual observer would say that the stone from little David Squires' slingshot has bounced off Goliath Capone with as little effect as a beanshooter would have on a rhinoceros. But it is probably too early to tell. And, moreover, Dr. Squires is carrying on his work just as intensively as before the tilt with Capone.

The position that Dr. Squires holds as chairman of the Cleaners and Dyers Institute here is, in certain respects and on a limited scale, nearly as powerful as that of Capone. He is absolute czar of about 90 per cent of the cleaning and dyeing industry in Chicago, an industry with a $30,000,000 annual turnover. By the terms of the contract which 96 wholesale cleaners signed with Dr. Squires, he is able at any time to fire any owner out of his own plant and replace him with any manager he may care to choose. The cleaners must turn over to him 2 per cent of the gross receipts of their business, a sum that is expected to reach a half-million dollars, and he can do with it exactly as he pleases.

It is plain that the cleaners and dyers must have been desperate to surrender their industry to a professor, a man trained in the theory of economics, a quiet little man with a clipped moustache and clipped, dry speech and silver-rimmed glasses. But even a glimpse at the record shows they had plenty of cause to be desperate in the four or five years that preceded the organization of the Institute, with Squires as unqualified dictator.

THE cleaning and dyeing business by its very nature is peculiarly susceptible to the technique of a racketeer. A well-placed bomb can do a great deal of damage to a truck load of clothes, a little acid goes a long way. In their efforts over a period of several years to organize their industry along rigid lines, some cleaners themselves brought racketeering methods into play. And once they had begun to use hoodlums they were powerless, for the gangsters were not slow to realize they had overlooked a fertile field for quick profits, to be obtained by the use of threats and intimidation and these failing, by means of the bomb and the sawed-off shotgun.

The cleaners had divided up the city of Chicago and its environs among the members of their Master Cleaners and Dyers Association. Several wholesale cleaners refused to come into this association, and, likewise they refused to recognize the areas of operation into which the city had been divided. They would solicit business anywhere they wanted to, they declared. The situation was complicated by labor trouble, strikes and lockouts.

There was a long series of bombings and murders. Property valued at many thousands of dollars was destroyed. John Clay, a business agent for the laundry drivers' union, was killed by a shot as he sat in the office of the union. The notorious Tim Murphy was shot to death in his home as a result, it has been fairly well established, of his attempt, upon coming out of Leavenworth penitentiary, to muscle in on the cleaning racket.

Cleaning prices soared, for the cost of the bombing and the murders and the acid-spraying had to be passed on to the consumer. In the spring of 1928 the charge was $2 for cleaning and pressing a suit and $2.50 for a dress. A great many Chicagoans refused to pay this. They sent their suits and dresses to Peoria and Springfield and to Davenport, Iowa, and the small, unorganized retail cleaners did likewise and so did the neighborhood tailors.

By this time many of the cleaners, particularly those outside the association, frankly avowed their gang connections. The Central Cleaners, on the North Side, made "Bugs" Moran head of their strong-arm department, and in a short time he had become a member of the firm. And Becker & Company, a large wholesale and retail firm on the South Side, let it be known that Al Capone had become an incorporated member of their firm. In fact, the firm made a public announcement of this fact. Walter Walker, attorney for the Employers' Association of Chicago, and at that time a special prosecutor in charge of rackets in the District Attorney's office, had a two-hour conference with Capone concerning his entrance into the new field. The big fellow told Walker not to get unduly excited, that he had merely invested $30,000 in the Becker company and was going to be content with protecting his money, without undue excursion into free-lance racketeering.

With the leading cleaners outside the association protected by the magic names of Capone, Moran, Guzik, the next phase was a price-cutting war. The unhappy cleaners saw the rate pared to 50 cents for cleaning and pressing a suit and 65 cents for a dress. Facing almost certain bankruptcy, one of the leaders in the association telephoned Prof. Harry A. Millis, head of the economics department of the University of Chicago, and appealed to him to find some way out of the mess. Prof. Millis replied that there was probably just one man in the country capable of forming the cleaners into a sound, working organization, and that man was Dr. Squires, a lecturer on economics at the university.

IT WAS because of Dr. Squire's practical contacts with industrial problems that Prof. Millis was so certain he could do this job. Since 1923 he has been chairman of the Board of Arbitration of the clothing industry, including all men's garment making firms except two or three of the larger firms, which have their own arbitration boards. Prior to this he was for a time head of the Federal Bureau of Labor Statistics. And he is also an arbitrator for disputes arising between the American Newspaper Publishers' Association and the pressmen's union and between the master barbers and the barbers in Chicago and occasionally in certain branches of the shoe industry. He was a very busy man, settling in his firm, incisive fashion hundreds of disputes between employers and employes. After some deliberation he agreed to take on the new job with the cleaners. He believed it was an excellent opportunity to demonstrate how an industry may be successfully purged of racketeers. What he hoped and still hopes to do is to clean the cleaners.

After a series of conferences a mass meeting was held at which 96 owners out of 110 agreed to surrender their business to Dr. Squires. For that is virtually what the three-year contract they signed means. Dr. Squires is even given power of attorney for the various cleaners. And under the terms of the contract he is manager of the sales division of all 96 plants, with power to fire any employe, including the plant owner.

The first requirements of all members of the new Cleaners and Dyers Institute was that they refrain from hiring hoodlums or themselves employing racketeering methods. Under the contract the price of cleaning and pressing a suit was fixed at $1. Details of the organization were quickly perfected and Dr. Squires set about to restore the cleaners to the good graces of Chicago. One of the means he used was an extensive campaign of good-will advertising. After deducting the necessary administrative expenses, he spent all the money turned over to him by the cleaners on advertising.

At the end of six months there were already signs that the Institute would succeed. At least there was comparative peace in the industry. Even when it was found necessary two months ago to raise the price from $1 to $1.25 there was no adverse reaction from the public. And this in spite of competition from those cleaners—10 per cent of the total—who refused to come into the institute and whose prices ranged as low as 79 cents. The latter had for the most part retained their gang protectors. In one or two instances the gang had become the firm.

It was just at this time, when the machinery seemed to be functioning most smoothly that, according to Dr. Squires' story, Al Capone decided to throw a pineapple into the works. Unknown to Dr. Squires, heads of the three unions that tie into the cleaning industry, the pressers, the drivers and the cleaners, got a summons from the "Big Fellow." They were "invited" to come to headquarters in Capone's Lexington Hotel, that somber institution with its ugly mud-brown marble lobby, in which all day nonchalant men with their hats pulled over their eyes loaf casually about the elevators and the entrance onto South Michigan avenue. They might be traveling salesmen killing time, but they're not. Into the presence of Capone, in his elaborately furnished suite on the second floor, the union representatives were taken. The big boy was in a friendly enough mood. They had a few drinks and then Capone explained his proposition.

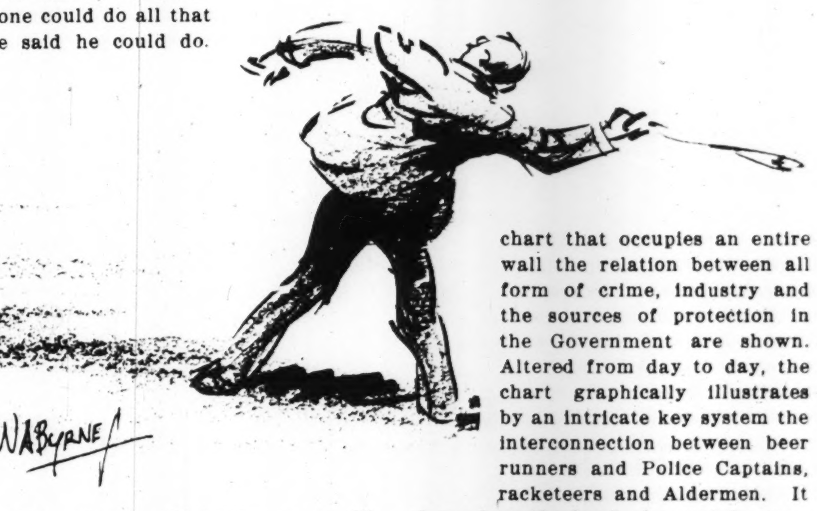
For three-fourths of the total sum which the cleaners paid into the Institute—about $250,000 this past year—he would perform certain stipulated services. First, he would swing the backsliding 10 per cent into line. Second, he would see to it that each cleaner paid his 2 per cent dues on the dot each month. Third, he would make sure there would be no labor trouble. He told the union delegation to take this offer to Squires.

Afraid of the consequences of a refusal, the union representatives went to see Dr. Squires. They outlined the proposal as Capone had made it to them. Dr. Squires hesitated not at all. He said flatly, "No." Moreover, he issued a statement to the newspapers telling of the offer and of its refusal.

"The Cleaners and Dyers Institute hereby goes on record publicly," he said, "as being opposed to gangster influence, control or affiliation, and asks the support of the public in ridding the industry of this influence.

"THE Institute is assured by the United States District Attorney, the State's Attorney of Cook County, the Chicago Association of Commerce, the Police Comissioner and the Chicago Federation of Labor that they will give us their full support in fighting this and other attempts of gangsters, hoodlums and racketeers to 'muscle in' on this or any other legitimate business. The Mayor of Chicago also has assured us he will back his law enforcement agencies to the limit."

"I don't doubt," said Dr. Squires to this writer, "that Capone could do all that he said he could do. And do it very efficiently, more efficiently probably than anyone else in Chicago. His name carries such a weight of fear that I am sure that the cleaners would pay their 2 per cent dues much more promptly for him than they do for us—we have had some difficulty in making collections. But, of course, the objective of the Institute was to rid the cleaning industry of the influence of the Capones."



DR. SQUIRES has never received any direct communication from Capone nor any other gangster. Nor does he have any fears for his personal safety. It is his opinion that the gangsters strike only at those who have invited gang affiliations and then have hedged upon their agreements.

He believes that other industries will almost of necessity have to form defensive institutes similar to that of the cleaners and dyers and that eventually the Federal anti-trust laws will be altered to permit affiliation between associations in various states, with, he adds, proper measures to protect the consumer.

Naturally, there has been opposition. Dr. Squires, in anonymous letters and mimeographed circulars, has been called a ruthless czar. And the Employers' Association of Chicago is against this type of organization, holding that it jeopardizes the rights of the individuals, inherent in the American system. G. L. Hostetter, executive secretary, points to a recent strike involving a firm that remained outside the Institute.

An injunction was obtained in this strike and three union leaders were sentenced to jail for contempt of court for persisting in maintaining a picket line. Hostetter claims that racketeering methods were employed in this strike, similar to those used before the formation of the Institute, with the objective, he contends, of forcing the firm, the Michigan Cleaners, to join the Institute.

The Employers' Association has what is probably the most complete data on racketeering in the city. On a large chart that occupies an entire wall the relation between all form of crime, industry and the sources of protection in the Government are shown. Altered from day to day, the chart graphically illustrates by an intricate key system the interconnection between beer runners and Police Captains, racketeers and Aldermen. It shows how the head of a certain gambling syndicate is also involved in rackets that prey on industry and the the law. Scattered crosses indicate those who are out of the picture—double crosses for those in prison and single crosses for those recently slain.

The chart shows, too, that it is not only the cleaning and dyeing industry that is racket ridden. Racketeering associations have muscled into the oldest industries and the newest, ranging from the Meat Cutters' Association to the Miniature Golf Association. One of the newest is the Photo Finishers' Association — each little neighborhood photographer must pay his meed of tribute.

And the response to Dr. Squires' dictatorship in the Cleaners and Dyers Institute indicates clearly that Chicago is not the only ctly which is infested by racketeers. Innumerable inquiries have come to him, from a bookbinding concern in New York, from a beauty and barber shop supply house in Ohio, from the millwrights of Chicago, from a greeting card concern in New York and from a butchers' supply company in Kansas City. They all want to know whether or not in Dr. Squires' opinion it would be possible similarly to organize their own industries. So, perhaps, he is only the first of his type, a new figure in industry.

The Boy Who "Had Every Chance" and Died a Criminal's Death

How Gangland Claimed Roy Sloane Despite Education, Talent, Personality and a Cultured Background.

By ARTHUR STRAWN

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

NEW YORK.

JUST when sociologists and experts on crime think they have discovered why young men go wrong a case comes up that confounds all their neatly constructed theories and leaves the pressing problems still begging a solution.

When Francis "Two Gun" Crowley, 21-year-old youngster, murdered a Long Island policeman a few weeks ago, and then was captured after a spectacular seige in a New York apartment house, the community was properly horrified. It was discovered that Crowley had actually been a police character for years, that he had long been known to the authorities as a dangerous type, and that he had earned his sinister sobriquet several years ago by having two guns in his possession when arrested for participation in a hold-up.

The Crowley case received wide publicity, and again a demand arose for the explanation of the phenomenon of a boy turning in early youth to a life of crime and finding himself definitely on his way to the electric chair at the age when most other young men are preparing to cast their first vote. The question, however, did not remain unanswered for long. Crowley's early training explained the entire business. Sociologists and other experts pointed out that he was a boy of the streets, raised in the slums, with no parents to guide him, no home life and no education. His life, so thundering newspaper editorials declared, was a product of society's irresponsible attitude toward the poorer classes. Do away with the slums, said the sociologists, and you do away with crime. Most everyone whose opinion found expression in the newspapers and pulpits seemed to be of the belief that the problem of the youthful criminal was due to the simple fact that opportunities for a good education and training had been lacking. Give youth a chance to obtain training for a useful life, they said, and youth will not turn to crime.

And then, just when the experts had analyzed and settled the problem to their own satisfaction, Roy Herbert Sloane, a young man with a good family background, who had enjoyed educational opportunities, and who gave signs of possessing certain unusual talents, was "put on the spot" in New York and shot to death. All the background that Crowley lacked, Sloane had enjoyed. Yet Sloane, too, had turned to a life of crime when he was 16 years old and has ended his career by being executed by fellow criminals instead of by the duly constituted authorities. With entirely different backgrounds the two boys have come to practically the same end, it appears, and the experts who so glibly accounted for Crowley in terms of sociological background are scratching their heads in bewilderment, and are forced to admit the problem is perhaps a little more complicated than they had been willing to admit just a few short weeks ago.

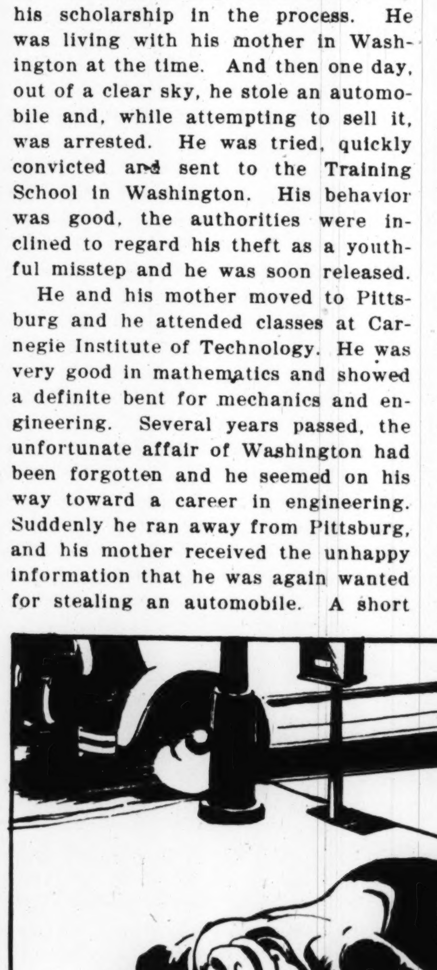
WHAT makes the Sloane case so interesting to students of psychology is the fact that he not only had a good background but seemed to be the possessor of talents which might have won him outstanding success in life were it not for that still unaccounted-for criminal tendency that first disgraced him and then took his life.

Sloane was only 26 years old when shotgun slugs fired from a maroon-colored sedan cut him down as he was standing in front of an uptown speakeasy. As criminal careers go nowadays, he was no longer a youngster. But his first serious brush with the police occurred when he was 16, and the 10 years that followed have been curiously marked by an alternation of scholarship, in and out of school, and criminal activity.

Sloane's father was a Congregationalist minister who served successfully in a number of Middle Western churches before resigning from the ministry to go into business in Alabama. His mother, Mrs. Anna Bogenholm Sloane, is a woman of the intellectual type. She has been prominently identified with child welfare work. She is the holder of several university degrees, has written a number of books and is founder of the National Arts and Crafts Institute in Washington. She is a student of Oriental religions and in recent years has been interested in popularizing a religion of her own making, based on certain Oriental teaching. Thus, while Crowley roamed the slums of New York as a child, Sloane was being raised in a home in which religion and books and cultural pursuits were the very atmosphere.

Sloane had completed his high school course when he was 16 years old and had distinguished himself by his scholarship in the process. He was living with his mother in Washington at the time. And then one day, out of a clear sky, he stole an automobile and, while attempting to sell it, was arrested. He was tried, quickly convicted and sent to the Training School in Washington. His behavior was good, the authorities were inclined to regard his theft as a youthful misstep and he was soon released.

He and his mother moved to Pittsburg and he attended classes at Carnegie Institute of Technology. He was very good in mathematics and showed a definite bent for mechanics and engineering. Several years passed, the unfortunate affair of Washington had been forgotten and he seemed on his way toward a career in engineering. Suddenly he ran away from Pittsburg, and his mother received the unhappy information that he was again wanted for stealing an automobile. A short time later he was captured in Akron, Ohio. He was returned to Pittsburg and sentenced to serve from three to six years for the theft. His intelligence, good breeding and appealing personality again made a favorable impression on authorities. He somehow didn't seem to be the type for whom jails are intended. And after serving only a few months of his sentence he was again released on assurances of good conduct.



With his mother he went back to Washington and the two of them enrolled for courses at George Washington University there.

THEY then decided that Columbia University offered better opportunities for his studies in engineering and he and Mrs. Sloane moved to New York. He took courses in engineering at Columbia and he even developed a kind of stabilizer for airplanes. This device received favorable comment from engineering experts, and men with capital were being interested in having it patented and marketed when Sloane again broke out of harness. This time he got into troublesome predicaments from which he was never to free himself.

While visiting Washington early in November, 1926, he was arrested on suspicion of automobile theft and "held for investigation." Nothing was proven against him and he was immediately released. Exactly two weeks later he was arrested on a similar charge at Irvington, New Jersey, and again he was discharged. But three days later he was arrested in Mount Vernon, New York, for stealing an automobile, and this time he didn't get away. He was sentenced to five years in Sing Sing. One year later, while still a prisoner, he was accused of planning a jail break, and when a set of brass knuckles was found among his possessions in his cell, seven more years were added to his sentence. That was in December, 1927.

In the meantime, H. Thornton Banks, a well-known New York attorney, who had been engaged by Mrs. Sloane to look after her son's legal interests, had become attracted to Sloane. The boy had a winning personality and a mind, and Mr. Banks was hopeful of his eventual regeneration. He suggested that Sloane should read law, and when Sloane expressed an eagerness to do so, Mr. Banks provided him with the books.

For three years Sloane spent his abundant leisure in Sing Sing reading law. He appealed his conviction on the charge of grand larceny, and when the hearing of the appeal took place in a Westchester court last December he decided to argue his own case. He did it with astonishing effectiveness. He proved himself more capable than the average lawyer in defeating the stratagems of the State's prosecutor. Adroitly he produced two long-term Sing Sing prisoners who confessed to the theft of which he had once been found guilty. He accounted for the whole affair by telling the jury a story to the effect that he had really been taken advantage of by a person whom he had mistaken for a friend. His youthful earnestness and likeable personality, coupled with a genuinely moving plea, impressed the jury and the original conviction was reversed.

This was a legal triumph of no mean order, but young Sloane went even further. He still had seven years to serve on the charge of possessing brass "knucks" in jail. There was another hearing, and again he succeeded, by a legal argument that lawyers called brilliant, in winning his case. He demonstrated that since he was held illegally when he tried to break out of jail, he had every right to gain his freedom if he could.

Thus he left prison with much favorable publicity. Mr. Banks gave him a job reading law in his office.

In February, two months after Sloane had argued himself out of Sing Sing, a trio of bandits pulled off a daring daylight robbery in a Fifth avenue office building. They entered an office of a jewelry firm on an upper floor and at the point of revolvers obtained $8000 worth of unset diamonds. An alarm was spread, however, and it was no time before a cordon of police had been thrown about the building. When the building was searched Sloane was found in one of the washrooms. He had neither gems nor revolver in his possession, but was identified as one of the participants, arrested and then released on $20,000 bail.

One evening just a few days before his case was to be tried he left the apartment he shared with his mother, telling her he was to meet a man who had promised him $1000 with which to finance his case. That night he made his appearance at the Mad Dot Boat Club, a speakeasy at 251 Dyckman street and, apparently by appointment, met three men who had been waiting at the bar there for him. A little later he and one of the men left together.

NO SOONER had they reached the street than a shotgun report was heard. His companions in the speakeasy disappeared, as did the man who had walked out with him and who was apparently what is known in gang parlance as a "spotter."

Sloane had been "put on the spot." A large sedan was seen speeding from the scene and police found Sloane on the sidewalk, unconscious from a wound in the abdomen. He died on the way to the hospital without regaining consciousness.

Among the objects which police found in Sloane's pockets were a mask, a false moustache and a driver's automobile license, signed in his handwriting, but made out to a fictitious person at a non-existant address. In his pocket was also an automobile key. By searching the neighborhood and trying locks of cars, it was found to fit a car parked near the scene of the shooting. The car had been stolen from its owner several weeks before Sloane's death. Apparently Sloane had continued mixing scholarship with automobile stealing to the very end.

Robert S. Brookings.

By CHARLES G. ROSS
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

IF THIS were the ordinary success story, it would relate that Robert S. Brookings, after the manner of a Horatio Alger hero, rose from a humble clerkship to become a millionaire at 46, and then retired. That would be the end of it. With Brookings, the story really begins where the money-making phase of his life ends.

For the purposes of this sketch of this St. Louisan, the story may appropriately start by introducing Mr. Brookings at the age of 80. The time is last winter, and the scene a darkened room in the Wilmer Eye Institute at Baltimore. He is there for three operations over a period of three months. Since 1925 his right eye has been practically useless, and an effort is being made to save the failing sight of the other eye.

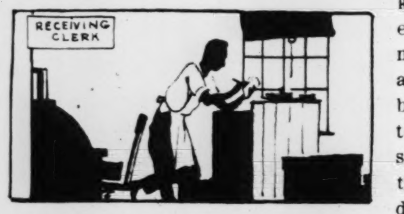
As he lies there between operations, a record of rich achievement spreads itself for his contemplation. He has made and given away millions. More than any other one man, he has brought Washington University of St. Louis to its present eminence; he has been decorated by his own and foreign governments for outstanding civilian work in the great war; he has founded the Brookings Institution of Washington, which is fast on the way to becoming as famous and important an adjunct to the social sciences as the Smithsonian Institution is to the natural sciences.

Turned inward, his sight rests, no doubt, on the satisfactions that life has given him; but it does not rest there alone. In this desperate winter of 1930, he is acutely aware that the whole system of capitalism is being subjected to fresh challenge. As at 46, when he deliberately elected to cease the pursuit of riches and devote himself to education, his mind goes adventuring into the future. He is not of those who believe, because life has been kind to them, that all is necessarily for the best in the best of all possible worlds. He is a stanch adherent of the existing social order, in its fundamentals, but he agrees with Nicholas Murray Butler and Daniel Willard and many another thoughtful leader of opinion that if capitalism is to endure, some radical changes will have to be made. He is convinced that human greed will have to be curbed; that further opportunity must be given to labor to share in the wealth that labor creates. He is impressed with the warnings from many sources that our modern American civilization, to quote his own language, "stands today at the parting of the ways, leading either to some modified form of capitalism or to some form of revolutionary communism."

Lying in the dark, he dictates his ideas to his wife, and the result is the provocative article which the Post-Dispatch published early this year, outlining a modified form of capitalism. That article and the circumstances of its production are a good measure of the man.

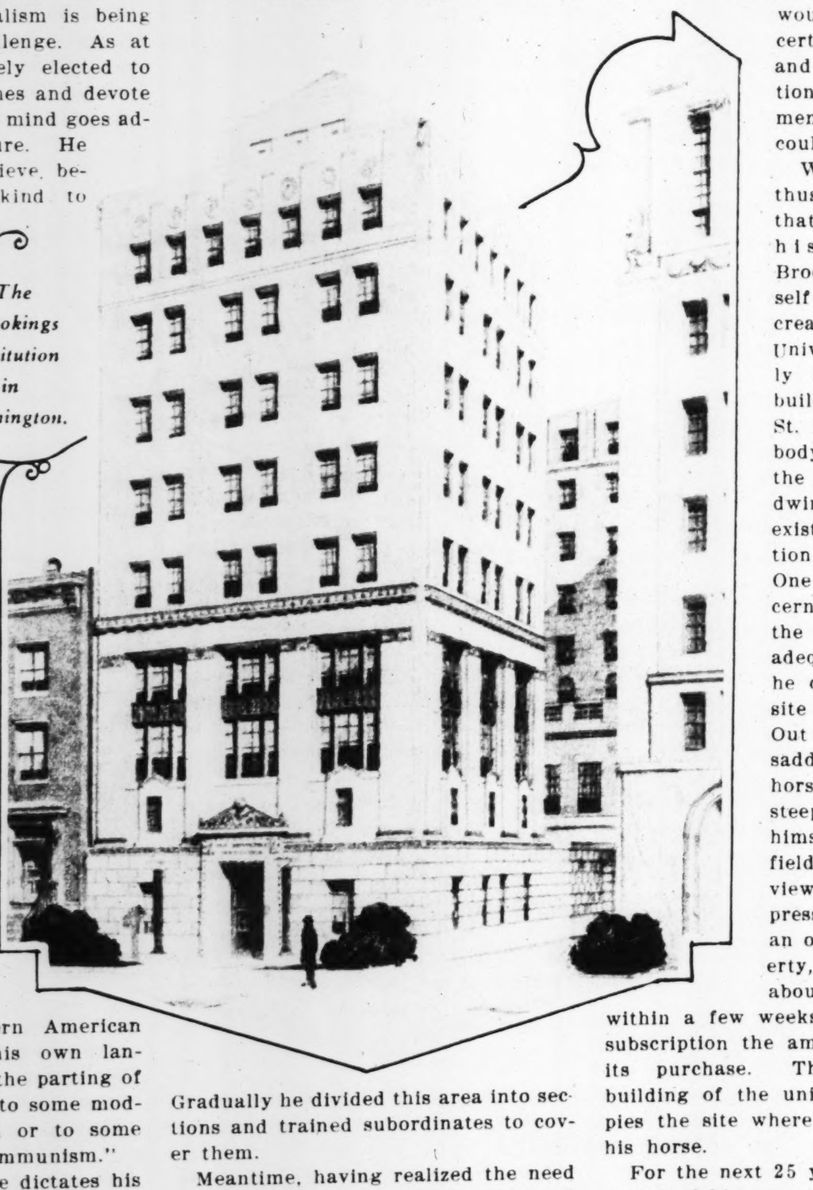
It is gratifying to record at this point that the eye operations, considering the age of the patient, were remarkably successful. Blindness had been imminent. With the removal of a cataract the sight of the left eye was restored to such an extent that Mr. Brookings is now able to play bridge—next to golf his favorite diversion—and to read with the aid of a glass. He left the hospital and returned to his Washington home last January.

Robert Somers Brookings, one-time merchant and present philanthropist, of St. Louis and Washington, was born in Cecil County, Maryland, January 22, 1850, so that he is now 81 years old. His father died when he was two. His schooling broken off by the necessity of shifting for himself, he left home at 16 and joined an older brother who had become a salesman for Cupples & Marston, woodenware manufacturers and jobbers, in St. Louis. Robert got a job as receiving clerk for the same firm.



He started at $25 a month. This sum being barely sufficient to pay his board, he persuaded the firm's bookkeeper to let him earn an extra $10 a month by working at night on the books. He decided to make himself a salesman. The country buyers of that day customarily came to town for their wares, instead of being visited by "drummers," and he soon learned that by getting down to the store in the morning ahead of the regular salesmen he would have a chance to wait upon the early arrivals. He did so well that when he was 18 the firm put him on the road as a traveler.

Denver, Salt Lake City and San Francisco were on his route. As the Union Pacific and the Central Pacific railroads had not then been completed, he had to drive great distances across the plains between railroad terminals. Herds of buffalo were a familiar sight. His success in getting business was rewarded on January 1, 1872, before his twenty-second birthday, by admission to partnership in the Cupples firm. For several years, however, he continued to travel, covering the entire territory from New Orleans to St. Paul and from Cincinnati to San Francisco. Gradually he divided this area into sections and trained subordinates to cover them.



The Brookings Institution in Washington.

Meantime, having realized the need of further education, he had entered upon a course of reading and study outlined for him by Dean Snow of Washington University. The reading habits thus acquired have stayed with him through his life.

Leaving the road in 1878, Brookings for the next 18 years, until his retirement in 1896, devoted himself intensely to the upbuilding of the Cupples house. New lines of manufacture were added, new inventions utilized. The business before many years had become the largest of its kind in the world, with a volume of trade equalling that of all the other woodenware houses in the United States combined. In 1882 it was incorporated as the Samuel Cupples Woodenware Company, with Samuel Cupples as president and Brookings as vice president and general manager, a position he held until his retirement.

We come now to Mr. Brookings' "last of life, for which the first was made." He had amassed a comfortable fortune; the road to the accumulation of one of the nation's greatest fortunes lay straight ahead. But the making of money had ceased to have its old appeal. He decided that he could get far greater satisfaction from administering his own estate in life, than from piling up more money for others to administer after his death. To the upbuilding of Washington University, of whose corporation he had been made the president in 1895, he gave his first attention.

"Why," he was asked recently, "did you elect to devote yourself and your estate to education?"

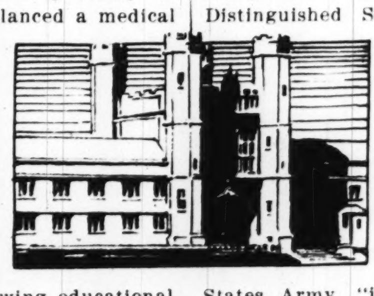
"AFTER I had given nearly 30 years of my life to the accumulation of an estate," he replied, "I began to ask myself whether the development of the Cupples company and my other interests had not pretty nearly reached the climax of that sort of satisfaction. I concluded that I could get more pleasure out of giving my money and the rest of my life to some public service.

"I investigated nearly every form of philanthropy, and gave some thought to a political career. I finally made up my mind that the thing most worth while was the training of men and women for leadership. The dynamic development of modern civilization, with its complex social problems, would require, I felt certain, all the trained and intelligent direction which a government by the people could secure."

With the same enthusiasm and vigor that had characterized his business career, Brookings threw himself into the task of recreating Washington University. It was poorly housed in a few buildings in downtown St. Louis; the student body was small, and the endowment had so dwindled that the very existence of the institution was threatened. One of his first concerns was to provide the university with an adequate campus. How he came to select the site he has since told. Out for exercise in the saddle, he galloped his horse one day up a steep hill and found himself in an open field. The commanding view of the city impressed him. He took an option on the property, which consisted of about 100 acres, and within a few weeks had obtained by subscription the amount required for its purchase. The administration building of the university now occupies the site where Brookings halted his horse.

For the next 25 years, save for the period of his war service in Washington, Brookings gave practically all his time to the development of the university. He contributed to it some $5,000,000 of his own funds and persuaded others to give. The campus was enlarged to 150 acres, making it probably the largest urban university campus in the world. The approaches were safeguarded by obtaining restrictions on nearby residence property. A noble group of buildings, of a consistent architecture, came into being. Brookings himself gave the administration building, Samuel Cupples two buildings for engineering, Adolphus Busch the chemistry building and Stephen Ridgley the library building. The endowment of the university was raised to over $12,000,000.

Brookings gave special thought to medical education. Determined to create a medical school, as part of the university, that should rank with the best in the world, he visited and studied the workings of nearly all the important medical training centers in this country and Europe. His plans came to fruition in 1913 and 1914, when he built and equipped an up-to-date plant out of his own funds. Additional and generous contributions have since come from other sources, among them the General Education Board, founded by John D. Rockefeller. Brookings is justifiably proud of the medical school. "It challenges comparison today," he has said, "with any in the world, the medical profession being agreed that it is probably as complete and well balanced a medical plant as exists in this or any other country."



Brookings continued at the head of the Washington University Corporation until 1928, when failing health and the desire to give more time to his growing educational enterprises at Washington caused his resignation. He was made president emeritus. In 1929 the university gave him the honorary degrees of Doctor of Laws and Doctor of Medicine, the latter in recognition of his pre-eminent service in the field of medical education. It was one of the very rare occasions on which a medical degree had been conferred on a non-medical man.

Brookings' work for the university was interrupted in 1917, when President Wilson called him to Washington to assist in the organization of the War Industries Board. Brookings was made the chairman of the Price-Fixing Committee of the board, and in this capacity he fixed the prices on more than $30,000,000,000 worth of goods. The President, he has testified, never failed to back up his decisions. He believes that the President's price-fixing proclamations must have been turned out on an old-fashioned copper press, for the copies that reached him by messenger from the White House were always damp.

"President Wilson's grasp of business details and the underlying economic values," Brookings has said, "was almost uncanny in one whose training had been so little in this direction. His courage and wise decisions were an inspiration to all of us who had the rare opportunity of personal contact with him."

Brookings' war services have been recognized by the award to him of the Distinguished Service Medal of the United States, and the medals of the Legion of Honor of France and the Commander of the Crown of Italy. In 1925 he was made honorary adviser to the Industrial College of the United States Army, "in recognition of his valuable contribution to the national security through industrial preparedness."

After the war Brookings began to devote more and more of his energies to the Washington foundations which have lately been combined in the Brookings Institution. He had already become deeply interessted in the financial aspects of the national Government. At the request of President Taft he had made a study of the Taft budget bill, and the defeat of that measure, by a combination of both parties, had strengthened his conviction that non-partisan effort must be exerted toward improving the economy and efficiency of the national Government. Consequently, he had joined with a group of public spirited men, in 1916, in the organization of the Institute for Government Research. Two years later, when the institute was languishing for lack of funds, Brookings took the chairmanship and procured enough annual subscriptions to put the enterprise on a firm basis. Throughout all his career as a philanthropist, he has been not only a giver of money but an extraordinarily effective collector

ENCOURAGED by the success of the Institute for Government Research, which is properly given a large share of the credit for the passage by Congress of the national budget bill of 1921, Brookings in 1922 persuaded the Carnegie Corporation to set aside a large sustaining fund for an institute of economics. The purpose of this was "the assembling and interpretation of economic data which form the bases of national and international policies." Brooking was made the president of this institute and presented to it, for headquarters, a modern eight-story office building in the national capital. In 1923, with the purpose of training college men for public service, he launched a graduate school in economics and government and provided a commodious downtown residence for the use of its students.

In 1927 his manifold activities in Washington culminated in the foundation of the Brookings Institution, an amalgamation of the two institutes and the training school. Instruction which had been given in the latter toward the Doctor of Philosophy degree was discontinued and the training function was raised to a super-graduate level.

The Institution has already taken high rank as a research center. Its staff, headed by Dr. Harold G. Moulton, formerly professor of economics at the University of Chicago, includes

CHICAGO.

WHEN the Museum of Science and Industry is completed here it will be possible to see in miniature the whole history of man's progress through the ages. Working models of all the devices that have helped the human species to climb above the brute level are being prepared for this unique museum with such accuracy and care and on such an extensive scale that when the building is completed and all the exhibits installed it will have a value of $60,000,000. And each of these hundreds of thousands of models and devices will actually work—the wheels will go round. So that by punching a button or turning a lever the curious visitor can see paint being manufactured or coal being mined or a Roman pile driver in action.

The museum will be like the inside of father's watch, on a huge scale, and with enough wheels turning at will to not only please the small boy but his parents, too. It is obviously the museum above all others for mechanically-minded America. The average American has an apparently insatiable curiosity as to what makes machinery go round. The answer will be found in Chicago's new museum. It was because of the irresistible appeal that a similar museum had for one small boy that Chicago is to have this institution.

TOURING Europe with his family about 20 years ago, Julius Rosenwald stopped in Munich. The second day there the family was alarmed by the disappearance of William, aged 12. He had gone out for a short walk in the morning, just to go a few blocks from the hotel. Noon and lunch time passed and no William. By 4 o'clock the Rosenwalds were frantic. They notified the police of the boy's disappearance.

At a quarter to 6 William walked into the hotel looking somewhat preoccupied and weary, but otherwise very happy. After father and mother had both said a number of things about boys of 12 who wandered away in strange cities, all of which seemed to surprise William, he got a chance to explain. He had spent the entire day in a museum, he said. Somehow the time had slipped away. This explanation seemed scarcely satisfactory and the elder Rosenwald said he would go with William the next day to see what kind of place this Deutsches Museum was which could hold the attention of a youngster for so long. As the late Mrs. Rosenwald used to tell the story, that was the last she saw of both William and her husband for nearly a week.

It was then Mr. Rosenwald decided that if ever he was able to afford philanthropy on a big scale he would give such a museum to the city of Chicago. He was already well on the way to amassing a large fortune. More candid than most captains of industry, he readily concedes that his wealth is due in considerable part to luck, and he has felt for a long time that he is more or less in duty bound to give away the bulk of his money. A few years ago, with the aid of several experts, he set to work at this not inconsiderable task. An extensive plan of rural education in the South and various philanthropies are absorbing the Rosenwald fortune, much as the Rockefeller millions are slowly being spent.

But Mr. Rosenwald had not forgotten his ambition to give a technical museum to Chicago. In 1926 he announced his intention of giving $3,000,000 for such a museum, on condition that it would be housed in the old Fine Arts Building, a crumbling survival of the Columbian Exposition of 1893 in Chicago's Jackson Park. It is a handsome, classical shell on a solid masonry structure, and had long been both a problem and an eyesore. The South Park Board Commissioners scarcely knew what to do with it and so they welcomed the Rosenwald suggestion. A $5,000,000 bond issue was quickly passed. When the commissioners advertised for bids, however, it was discovered that it would cost considerably more than $5,000,000 to reconstruct the Fine Arts Building so that it would serve the purposes of a museum. Mr. Rosenwald came forward with an offer of $2,000,000 to make up the difference, on condition that the entire building be given over to the Museum of Science and Industry. The name was chosen at his insistence, in opposition to the trustees, who wanted to call it the Rosenwald Museum.

An organization was perfected three years ago, with Waldemar Kaempffert as director. The job he faced was almost altogether a new one. For the Museum of Science, with 600,000 square feet of floor space, will be considerably larger than the one in Munich.

The visitor to the new museum, which will be opened the latter part of 1932 or the first of 1933, will enter a great central rotunda. From this central rotunda, which will contain only one intensely dramatic exhibit—possibly a lightning machine, to hurl artificial thunderbolts across a wide arc—the visitor will have a choice of 16 avenues of approach to the exhibit rooms which are to be grouped under six main classifications. These are: (1) Physics, Chemistry, Astronomy; (2) Geology and the Mineral Industries; (3) Agriculture and Forestry; (4) Motive Power; (5) Transportation and Communication, and (6) Civil Engineering and Public Works.

In each one of these sections there will be what the curators call "living" exhibits. The division of geology and the mineral industries, for example, will not contain specimens in a case. The visitor will step into a mine-skip and descend into a replica of a real coal mine. He will feel the dampness beneath his feet and see veins of coal, on which miners are working. The old and new machines that aid the miner are to be there, with the mechanism laid bare and explained. Dioramas—small, illuminated stages—will bring out more clearly the less obvious process in wresting coal from the earth. At various points in the coal mine and elsewhere throughout the museum there will be motion pictures, automatically projected, detailing the geological explanation of how the coal came to be in the earth.

Similarly, in the department given over to agriculture and forestry, each exhibit will be dramatized. The development of the plow will be shown from the first forked stick to the great motor-powered gang plow used in large-scale farming. And beside the first crude McCormick reaper will stand the modern equivalent, an impressive machine that performs a half-dozen or more operations as it moves across the field. And when the visitor presses the button on the railing fencing off the exhibits they will begin to function. A great many exhibits will, of course, have to be fenced off to save the overly curious from personal injury.

Even the physical sciences have been dramatized in a series of displays that work. There will be 26 exhibit rooms in this department, ranging from No. 1, the origin of science, through mathematics, sound, music, hall of electromagnetism, modern photographic processes, down to the theory of relativity. An ellipsoidal ceiling in the room devoted to sound will provide a whispering gallery in which strange acoustical tricks will be possible.

In the transport section the visitor will get on a Pullman car that will display the entire evolution of the sleeping car, starting at one end with the first crude straw-covered bunks and ending with the most modern accommodations. The various sections of this car will vibrate in accord with the period in railroad history from which they date. And it will be possible in a short walk to experience every kind of roadway since the dawn of history, the first rude path of the savage, the Via Appia of ancient Rome, the muddy, bumpy road of the Middle Ages and the modern hard road of cement or macadam.

The thousands of exhibits that will fill the Museum of Science and Industry are rapidly emerging from the blueprint stage. Within 10 years after the opening of the museum it is estimated that the exhibits will be worth more than $50,000,000. Eighty per cent of these are being donated. The curators of various divisions have succeeded in interesting corporations in contributing not only historic models but in building special displays showing the evolution of the commodity in which they deal. Thus, the Pullman company is building the special Pullman car and the McCormick company is building the reaper display.

Some of these exhibits are to cost more than $100,000. But the Bell Telephone Company, which is contributing a considerable part of the section displaying the progress of electric communication, will receive no more credit than the Indiana farmer who sent in an early scythe. Cards before each display will merely give the name of the donor. Since the first announcement of the museum a vast amount of material has been volunteered, ranging in scale from the complete equipment for a brewery to a distaff from the Kentucky mountains. The museum's chief competitor in securing historic models has been Henry Ford, who has spent millions on his Edison Institute at Dearborn. His agents throughout the country have orders to be constantly on the lookout for early material relating to the development of America.

The curators of the Chicago institution point out that to them historic models are of secondary importance, for they have had 50 craftsmen at work during the past year building models and exhibits. Some of these have required the efforts of several men working continuously for months. They are built very carefully and accurately to scale.

THE principal model shop, in quarters near the museum's temporary offices on Fifty-third street, on the South Side, might be easily mistaken for either a toy factory or a machine shop. On one table is the scale model of a sixteenth century mine shaft, showing in complete detail from pit head to diggings the mining operations of that period. In another corner is a Liberty motor, a contribution, which is being especially prepared for exhibition so that it will be possible to see the working of the valves and pistons through cylinder walls of glass.

As the Museum of Science and Industry is to be unique in America in its plan and conception, so its system of operation is to differ radically from all other museums. According to J. R. Van Pelt, acting director since the recent resignation of Kaempffert, it will take a week to see the museum proper, under the direction of the 150 guides to be provided. Although it will be possible for the casual visitor to play with the gadgets to his heart's content, careful provision is being made for visitors with a more serious purpose. For example, groups of school children will be taken through, introduced first to the basic sciences and then taken on through all the ramifications of present day industrial development. They will thus see, Van Pelt says, how the fundamental sciences have contributed to all forms of technical achievement. Careful provision has been made against museum fatigue, with pleasant lounging rooms scattered liberally through the building. The curators are not museum experts. Each is a specialist in some scientific field.

Although Mr. Rosenwald has delegated all authority to a board of trustees and to the staff of the museum, he still takes a keen interest in watching the project come into being. He follows each development, remembering, perhaps, his introduction 20 years ago to the fascinating mysteries of Munich's Deutsches Museum.

Interesting St. Louisans—Robert S. Brookings

some of the best known social scientists of the country. Research fellows have been attracted to it from a score of universities in this country and abroad, and it is expected that its facilities will be increasingly used by visiting foreign scholars. Research institutes, on the lines of the two original ones, will continue to be developed under its auspices as the means for establishing them are found. An Institute of International Relations and an Institute of Industrial Psychology have already been approved in principle by the Board of Trustees.

"Our primary purposes," said Brookings, the chairman of the board, "are to aid constructively in the development of national policies and to supplement the educational organization of the country. The research institutes of the institution will eventually cover the whole range of the social sciences."

"The Brookings Institution," says an announcement, "is firmly rooted in what is perhaps the greatest need of our civilization—the control of the almost unlimited forces which natural science has in recent years placed in the unready hands of society. The institution has been built to further that control, and had already done its part in demonstrating that the aim of social control is practical and attainable. It is, indeed, a field of work in which success may justly be called of paramount importance. The alternative of failure, in the view of many thoughtful students of history, implies the advent of a period of retrogression comparable to those Dark Ages which overshadowed civilization after the fall of Rome."

There has lately become associated with the founder, in the closest possible bonds, a woman animated by a philanthropic spirit akin to his own. When Washington thinks now of the Brookings benefactions it thinks of Isabel Valle January Brookings as well as of Robert Brookings. They were married in June, 1927, at Baltimore. She was 51 and he 77, and they had been friends for the greater part of their lives. Neither had been married before. Mrs. Brookings is a native of St. Louis, but for 25 years prior to her marriage had lived at San Remo, Italy.

In May of this year the institution moved into a handsome new eight-story limestone building on the west side of Lafayette Square. This was the gift of Mrs. Brookings. In the spacious lounge are two portraits, one to the right, the other to the left of the great fireplace. They are the only portraits in the room, and they occupy places of equal honor. This is as it should be. One portrait shows the distinguished countenance of Robert Brookings and the other the gracious features of his wife.

The Stony Path of the Archeological Mr. Murdock

IF YOU have ever attempted to interview anyone in the skeleton of a Diplodocus you will understand my confusion. I didn't know whether the proper thing to do was to saunter up the 50-foot tail—tradesman's entrance, I guess you'd call it—or shinny up a foreleg and use the front door.

Finally I compromised by knocking briskly on the monster's impressive jawbone. Mr. Murdock, the archeologist, thrust his head up over the left clavicle and asked what I wanted.

"A word or two with you," I answered.

"Nothing to do with bonds or insurance, has it?" he asked.

"No," I said, "I want to ask you a few questions, in private."

"Very well," said Mr. Murdock, "just chin yourself on one of those lower ribs and climb in. We can speak freely up here in the thorax."

Following instructions, I grasped a rib about the width of an automobile fender and pulled myself into the beast's spacious interior. A light was burning far above me.

"Now what do I do?" I yelled.

Mr. Murdock tossed down the free end of a rope and told me to catch hold.

With his assistance I made my precarious way up the breastbone, which, a few million years before, had heaved with Diplodocian sorrow or delight. A 20 to 30 foot heave I'd judge, offhand.

"Whew!" I said when I arrived at the top. "It's worse than climbing the Alps."

"NATURALLY," said Mr. Murdock severely. "Junior's older than the Alps."

"Who is Junior?" I asked.

"Why—our host," said Mr. Murdock, even more severely.

"Oh, of course," I said, feeling that I was getting off on the wrong foot.

Then, to smooth things over, I remarked: "Mighty nice place you have up here."

"I like it," he admitted modestly.

"Do you spend much time in Junior?" I asked.

"Not much," he said. "Occasionally his joints get to creaking and I drop in to brace him up a bit."

He led the way over to a corner, under the light. A cloth was spread with sandwiches, a tomato and a glass of milk. I had interrupted his lunch.

"Go right ahead," I said. "I'll talk to you when you are through."

"Sorry I can't offer you a sandwich," he replied, "but they're shad. Full of bones, you know. And you might get into trouble. I eat them just to sort of keep my hand in with the little fellows."

"They are bony," I said. "Awfully bony."

"Seven hundred and thirty-three, to be exact, unless you want to include the embryonic nodules that were probably once its hips," he informed me.

"The tomato I eat for dessert. There's nothing in the world like a good ripe tomato for taking an archeologist's mind off his work."

I explored a side passage to give him time to finish. Before I had gone far he called me.

"What did you want to see me about?"

"I understand that you haven't been told anything about it, Mr. Murdock, and I'm afraid it will be quite a shock to you. Your wife filed suit for divorce this morning."

He sprang to his feet. "Impossible," he shouted. "Impossible! It must have been some other Murdock, one of my cousins, perhaps. I have dozens of disagreeable cousins whose wives might very sensibly divorce them."

"No," I said, "it was your wife. I went to see her."

"What did she have to say?"

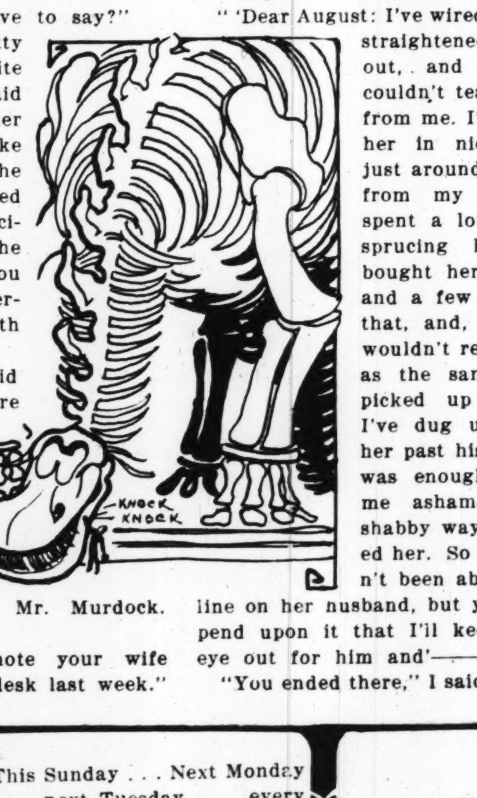
"Well, she was pretty much unstrung — quite bitter, in fact. Said that after keeping her 25 years in a home like a cross-section of the catacombs, bones piled everywhere and calcium salts powdering the floor an inch deep, you are now finding divertisement elsewhere, with another woman."

"That's news" said Mr. Murdock. "Where for instance?"

"She doesn't know. Your letter didn't say, exactly."

"What do you mean, young man?" asked Mr. Murdock. "And what letter?"

"The unfinished note your wife found lying on your desk last week."



"What about my unfinished note?"

"I have a copy of it, if it will refresh your memory. Listen:

"'Dear August: I've wired Hattie and straightened things out, and now you couldn't tear her away from me. I've installed her in nice quarters just around the corner from my office and spent a lot of money sprucing her up—bought her a new lid and a few things like that, and, really, you wouldn't recognize her as the same girl we picked up last year. I've dug up some of her past history and it was enough to make me ashamed of the shabby way I've treated her. So far, I haven't been able to get a line on her husband, but you can depend upon it that I'll keep a sharp eye out for him and'——

"You ended there," I said, "but Mrs. Murdock thinks that was enough."

"My boy," he said, sorrowfully, "my wife doesn't understand me."

"Permit me to stop you," I said. "I've heard that one."

He grasped my arm and led me to an opening in Junior's superstructure. Below us, to the left, was the Egyptian gallery.

"Look," he said. "The third mummy from the end. That is Hattie. Queen Hatasu. Notice how bright the gold and red decoration is? That's the new lid I spoke of in my letter. August is a colleague of mine who helped me with the excavating. She was so badly jumbled up when we found her that I decided to keep her in the basement until I had time to wire her up and make her presentable. And, oh, yes!—about her husband. We have an expedition over there now, searching for him. Amnopheron III, he was."

Mr. Murdock shook my hand. "You might drop in and explain things to Mrs. Murdock," he said.

He handed me the rope and lowered me to my point of entry. In dropping through to the floor I narrowly missed a flashily dressed young woman who was standing just below.

"That's right, clumsy," she protested. "Walk the whole length of me."

I begged her pardon.

She went back a few steps and peered up at the Diplodocus. "Hey, Murdock," she shouted. This is Hattie. How long do you think I'm going to wait for you? Shake it up."

A deep groan reverberated through Junior's ancient frame.

I staggered a few steps, astounded at the scientist's perfidy.

"Hattie," I said with inexcusable familiarity, upon recovering, "I think you've pulled a bone which even your learned friend will have a hard time explaining. Good day, and keep a weather eye out for Amnopheron."

» Wise Mother Nature gave us the idea for these crisp, delicious flakes

You'll like these golden-brown little flakes. They're good to look at and good to eat. Crisp. Crunchy. Deliciously sweet! You'd hardly believe that such tempting morsels could be useful, too—but they are! Extremely useful..

These delicious flakes do the same important work that some fruits and vegetables do! Natural, corrective work. Heinz Rice Flakes have a gentle, mildly laxative effect, just as plums and rhubarb have!—what is sometimes called a "corrective vegetable effect." They help to keep people healthy and well. No other rice flakes do this important corrective work!

We got the idea from Nature. And we used Nature's idea, too, when we made Heinz Rice Flakes taste so good. Nature doesn't approve of making foods "good-for-you," without making them good to eat, too. And neither do we! So you'll find these crisp little flakes every bit as delicious as other famous foods of the "57 Varieties."

Send for two generous trial packages—enough for six servings—FREE!

Mail the coupon for two trial packages of Heinz Rice Flakes—enough for six generous servings—free! Try the golden-brown flakes in milk or cream. See how crisp they stay. Taste them. Enjoy them—every day! You can trust Heinz Rice Flakes to do the rest.

Remember, too, that children especially love these crisp, crunchy flakes. And they need their corrective help just as much as you do. So let them have plenty of Heinz Rice Flakes for breakfast—and for lunch or after school.

The scientific story of Heinz Rice Flakes will probably interest you . . .

Heinz Rice Flakes not only furnish all the energy and nourishment of rice, but they supply an essential substance found in no other rice flakes. This substance is cereal-cellulose—one of the gentlest and most effective correctives known to man.

H. J. Heinz Company spent eight years in perfecting the exclusive process by which cereal-cellulose is added to Heinz Rice Flakes. During those eight years, and since then, careful tests have proved that Heinz Rice Flakes have the same corrective quality that Nature gives to some fruits and vegetables. It costs much more to make Heinz Rice Flakes this way. But it costs you no more.

COLLECTIVE FARMING IN RUSSIA—Men, women and children starting the day's tasks by marching to the fields outside Moscow—all a part of the Five-Year Plan upon which the leaders of the Soviet have staked their future. This scene, it is reported, could be duplicated in most of the agricultural sections of the nation.

TESTING FULL SIZE AIRPLANES WITH WIND TUNNEL—This is the largest apparatus of the kind ever built, and is part of the equipment for the study of aeronautics at Langley Field, Va. Its size can be estimated by height of man standing in the huge mouth of the tunnel itself, on the right. An equivalent of 115 miles an hour speed can be produced here, the emerging air column being 60 feet wide and 30 feet in height.

and MUM

THAT'S ALL YOU NEED FOR COMPLETE PROTECTION

THE old days when women thought that frequent bathing and a dash of perfume or talcum was protection against underarm perspiration odor, are gone forever.

And how glad women are! What a comfort it is to know that you can carry real insurance against this meanest of Nature's tricks.

Mum! A minute alone, any time, anywhere, and you're safe from that odor which always marks one as—well, at least insensitive to the nicer refinements.

That's why Mum is such a joy! You can use it while you're dressing. No fussing, no waiting for it to dry.

There's nothing in Mum that can possibly injure fabrics. And there's nothing in it that irritates the skin—even a sensitive skin. You can shave, put on Mum at once—and never a smart or burn!

Another thing—you know how odors cling to your hands when you prepare onions or fish for dinner, or when you have to sponge a spot with gasoline. Mum rubbed on the hands kills every lingering trace of odor instantly!

Carry Mum in your purse with your compact. Have underarm niceness always at hand. You can get Mum at all toilet goods counters, 35c and 60c. Mum Mfg. Co., Inc., 80 Varick St., New York, N. Y. Canadian address, Windsor, Ont.

SANITARY NAPKIN USE. You will be grateful to know that Mum on the sanitary napkin gives complete protection.

DON'T YOU FEEL WELL, MRS. WEATHERVANE?
NOT VERY, MISS CINDERS! I'M A POOR SAILOR! I USUALLY FEEL SEASICK THE FIRST SIX OR EIGHT DAYS OF THIS FIVE DAY VOYAGE TO HAWAII!
WHY DON'T YOU GO TO YOUR STATEROOM! I'LL STAY ON DECK AND LOOK AFTER ROSCOE — I'M A SEASONED SAILOR!
THAT WOULD BE LOVELY! I'M SURE YOU'LL FIND ROSCOE VERY EASY TO MANAGE!
NOW ROSCOE, I'M LEAVING YOU WITH MISS CINDERS! BE A GOOD BOY, AND DON'T FALL INTO THE OIL BARREL IN THE ENGINE ROOM, LIKE YOU DID YESTERDAY!
I WON'T, MAMA!
ROSCOE, COME RIGHT DOWN FROM THERE! THE OCEAN IS GETTING TERRIBLY ROUGH, AND YOU MIGHT FALL!
GOSH I'M FALLING!
ROSCOE, IF YOU DON'T STOP YOUR RECKLESS ANTICS I'M GOING TO TAKE YOU RIGHT TO YOUR MOTHER!
I-I'M BEGINNING TO WONDER IF I'M AS GOOD A SAILOR AS I - UH — TH-THOUGHT I WAS?
ROSCOE, IF YOU DON'T KILL YOURSELF YOU'LL KILL ME! OH, WHY CAN'T YOU GET SEASICK FOR A FEW MINUTES AND GIVE ME A REST?
I COULDN'T STAND IT DOWN THERE ANY LONGER, MISS CINDERS — I'M AFRAID I'M GOING TO DIE. I HOPE!
LET'S MAKE IT A PARTY!
ROSCOE, YOU MUSTN'T TRIP THE MAN!
OF ALL THE THINGS HE MIGHT HAVE DROPPED INTO MY LAP, IT HAD TO BE SALT PORK! AND IN MY CONDITION, TOO! OOOOOOOH! I WONDER IF THERE IS ANY HOPE OF THE BOAT SINKING?
